The Democrats Also Decide Not to Stand On Technicalities, And the Canvassing Goes Smoothly Forward-J. Will Jones Carries the Crowd.

The county canvassing board recon vened yesterday afternoon and continued the examination of the election returns. Limestone was read, and Fairview when Judge Merrimon, referring to the Upper Hominy returns, called the board's attention to the fact that nobody could tell whether they came from that precinct or not, not being properly attested by the judges of election. He interpreted the law as to the board's right to subporna witnesses in any case where object tions to returns were made. Objections to Upper Hominy and Limestone were entered, while a motion to proceed to the examination of returns not objected to was being considered. The motion

He ceeded. A little later, however, Pearson thought some of the remarks of counsel seemed to leave the inference that the board had not sufficient intelligence to determine the questions before it. He did claimed that one figure in the total vote given him there had been changed, making his vote 119 instead of 129. There was quite an argument over this, and was quite an argument over this, and not propose to stand on every technical-Dr. Cloutz stated that only 298 votes ity, and, furthermore, he for one, was prepared to accept the paper under cou-sideration as the returns from Upper were cast all told, Crawford had received 176 and Pearson's 119 added Hominy.

Upon examination Mr. Luther said the returns were certainly those from Upper Hominy; that they had no regular blanks on which to make out the returns, and had torn a leaf from the registration books. It was called to his attention that in the record of the judicial vote the name of William Ballard Councill, a Democratic candidate, did not appear. There was the name of Ballard however, suing about 15,000 Chinese, mostly raw and this, Mr. Luther said, he thought recruits.
