RANSOM AT THE GRAND

A GREAT SPEECH TO A GREAT AUDIENCE

Handsome Introduced by E. D. Carter—The Repeal of the Federal Election Law—Other Issues Discussed.

There were many ladies in the audience that greeted Senator Matt W. Ransom in the Grand opera house today.

It was five minutes past one when Senator Ransom came on the stage, accompanied by County Chairman J. G. Martin, E. D. Carter and W. F. Randolph.

On the stage were Maj. C. M. Stedman, J. S. Adams, Judge H. B. Carter, Hon. W. T. Crawford, Col. J. D. Cameron, Auditor R. M. Furman, Judge Thos. A. Jones, Locke Craig and others.

Mr. Harry Martin, stepson of the late Senator Vance, accompanied by his wife, occupied one of the private boxes.

The Introduction. Senator Ransom was introduced by E. D. Carter, esp., in the following words:

"Fellow citizens: The distinguished citizen, patriot, orator, statesman, Democrat, North Carolinian, I have the honor to present to you on this occasion, needs no words of introduction to a Buncombe audience. For more than 40 years he has been a leader of thought in our beloved State; an organizer, controller and director of her trust and wisest political forces; a living potentiality in the work of her highest uplifting. For near half a century he has been in the forefront of all her struggles; a gallant captain of the hosts of Democracy in every battle they have waged for the triumph and establishment of those ever-living principles upon which we have planted ourselves; principles which have stood the test of all the mutations of time since the highest political wisdom has come and dwelt among men, and which have seen thrones crumble and dynasties fall away.

"In times of war and in times of peace, as a leader he has never faltered. Through the red blaze of battle the brave and loyal sons of North Carolina have followed him; yea, into the jaws of death they followed him; though cannon to the right of them and cannon to the left of them and cannon in front of them volleyed and thundered, yet when his clarion voice ordered the charge and his manly form led in, serried ranks were broken, assailed and bloody fields were won.

"Today, fellow citizens, that clarion voice will sound once more as a bugle-call to arms.

"Men of Buncombe, fellow Democrats, patriots, soldiers who stood with him where the thickest of war's tempests lowered; some of heroes who shed obeying the voice that will command you today, heed, I beseech you, the words of patriotic wisdom he will speak to you.

"Once again our gallant commander will order the charge; yea, more, he will lead it, follow him and save the day; I present to you Senator Ransom."

The Senator's Speech. Senator Ransom began his speech in a most deliberate way amid shouts of applause.

He thanked Mr. Carter for his kind words, and the people for their greeting. He stood, he said, before the people today in the shadow of a great sorrow.

North Carolina's greatest son and orator was not here. Mr. Ransom paid a glowing tribute to Senator Vance. He said he could not let the day and the occasion pass without cutting a flower and shedding a tear upon the grave of Vance.

"I wish," he said, "I could make you see and feel the issues today, as I see and feel them." He regretted that there was not apparent a proper appreciation of the part of the people of the seriousness of the issue involved in this fight. Our ancestors had led England to make their home on this continent. They had faced the sea, the night, the wild Indian, all for liberty, and to worship God as they pleased. If he could paint the picture of these few hours, people losing all to gain victory, he would have shown the people of today how great a boon was liberty. It was impossible to fully understand just what these great people did in this building up this great temple of liberty. He had reminded the people today of these acts of our forefathers to show them that it was important for the people to remember the price of liberty.

The Dead Force Bill. In December last, the Democratic party, the party the speaker represented, had passed as the first act of Mr. Cleveland's administration, the repeal of the infamous federal election laws that had disgraced our statute books, and humiliated our Southern people. It would be impossible in the future to see such men as Schaeffer, a postmaster at Raleigh, an interloper from Ohio, oppress our people through these infamous laws. In his mind's eye the speaker could see our revolutionary ancestors, from their home in the world beyond, rejoicing that these unjust laws have been wiped out. He hoped he would never have to see a North Carolinian who was not proud that these laws were no more. If the Democratic party had done nothing but wipe out the federal election laws he would be proud that he gave his allegiance to that party. North Carolina had always loved liberty. No people on earth had loved it more.

The Tariff Bill. "I have told you," added the Senator, "what the Democratic party has done for liberty, now I will tell you what the Democratic party has done in the way of business. The present Congress passed a tariff bill, not what all wanted, not at all that I wanted, but it was the best tariff law that was ever enacted."

Senator Ransom said this deliberately. If he did not believe it was true he would not say so. It was better than the Morrison bill, better than the Mills bill; it was, in his judgment, the best tariff bill ever passed by the American Congress. That bill gave all the people free salt, something we have not had for 30 years. And that is not all. Who would have thought six months ago that cotton bagging and cotton ties would ever be free in this country? Yet they are free today. Every kind of agricultural implements is free under the Democratic tariff bill. When he last spoke to the people of Buncombe he had asked them, how we could ever hope to prosper when the manufacturers sold all these implements to farmers at prices scarcely more than half what they charged our own people.

The speaker spoke of John Wannamaker, one of the five largest merchants in the United States. John Wannamaker would not tell tales to advance the interest of the Democratic party. Three days after the Democratic tariff bill was passed Wannamaker advertised to the world that the Democratic tariff bill had passed, he had just gotten from the custom house 600 bales of goods of all kinds, which he could now sell at one half what they were sold for before the tariff bill was passed.

There are 1,700,000 people in North Carolina. At least 400,000 of these have accounts at stores. The average yearly store account is about $100. Take off of each of these 400,000 accounts 25 per cent. This means a saving to North Carolinians of $10,000,000 per year; one million more than the cotton crop is worth twice as much as the tobacco crop. This means much more than an increase of the money per capita to $50. It saves the money in the pockets of the people. The way to help the people is to reduce the taxes, and this is the Democratic party's policy.

Massachusetts is a great State, has a great people, but it is cold and barren compared with the warmth and productivity of the South, yet under Republican laws Massachusetts had accumulated more wealth than Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi. Under the new Democratic tariff law all this will be stopped. Each household will save $25 per year on his store account. Prosperity will return.

BRECKINRIDGE CONTEST.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 12.—The contest for the Congressional nomination in the Ashland district has reached that degree of intensity where objectives fail to describe it. The utmost good nature has characterized the proceedings here, although the parties have been active.

The sensation of the past 24 hours was the speech Monday night of Rev. R. L. McKeady of Grace Episcopal church. He has been a lifelong friend and admirer of Col. Breckinridge, but says that he can follow him no longer. He denounced his cause before a political meeting in burning language. He said in substance that he had heard Col. Breckinridge speak at the coronation of a monument erected to the Confederate veterans at Lexington, when he pointed to the newly-made grave of his wife and paying her memory a touching tribute said all his hopes lay buried. "According to his own confession," said the minister, "he was then carrying on in a shameless intimacy with the Pollard woman."

CAPT. PRICE WAS EXCITED.
He Rushed Up Town in His Night Clothes.

SALISBURY, Sept. 10.—Capt. Chas. Price, division council of the Southern Railway, created quite a sensation with the few people who were out on the streets here late Saturday night by coming up town in his night clothes about 11 o'clock. Train No. 35 was late, and he was being across his bed dressed with his shoes on, waiting for the mail, and had dozed off, when he was told that the train and six cars had plunged into the Yadkin river. As he was expecting his wife home on the train, he became so excited that he jumped and without taking time (if he thought of it) to put on his clothes, hurried to the depot. There he learned that the news was incorrect and that there was nothing wrong with the train. He, however, was so much wrought up over the matter, that he called up in a physician for something to quiet his nerves before returning to his home.—Charlotte Observer.

A Monster Coke Combine.
CHATTAHOOCIA, Tenn., Sept. 10.—The Tradesman has information that 20 coke operators in the Pocahontas field of West Virginia have formed a company to be known as the Flat Top United Coke company of Bramwell, West Virginia, and nearly all the other operators in the field will join, thus practically controlling the entire product, which exceeds one million tons annually.

AS A RAILWAY BUILDER

GEORGE W. VANDERBILT'S NEXT APPEARANCE.

Such Is The Story Based on a Rumor in Circulation in Augusta, Ga.—An Air Line to Cincinnati.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 12.—It is rumored here today in railroad circles that George Vanderbilt, who owns many thousands of acres of land in North Carolina, is about to enter the field of railroad building as a means of getting some of his timber to market. The line which it is said he will build is from Knoxville to Anderson, S. C., via Wall-halla. A large part of the line is already graded and should Vanderbilt build the road it will decrease the distance between Cincinnati and the South Atlantic coast over 100 miles.

The road together with the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap and Cincinnati railroad and the Port Royal and Western Carolina will give an air line from Cincinnati to Augusta.

THE COUNT OF PARIS.
His Body Laid Away on English Soil.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Private mass for the dead was celebrated at Stow House at 7 o'clock this morning. The ceremony was attended by members of the Count of Paris' family only. The cortege left the Stow House at 7:30, the body being conveyed in a hearse drawn by six white horses. The hearse was followed by 20 carriages containing the princess and princesses connected by ties of blood or marriage with the Orleans family. The procession was received at the railway station by the mayor and municipal authorities of Buckingham. The blinds of the houses along the route to the station were closed and the road was lined with silent spectators. A special train conveying the body started for Weibridge at 9:30. The cars were all draped with black.

The funeral train arrived at Weibridge at noon. It had been preceded by four special trains from London bearing the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught, the Marquis of Lorne and a large number of the French nobility. The procession formed at the station and the body was taken to the church. The Duc d'Orleans and other princes of the family walked immediately behind the hearse.

All of the solemnities of the church were observed. The services concluded with the pronouncement of absolution by Cardinal Vaughan, after which the body was placed in a vault near the altar.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.
Louisville Will Probably Have The Next One.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 12.—The delegates to the national encampment of the G. A. R. got down to a solid business basis this morning. While 200,000 persons have left the city since the last old soldier passed in review yesterday, there are still 200,000 strangers in town, the majority of whom will stay until Saturday and Sunday, while some will remain even longer.

The national encampment opened this morning in the new Grand opera house. The commander-in-chief and delegates from on behalf of the citizens were welcomed on behalf of the citizens executive board by Chairman Daniel C. Kiple and also by W. C. Quincy, chairman of the committee on invitations and reception. Governor Pattis in welcomed them on behalf of the State of Pennsylvania, while Mayor McKenna of Pittsburgh and Mayor Kennedy of Allegheny City performed the same pleasant duty on behalf of their respective cities.

The serious business of the encampment proper then began. The election for commander-in-chief will not be held until tomorrow. Since the withdrawal of Judge C. D. Long of Michigan, the opinion is rapidly growing that Col. T. N. Walker of Indiana will secure the election. The selection of the next encampment city has also been deferred until tomorrow. While the surface indications are that Louisville will have a walk over, it is hinted that St. Paul has been doing good work in a quiet, but very effective way.

THE RESULT IN MAINE.
Republicans Gain a State Senator and Three Representatives.

AUGUSTA, Maine, Sept. 12.—The Republicans regard the result of the State election as the biggest victory they have achieved since the birth of the Republican party. The total vote for governor which two years ago was 130,000 is reduced by from 15,000 to 20,000 votes. The Republicans claim Cleaves' vote will reach nearly 70,000. In every one of the 16 counties of the State the Democracy is defeated. Waldo county elected their whole county ticket for the first time in many years. Every city in the State has probably gone Republican, which is something phenomenal.

The returns so far indicate that Johnson (Dem.) will not get over 35,000 votes to the 55,000 cast for him two years ago, and this may be reduced by later returns. The Republicans have carried both branches of the legislature, electing a solid senate, which two years ago stood 30 Republicans and 1 Democrat. In the house of representatives, which consists of 151 members—and which two years ago stood 107 Republicans and 44 Democrats—the Republicans, it is believed, have elected 110 members, while the remainder have been elected by Democrats and Populists.

'Squire Haynes' Death.
CANTON, N. C., Sept. 12.—[Special.]—Squire Humphrey P. Haynes, whose death was announced in THE CITIZEN yesterday, was one of the most prominent men in Haywood county in State, financial and political affairs. He represented Haywood county in the legislature in 1872, was chairman of the Board of County Commissioners for many years and had the widest influence with all classes of any man, perhaps, in the county. He leaves a large family of children, among whom are Sheriff W. J. Haynes and Rev. Monte Haynes. He was 70 years old, a man of unusual financial ability and was one of the largest taxpayers in the county.
