SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1894.

A BARNARDSVILLE correspondent, who in refreshing comparison with recent correspondents, signs his name to his communication, says: "As for the legisature, the people of Ivy want men who are for and will stand by free and unlimited coinage of silver." It may be heresy, but THE CITIZEN, realizing that the State legislature has nothing whatever to do with national finances, would rather see sent to Raleigh Democrats who believe in good roads and a dog tax than men whose only qualification was that they believed in the free coinage of silver. The Lord he ps those who belo themseves. It is doubtful if any great assistance is extended those who reach after the unattainable.

In an address before the American bar association at Saratoga, Judge T. M. Cooley said:

"No one section can longer reproach any other in this particular; lynchings during the year have been numerous North and South and West, in cases where marder and sometimes when only an invasion of property rights was charged, as well as in gross cases of violation of temale chastity."

the following dispatch:

"Klamath Falls, Ore., Aug. 22.-W. B. son was held in jail on a small charge, but had a bad reputation."

Judge Cooley was right, but only a very low kind of satisfaction can be taken.

The Richmond Dispatch is something perplexed, and no wonder. It cannot understand how the State conventions so loudly endorse Cleveland, "and then proceed at once to pass a resolution deouncing in unmeasured terms what is what is known to be his financial or silver policy."—Wilmington (N. C.) Messenger.

Yes, that is something we cannot understand, especially as nobody is deceived by such proceedings.-Richmond

If we mistake not, the Do patch is a protection paper, but we suppose it would not like to be read out of the Democratic party on that account.

A LOSS TO ASHEVILLE.

The death of Capt. Natt Atkinson is a painful shock to this community. Promcitizens as were those of any other one Home, Kindergarten, W. C. T. U., Y. M. man among us. He may be said to have C. A., etc.

His enthusiasm was un bounded for any project which his judgment commended, and he threw himself into the advancement of any cause with a smeerity and an appreciation of the ments of the case that few men of any age could match. In public speaking he was foreible, logical and, on occasion, terribly in carnest. When fully aroused there were not many of his years and attainments who could equal him in logical Republicans and Democrats, know that invective,-the outpouring of a mind full of his subject and determined to carry his point in the face of all opposition. At the same time he took no unfair advantages, and was as tolerant of the opinions of those who differed with him as he was free in the expression of his

It fell to the lot of the present writer to often meet Capt. Atkinson, and we cannot recall that he was ever anything but the kindly gentleman. He had one oceasion at least reason to infer that THE CITIZEN had treated him without the consideration due him, but even then his complaint was that of one grieved rather than angry, and made in perfect control of his temper. Not without the spirit that as a reason therefor the small dividends gives spice and character to the least selfish of individuals, he was neither quick to give offense or hasty in retaliating if time were given him for reflection. Taking him all and all we shall see, as the days go on, that one of our most original and useful citizens has passed away.
