ONE WAY OF PLAYING BALL BUT NOT THE USUAL ASHEVILLE WAY.

The Asheville people, after Saturday's game with Spartanburg, are able to see how it is possible that the Asheville team, almost invincible at home, manages to lose two out of three games when it is away. The team lost two games out of three to the visitors on the home grounds, something that has not been done for any other team this season. Saturday's game was not won by Spartanburg; it was lost by a poor exhibition of ball playing at critical points as Asheville ever gave. Add to this the magnificent work done by James and there is enough cause for the defeat. Asheville got only three hits off last tremendous delivery. Up to the sixth inning Spartanburg had secured only three hits off Stephens, but after the trifling fielding was done the hungry Palmettoans caught eight more hits, a quite unusual total. It was a game that the home team may regret in sackcloth and ashes.

In fairness, however, it must be said that the game was not lost on the outfield, nor by all the infield. Robertson, Young and Williams took good care of their grounds and the latter made as beautiful a play as has ever been seen at Allendale. He accepted a desperate chance in the third, caught Thomas' fly and threw true and swift as a cannon shot to Green in time to put out Powell, making a double play.

With hits by Green and Stephens, errors by Powell and Beers, the latter muffing a long fly from Stanley, Asheville managed to score four runners in the first. Powell was given his base on balls and then Thomas went down on an error by Metz. He was forced out at second, and with two on bases, Crawley rapped out a little three-bagger that brought them home. King got a hit, and while the crowd was arguing as to a "hit by batted ball" King started for third. Stanley was the only man near and he went for the base. Green threw to him wild and another run was added. Asheville's last run was made in the fifth by Williams, who started off on an error by Thomas. He was advanced by Green's second hit of the three given by James and the long right fielder scored on a fly out by Stephens to center where Sullivan had been put after Beers' costly error.

In the sixth two men went out quickly. James came to bat and hit a fly that came down back of second. Metz has taken many a more difficult ball, but he didn't take this one. He did, Stanley or Williams, who started for it, at though it was the baseman's ball. The chance to retic the side was lost. King hit and Sullivan followed with a triple that scored two. Metz made another error and let Haggin to first, while Sullivan trotted home and put the visitors ahead. They took a double and three singles in the eighth and made the score 8 to 5. It was a game to be remembered for its rankness, but for the sake of the days that have been, now that the story has been told, let the mantle of charity be draped around it and shut it from sight forever. The races in the large and small pony events are owned in Asheville. Several other horses are expected to arrive.

The races will be held at 4 o'clock each afternoon. Persons wishing to go out may take cars at the postoffice on the square and connect at the depot with cars for the track. The last route for vehicles over the road through the old fair grounds, crossing the main road between the passenger and freight depots.

A large ad. of the races will be found on another page of THE CITIZEN today. VIRGIL GOODLACK PROBABLY DROWNED. A letter received Saturday by Mrs. W. Goodlake brought the news of an accident to her son, Virgil Goodlake, which occurred Friday. He was on his way from Lexington, Ky., and at Danville, that State, he was thrown from a freight train and run over, one of his legs being crushed at the knee. The first response to the letter said the surgeon might lose his leg, but later on it stated that his recovery was doubtful. Yesterday Mrs. Goodlake received a telegram saying that her son's condition was critical. In response to this Mrs. Goodlake left the 4 o'clock train yesterday to be at her son's bedside.

Mr. Goodlake is about 17 years old and left Asheville only about 10 days ago. TO BE EVICTED. Chicago, Aug. 13.—Mr. Pullman has decided to turn his striking tenants into the streets. The excuse given for turning the strikers out of their homes is that the houses are needed by new workmen who have taken the places of strikers, though there are now nearly 100 vacant houses of various kinds in Pullman.

Chinese Treaty Endorsed. Washington, Aug. 13.—The Senate went into executive session today and ratified the Chinese treaty. OUTSIDE OF DUPLICATE. Forest City Ledger: A sad and distressing accident occurred at Henrietta Tuesday about 10 o'clock, while Gilbert Gillespie and another young man were building a log stable. Young Mr. Gillespie was climbing on the wall which was completed a little above the door, his foot slipped out of the crack, and in attempting to save himself he pulled the top log off, which fell on his head crushing the skull. He lived until late in the evening. Deceased was about 21 years of age, a son of J. L. Gillespie.

H. G. Connor writes the Concord Times: I ask here to say to the public that the act of the ex-citation of the Populists, on yesterday, in presenting my name for justice of the Supreme court, was without my consent. Those who know me well would not need this assurance. Being and always have been a Democrat, I cannot give my consent to the use of my name in opposition to a nominee of my party.

Shelley Amara: Robert Downs bought a small farm on Knob Creek for $400. This year he extracted from his branches $800 worth of monzite and says he would not take $800 for the monzite left on his farm. Mr. Elley Martin has a farm in the western part of Cleveland. It is regarded as a poor farm, yet his son dug out $1,000 worth of monzite this year.

A COMPLETE SURRENDER HOUSE WILL ADOPT THE SENATE BILL.

Speaker Crisp and Chairman Wilson say it must be this or no tariff legislation separate bills for sugar, iron ore and coal. WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A meeting was held in Speaker Crisp's room this morning to decide what action the House leaders should take with reference to the tariff bill in caucus. There were present, besides the speaker, Wilson of West Virginia, McMillan of Tennessee, Montgomery of Kentucky, Turner of Georgia and Breckinridge of Arkansas. At five minutes before 10 o'clock the statement was made on the authority of one of these gentlemen that it had been decided to accept the Senate bill.

When the caucus met Wilson (chairman of the ways and means committee) took the floor. Although outwardly cool he was manifestly laboring under deep emotion. He said that the representatives of the House had gone into the conference with the desire of faithfully representing the wishes of their colleagues, but they had failed to reach a satisfactory conclusion—a conclusion honorable alike to the House and to the Democratic party—was not their fault. Wilson went on to show that the House conferees had contended stoutly for a specific rather than an ad valorem duty on sugar. The specific duty would show the benefit the trust would get and it would be impossible to determine this under an ad valorem system. He said that the sugar trust, becoming convinced that the Senate schedule would be adopted, had made heavy purchases of foreign raw sugar. He then made the startling statement, on the authority of a leading Democratic Senator, that the trust had bought sugar to the amount of $2,122,000,000 in foreign markets in anticipation of the Senate sugar schedule, involving the approval of the President, under the Senate's schedule the trust would reap a profit of $10,000,000.

The declaration made by Wilson that the "sugar trust" had bought the thousands of tons of raw sugar in a battle between the people and this great monopoly, was greeted with a hearty round of applause.

Wilson referred to the proposition made to the House conferees by their senatorial associates to accept free sugar. This proposition was rejected, inasmuch as the representatives of the House had accustomed that a compact existed in the Senate to defeat tariff legislation or postpone its consideration until next December of free sugar were made a part of the conference report. He urged at this point and called in on his associates, Montgomery, Breckinridge, McMillan and Turner to substitute this statement.

McMillan said that from the beginning of the conference they had been given to understand, from day to day, that any displacement of the Senate votes on sugar, coal and iron ore would lead to the absolute defeat, or at least the postponement of the bill.

Wilson stated substantively that there was no prospect for turning the Senate bill into law unless the Senate bill was adopted.

When Wilson had finished Speaker Crisp arose, he began by saying that while the Senate bill must be adopted, House would make a determined effort for re-sugar. His declaration that the House representatives had used every honorable and fair means to secure the passage of their bill was vigorously applauded.
