"JUDGE DICK'S CAMPMEETING."

Writing from Asheville, a correspondent of the Charlotte Observer "jumps on" in no light manner "Judge Dick's campmeeting," as the Federal court is called, and the court is referred to as "a laughing stock with the people."

IS CLEVELAND CRUEL?

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—All of the horses in the President's stable have had their tails docked. This is a radical departure from the "long-tailed" fashion that has prevailed in the executive stables as far back as the memory of the oldest inhabitant runs. It has always been regarded as humane and at the same time dignified for the President's ride behind a team of horses whose tails flowed in graceful waves until they almost or quite touched the ground.
