There ought to be law enough in North Carolina to prosecute the persons who have desecrated the grave of Prof. Mitchell so shamefully. Of course it is not certain that the names cut into the monument were placed there by the owners thereof, but the probability is that they were, and the question should be tested.

GORMAN'S POSITION

If we concede Senator Gorman's sincerity in the matter of opposing the House tariff bill we are at once struck with the fact that, with all that has been said and done for tariff reform and in spite of all the pledges of the party to which the Senator belongs, he yet remains unconverted to the true spirit of that measure.

Nevertheless so astute a politician and intelligent a man as Senator Gorman has not only entirely failed to note the progress of the demand for reform among the people, but has also failed to convince himself of the necessity of the reform itself. He yet remains a heartless protectionist.

Gorman still fights for the monopolist, for immense incomes for a few at the cost of the many, and it is no wonder that he is unable to comprehend the President's position, or the plain fact that the people, having voted for reform of the tariff, want precisely that and look to the Democratic party to furnish it, having sent it into power with credentials to that effect.

It is not at all unlikely that Gorman will pass off the stage of public life without having comprehended the nature of the reform in which he might have taken so conspicuous a part—an opportunity lost to him forever.

FAKERS

A London telegram says: The Macon, Ga., correspondent of the Spectator writes that a denial from Governor North of a story of the lynchings and slaying of a negro in that State, and in the course of the denial Governor North writes:

"I am thoroughly disgusted with the course of the English papers. I am satisfied that they do not want to know the truth." To this the Spectator answers: "These stories and other tales of a woman being rolled in a barrel, broiling with male negro children being lynched for trivial offenses, etc., come from American newspapers, who are sending false news to the English press for the sake of obtaining a few dollars." The Spectator adds: "We are glad to get reliable contradiction of such stories."

When the Hanes case in Mitchell county was running its course, the facts in the case, Tim Hanes, a negro, who had brought his suit into this county, and prosecution was promoted by one of the press associations. No move was ever made in that direction, however, and the had work done. In actual money how much did the South by the work of these fakers, hundreds of thousands of dollars, doubtless. Moreover, the matter is especially serious just now when the South's fertility, climate and scenic grandeur are attracting more and more attention. There should be an example made of some of these correspondents, if their lies are to be stopped. The lynching business is bad enough, without wild exaggerations and out-and-out lies to intensify its worst features.

A MIDNIGHT WEDDING.

The Like Was Never Before Seen. From the Wayneville Courier. A very unique and romantic wedding took place at Mr. L. P. Hips, on Crabtree, Sunday morning, the 15th inst., at 1 a. m.

Miss Minnie West has made her home with Mr. Hips for several years past, while the gentleman, Robert Hogan, was a son of one of Mr. Hips' tenants. Another tenant conceived the idea that it would be very romantic to have the young couple elope and marry without Mr. Hips' knowledge. To this end he planned everything for the pair with, he supposed, the utmost skill and secrecy. The lites were arranged late Saturday from Wayneville and the elopement was planned for the next day.

But Mr. Hips, with his usual enterprise, had discovered the whole plot. At nine Saturday night he had a talk with the prospective bride and groom. As a result at eleven he rode off for Squire Walker. Mrs. Hips and the bride were being awaked from their heavy slumber, gladly went about to decorate and illuminate the house. Soon the whole household was active, filling and trimming lamps, wreathing flowers, etc., all being performed amid titter and suppressed laughter, lest the tenant, who was to have engineered the elopement the following day, and who lived a little down the road, might discover what was going on.

At half past twelve, midnight, Mr. Hips, Squire Walker and a friend rode up cautiously and stealthily. The company collected in the parlor. Soon the strains of the wedding march reached forth from the hands of Mrs. J. M. Leach; the bride and groom entering were quickly made one by the Squire and received the congratulations of the audience.

AT WORK AGAIN.

A Critical View of the Business Situation.

Factories of every kind are resuming operations all over the country. Operations had in numerous instances been suspended for lack of fuel after the coal strike became general. Other concerns closed until wages were settled for the coming 12 months. Very many shut down on account of the railroad strike, which cut off their receipts of materials as well as prevented shipments of products. In other cases it was necessary to take some time for repairs usually done at this season of the year. It is gratifying to note that the resumption of work is quite general. Among those which have started up are not a few whose owners had a short time since were in doubt as to whether they would not find it impracticable to reopen their doors until well into the fall. That they have come to a different conclusion is evidently due to the fact that the demand for their goods is improving and prospects for business are therefore brighter. The Western banks report a better demand for money from their country clients, which they are pleased to see. The current trade are beginning to flow again and the movement thus begun may reasonably be expected to gather strength until the producers of raw products are also affected. As long as so many industries are on a high and steel works are idle or running light, the business of the country is seen to be not in a healthy condition. But they may be expected to gradually fall in line from this time forward. The worst is over and the country is far from being ruined.
