MONDAY, AUGUST 6, 1894.

It is hard these days to pick up a newspaper that hasn't an advertisement of the noble pastime of bicycling, but we did not think the Pope would help on the good work. He has, however. Some priests were scandalizing their people in the old country by riding the cycle, and the Pope was appealed to to stop the awful breach of dignity. The Pope, however, says that in 1845 a Catholic priest invented and rode a bicycle, and he now decides that "the Catholic clergy may ride wheels in the service of the church, notably when called to make horrid visits upon parishioners or to administer the last sacrament to the dying."

Our English cousins forget their much advertised "love of fair play" when the Vigilant crossed the line ahead of the Britannia Saturday. Instead of cheers for the victor in appreciation of a great victory and given in the spirit of "may the best boat win," the Vigilant was received in almost total silence. Perhaps this was because the Britannia is the Prince of Wales' yacht, and it was felt that royalty must not be treated thusly by a showing of low down the yacht of a mere plebeian passing beneath the faster boat; but the silence of the English crowd Saturday was in strong and unmistakable contrast to the applause that has always greeted the victory of an English yacht in our waters.

The convict Tillman and Butler are making in South Carolina is a fight like anything political ever seen before anywhere. It is not a discussion, for the parties to the canvass do not discuss. It is not a debate, for there is no debating. The other day Tillman and Butler became engaged in a railroad car in one of their exhibitions of how much abuse the human tongue can deliver in a given time, when the conductor came and ordered them to shut up. They did so. It is evident that South Carolina's reputation for having a citizen in office will be greatly increased by having this same conductor to go with Tillman and Butler and keep their silly billingsgate in their heads—the only abiding place for it.

It appears that what we do not know about dynamite would make a book. When some of the rails were put on the rails near Darien, Ga., where a passenger train would run over it, the object being to wreck and then pillage the train, the program worked out as to exploding the dynamite was correct, the locomotive and several cars being thrown off, but the robbers were driven off by the terrible noise concerning the affair. It was the side of a hill which cut off the other train and so a similar track was thrown on explosion, the explosion of a keg of dynamite could have been heard for miles on a still night. The person who should be found guilty of placing the dynamite should be punished to the extent of the law, and a reward of $1,000 in gold has been offered for the discovery of the guilty parties. The dynamite was evidently placed there by those who had failed in the attempt to wreck the train by displacing the rails, and the fiendish conception of the deed is only equaled by the cowardice of the perpetrators.

MONAZITE.

A Recap of Money Made in Certain Land Counts.

The money is said [illegible] one hundred who [illegible] money out of the [illegible] $120 cash [illegible]

Last Thursday was a big day for the monazite men, when Mr. Pierre, agent of the Wisconsin Investment and Light Co., of Gloucester, N. J., sold in one day $2,080 for a car load of monazite. This amount put in cars for shipment is only a precursor to larger amounts and larger shipments of monazite to New Jersey.

Monazite, whose most valuable ingredient is thoria—worth more than gold, is being extensively mined in Rutherford, Mcllowell, Cleveland, Lincoln and Spartanburg counties and promises to be worth more than a dozen gold mines, and our farmers, since the process is published or "hard by," are busy prospecting and digging up this valuable and abundant mineral used in electricity. About $10,000 has already been paid in this county.

The process of securing monazite is similar to "gold digging," as monazite and gold are very heavy and noted for their heavy specific gravity, sinking to the bottom of the pan or trough while the sand and light particles are washed away and float upon the water, the monazite remaining in the bottom.

The Party Bigger Than Both.

From the Durham Globe.

Senator Jarvis and Senator Ransom stand in the path of Democracy today. If these two gentlemen, both of whom have had numerous honors at the hands of the party, would retire it would end a factional fight that, if persisted in, may cause serious rupture in the party's ranks.

Jarvis and Ransom

From the Concord Standard.

A gentleman remarked Wednesday night that "it is a pity such a good paper as the Charlotte Observer is should undertake an absolute impossibility—to defeat Jarvis." Jarvis columns grow, Ransom's diminish constantly. It is as the people will have it.

AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Rev. J. C. McReynolds' Sermon On "The Sabbath."

There was a fair congregation present last evening to hear the sermon of Rev. J. C. McReynolds at the Christian church on "The Sabbath or the Lord's Day—Which?" or "The Old Covenant or the New Covenant—Which?" Mr. McReynolds said: "I am fully satisfied that the day Christendom observes is the Lord's day. The word covenant means testament. It is necessary we must know who is speaking, Moses or Christ, Isaiah or Paul. We must know who is being addressed, Jew or Gentile, saint or sinner, whether under old covenant or new covenant. I allude to the perpetuity of the law, the ten commandments. They were never changed or abolished. They are alike in the Old Testament and the New Testament, or the old covenant and the new covenant. While you find many differences in the gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, they all say that Christ was born under the law, lived up to the law and commanded His disciples to keep the law. In Hebrews 8 you will find: 'Behold I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah. Not according to the covenant I made with their fathers when I took them by the hand to lead them out of Egypt, because they continued not in my covenant and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.'

"Now when the new covenant was made the old covenant was ready to vanish away. God gave the old covenant in the ten commandments. He gave the new covenant in His son Jesus Christ. The old covenant went forth from Mt. Sinai; the new covenant went forth from Mt. Zion. On the day the covenant was made on Mt. Zion 3,000 souls were made alive in Christ Jesus, and on the day that the old covenant was made on Mt. Sinai about 3,000 souls were slain by the sword of the people of Levi. After the new law had gone forth you find the new testament as silent as the grave concerning the Sabbath. There is not a single command in the New Testament to keep the Sabbath after the new covenant. Behold, 'This is my beloved Son, hear ye Him.' As much as to say you have heard Moses all through the ages, now hear ye him. The law was given by Moses—grace and truth by Jesus Christ. The old covenant is done away with, typical in its limitation, while the new covenant is on. You say if the old law, the ten commandments, is done away with then we have nothing to keep on. I say not so, for all the other nine commandments are found in the New Testament, for nothing is said about the fourth one. Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.'

"Mr. Brunson says if we keep the seventh day there can be no atheists or infidelity. I ask in reference to the first day in memorial to our Christ's triumph over the grave, can there be any atheists or infidels? Can there be any argument more than is equal to the other? Although it was great to create the world from nothing it was greater still to redeem it. The resurrection is the most stupendous thing in all scripture. You can find no authority do we keep the first day. In Acts 20:7 you will find: 'And upon the first day of the week when the disciples came together to break bread Paul preached unto them.' The breaking of bread is all-sufficient to mean the Lord's Supper. You will see in the verse reading 'That were the disciples came together.' Does that imply that it was the custom to do it, therefore, Barnabas spoke of the epistle day meaning the festival which he and Christ on the eighth day arose from the dead when they were kept sacred to his memory.

"But some of you will say that the change was made by the Roman Catholics. Are you familiar with that statement? It is true that Constantine, a heathen ruler, brought to favor the Catholic church, passed a decree that the first day should be kept in honor of the sun, but it was calculated as the Lord's day more than. You see that Barnabas and Paul they observed that day. This was in the year 72 and the Roman Catholic church was not established until the fourth century.

"How about the days of Moses how are we to live in all climates for the law of Moses excludes building fires on the Sabbath. Moses sentenced a man to be stoned to death who was caught gathering sticks on the Sabbath to build a fire. Will you put to death a man who builds a fire on the Sabbath? No, it will punish him. If you cause the penalty you do away with the law. If you can show me from the scriptures where it is right and true to keep the Sabbath day then I am a Sabbatarian.

In conclusion Mr. McReynolds said: 'It is perfectly natural that Mr. Brunson should have gone the way he did. Holding to the perpetuity of the old law, the ten commandments, is the strong hold of the Baptists in fact most all of the denominations. I say in all earnestness that I think he is chasing a shadow. I would not be surprised to see denominations turn Sabbatarians, except disciples of Christ, Christians, for we are disciples of Christ and not of Moses.'

Dear Sir—I think your "Favorite Prescription" was the preservation of my life. I was under the doctor's care for three months with womb disease and a gradual wasting all the time. I was so weak that I could not be raised in bed when I commenced taking the "Prescription," and by the time I had taken three bottles I was up and going wherever I pleased, and have had good health and been very strong ever since. That was four years ago. I have recommended it to a good many of my friends, and they have taken it and are highly pleased.

What Ida B. Wells Should Turn Her Attention To.

From the New York Sun.

It seems superfluous to say that we regard much or most in the manner of Miss Wells's charges as unfortunate and impertinent. Lynching is not confined to the South. There is hardly a State outside of New England where it has not been resorted to, and recently. The special cause which exists for the lynching of colored men at the South cannot be removed by legislation, by English sympathy, by any amount of sentimental palaver. It would be well for the South, and for the West and East, to learn to have sufficient sufficient self-control and respect for law to keep in the hands of the laws and the courts the trial of all persons charged with criminal offences. Mob law is a crime, whether in the hands of strikers trying to maintain a monopoly of labor, or in the hands of citizens of the vicinage, manifesting their virtue or getting their revenge by putting a man to death without warrant of law. All this is a truism. In the case of the lynchings of colored men at the South, however, there is this to say: The moment the colored citizen of the South gives up his favorite crime, that moment 99 per cent. of the Southern lynchings will cease. Instead of defaming the white women of the South, Miss Ida B. Wells might better try to tame the brutal and bestial natures of too many men of her own color in the South.
