LOCKE CRAIG—CHAS. HENDERSON

THE NOMINEES FOR THE SENATE IN THIS DISTRICT.

A Buncombe Man and a Madison Man Named to Make the Race in the Thirty-third District—A Harmonious Convention.

"Craig and Henderson" is the slogan of the Democrats of the Thirty-third Senatorial district, as settled upon by the convention which met in the court house Friday afternoon. The district is made up of Buncombe, Haywood and Madison counties, and there was a good representation from each of the three neighbors. Chairman J. M. Gudger, jr., called the convention to order with an address urging the importance of selecting an executive committee, and calling attention to all that was involved in the coming election. The first thing in order, he said, was the election of a permanent chairman of the convention. Thos. Murray nominated Mr. Gudger and he was elected, whereupon he remarked that it was a good idea to elect the temporary chairman permanent chairman, as the convention thereby got rid of one speaker. W. F. Randolph was elected permanent secretary.

Locke Craig Nominated.

Nominations having been declared in order, Hon. Jas. H. Merriam was recognized, and he made the speech placing Locke Craig before the body. Mr. Merriam thought the best sign of the harmony among the Democrats this year was to be seen in their good tempered conventions. He did not remember a time since 1868 when Democrats were nearer together than they are now. Nor was there ever a time in North Carolina when it more behooved the Democrats to stand together. He drew a picture of what might be expected if the control of the State government should pass from the hands of the Democrats to those of the Republicans. "May God avert such a calamity!" he exclaimed fervently. He thought the man who was sent to the legislature should have a certain knowledge of the law. The man he was to name had sat by the midnight lamp, pursuing his studies. And he was no tyro in politics, but had worked hard in the Democratic fight and without reward. He was a man equal to meet and cope with any man who would be put up against him. He then named Locke Craig of Buncombe for one of the Senators to be elected in this district.

D. M. Luther, esq., by authority of T. F. Reeves, withdrew Mr. Reeves' name in favor of Mr. Craig with the assurance that Mr. Reeves would do all in his power for the nominee's success.

David Boyd of Haywood responded when the roll call reached his county. He said his county had no candidate if Madison had one, but the Democrats would give their usual majority to whoever might be nominated. The candidate they would name if Madison did not ask to be allowed to furnish one, was Jos. S. Davis.

Chas. A. Henderson.

When Madison was called for nominations, Wm. Gudger arose with the remark that Madison wished to present a man who was the peer of any one in natural ability. He was born and reared in the hills of Madison, "where a Democrat has to carry his politics at a right shoulder shift in order to get along." While not the fairest among ten thousand he was altogether lovely, and the man was Chas. A. Henderson.

W. M. N. Tines of Buncombe nominated Jos. S. Davis, but Mr. Boyd said under the circumstances Mr. Davis could not be a candidate for the nomination, and withdrew his name.

Jesse P. Lowry seconded the nomination of Mr. Craig and said he would help to elect the Republicans in the basis of the Salt river of defeat.

Mr. Nettles took occasion to claim Mr. Craig as a "sandlapper," as having come from the east, where the speaker had come from.

Senator Jos. S. Davis made a short talk, thinking the people of the three counties for the support they had given him two years ago, and pledged Haywood to the nominees. He moved the nomination of Messrs. Craig and Henderson by acclamation. This was seconded by Uncle Pless Israel and the vote was unanimous.

The nominees speak.

A committee composed of J. M. Leach, Mark Lance and Henry B. Stevens was appointed by the chair to escort the nominees to the stand. Mr. Craig was first to speak and after thanking the convention for the honor it had done him, he avowed his intention to work hard and be elected. This was going to be a hard fight, but the Democratic party had never faltered and it would not falter now. The greatest question of the day, he thought, was whether Pearson and his sort of politics should triumph. Pearson's candidacy was a bargain and sale, and Pearson was expected to buy the Ninth district. He had bought the Republicans, horse, foot and dragons. But the better element of that party would repudiate him, and there was a moral element that would rise supreme. Mr. Craig stood squarely on the Democratic platform, and his time from now on belonged to the Democratic party.

Mr. Henderson thanked the convention for its expression of confidence in his ability. He did not dread coalition, because a house divided against itself cannot stand. He had found that the prophecies of scriptures were more true than those of the Republicans. He contrasted the principles of the Republican and Populist parties, which are now coalescing. He spoke of Madison as the headquarters for everything, especially for downright ignorance in politics.

Short addresses were also made by David Boyd and J. M. Leach.

Chairman Gudger appointed J. J. Redwood of Madison, David Boyd of Haywood and J. D. Murphy of Buncombe to select an executive committee for the district. This report named the following committee:

Haywood—Bailey Jones, Clyde; Jos. S. Davis, Iron Duff. Madison—A. B. Ransom, Marshall; Jasper Ellis, Spring Creek. Buncombe—J. M. Gudger, jr., E. F. Vandiver, C. T. Rawls.

At a meeting of the committee after the convention adjourned J. M. Gudger, jr., was re-elected chairman of the executive committee.

SWANANOA COUNTRY CLUB.

It Will Rank With the Prominent Clubs of the Country.

The Swannanoa Country Club has come to stay. It has started off with renewed life, and the season of 1894-5 promises to place it in the same rank as the Meadowbrook, Elk Ridge, Genesee Valley, Westchester and the other prominent hunt clubs of the country.

The fair at Kenilworth was a good start, not merely for its financial results, but as affording evidence that the social events of the club would be all that could be desired. The program of the club for the coming season looks as if the members of the Swannanoa would be valuable factors in Asheville gayety and life.

Thursday afternoon the club had a meeting in its roomy quarters at Kenilworth Inn, and discussed several interesting points afflicting its well-being. The enthusiasm was great. The men who have charge of things are in earnest and bound to make the club a success.

The following members were elected at this meeting: Col. W. E. Williamson, Robert L. Blake, Oliver Rutledge, Duff Merrick, Dr. Wm. D. Hilliard, Hon. T. F. Davidson, Charles W. Beale, T. S. Morrison, James P. Sawyer, James G. Martin, Thomas Porter, F. A. Marquardt, Samuel W. Cortright, Frank Cox, Frank S. Cox, Major Rumbough, Col. Woolsey, W. B. Wilkinson and Col. J. K. Hoyt.

The officers of the club are: President, Dr. S. W. Battle; vice-president, Charles McNamee; secretary and treasurer, Henry M. Steele; master of hounds, James S. Churchill.

IT WAS ASHWORTH'S WATCH.

But the Jeweler Took Him For Sumner and Marked It Wrong.

The close resemblance between Jason Ashworth and Frank Sumner gave rise to a queer complication a few days ago. Not long ago Ashworth left his watch at a jeweler's for repairs, and when he called to get it the jeweler swore up and down that he had never left it there. Ashworth swore that he had, and pointed out the watch, hanging on the frame with a score of other timepieces.

"That's not your watch" said the jeweler. "That one belongs to Frank Sumner. Ashworth wanted to fight when the man stuck to it, but he was told there was no way to get his watch till he proved it to be his property and not that of his double. He spent two days hunting for Sumner and the two went together to the jeweler. Even when they were both on hand at once, the jeweler could not tell whose watch it was and Sumner had to take oath that it was not his property before Ashworth could obtain the ticker. The jeweler had simply taken Ashworth for Sumner when the watch was left with him, and had marked the wrong name on the ticket.

PROF. CLAXTON TO WED.

The bride-to-be was a few terms ago teacher of vocal music at the Asheville Female college, a singer of considerable note and having numerous friends in Asheville. The card reads:

BLOODTHIRSTY BRECKINRIDGE.

He Tried to Kill a Man Who Was Opposed to His Father.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 22.—Desha Breckinridge had a sensational altercation with James Duane Livingston, formerly of New York city, in the Phoenix hotel yesterday afternoon. They met and Livingston said: "It is all over now. Shake hands."

Breckinridge, with an angry look on his face said: "No, you one-horse scoundrel. You profess to be a man's friend and then stab him in the back. Livingston denied this and Breckinridge called him a liar. Livingston then struck at Breckinridge, and the latter, pulling out a dirk, made a desperate lunge at Livingston's heart. Livingston caught the knife in his hand and was badly cut.

At this point friends separated the two.

The transport had on board 7000 soldiers, 3000 coolies and 2000 pack horses. Troops are being pushed forward as rapidly as possible toward Seoul, in order to protect that city from any attack that may be made upon it by the Chinese.

A CYCLONE RAZED THEM FLAT

A NUMBER OF PERSONS KILLED AND INJURED.

The Cyclone Gave No Warning, But Burst Upon the Doomed Towns in the Night—Telephone and Telegraph Wires Down.

OELWEIN, Iowa, Sept. 22.—A cyclone passed over the town of Lowther, a place of 100 inhabitants located about 50 miles north of here. The Chicago express on the Chicago and Great Western railroad which arrived at midnight reports the town totally demolished. All the telegraph and telephone wires are down and it is not known whether any lives were lost.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 22.—The town of Leroy in Mower county near the Iowa line was struck by a cyclone last night, and three persons are reported killed. The depot and stock yards and several buildings were destroyed. Fire also caused considerable damage. Leroy is about 50 miles north of Lowther.

MASON CITY, Ia., Sept. 22.—At nine o'clock last night a terrific cyclone burst upon the residents of the northern part of Cerro Gordo county. Mr. and Mrs. Harlow and a little child are among the dead.

WINONA, Minn., Sept. 22.—Reports from the little town of Spring Valley in the southeastern part of the State indicate severe damage accompanied by loss of life, done by the cyclone which swept through this part of Minnesota last night. Seven persons are believed to be dead in the ruins of wrecked buildings, while 20 are reported injured several of them fatally. Without any previous warning, the storm swept down on the village at 11:30 o'clock. The violence of the wind was terrific. Barns and fences were swept away like chaff, and scores of houses were unroofed. Then the wind gradually increased in violence until the frail residences were obliged to succumb to the fury of the wind.

EMMETTSBURG, Ia., Sept. 22.—A terrific cyclone passed over this section at 8 o'clock last evening. There are many ruined houses and several deaths to tell of its destructive work. At the little town of Cylinder, six miles east of here, there are two or three houses blown down and several persons injured seriously.

In Great Oak township, five miles southwest of here, the storm was very severe and many buildings were blown down. In several parts of this city the storm was severe but no serious damage was done.

A BOSTON PARTY PRIMARY.

It Was on the Australian Ballot System Plan.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—State Senator John F. Fitzgerald will be the Democratic nominee for Congress in the ninth district, and Congressman McEtrick will not be the regular nominee in the 10th. These are two features of the Boston caucus held last night by the Democratic party.

These were the first primaries held by the party under the new caucus act requiring the use of the Australian ballot system. This act and the immense vote brought out by excitement in the congressional fight made the counting of the votes a tremendous task and not until this morning was it possible to get definite information. In the ninth district Fitzgerald will have 87 delegates to the convention and O'Neil 76. In the 10th enough information has been received to show that Congressman McEtrick has been defeated for the regular nomination by Munn. Congressman McEtrick will therefore run as an independent candidate, as he has already announced he would do.

WAS PRAYED FOR AND LAUGHED.

THE NEXT MORNING HIS MULE RAN AWAY WITH HIM AND HE WAS KILLED.

A revival meeting is in progress at the Methodist church here. The deceased saint at church dress a last night and special prayer was offered for him and he was laid out and pulled while the prayer was being offered. He had a young daughter at the altar seeking salvation at the time. He was drinking heavily when he left here this morning—Charlotte Observer.

THIS TELLS THE TALE.

The South and Southwest Want the Small Bills.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The general but gradual renewal of business is making itself felt in the treasury by a heavy demand for notes of the denominations of one and two. Money of this class is in great demand in the South and Southwest, especially, and the treasury cannot always supply all orders as promptly as desired. For the past six weeks the amount of money sent to the treasury for redemption has been unusually heavy, averaging $750,000 a day since September 1st.
