The bristles should be stiff enough to thoroughly clean the teeth, at the same time not stiff enough to irritate the gums. Take these precautions and you will save a dentist's bill and have pretty teeth.

THE DELUGE.

Dr. Campbell's Subject at the First Presbyterian.

Dr. R. F. Campbell has been preaching from the book of Genesis at the Sunday evening services. Last night his subject was the Deluge.

He showed that two principles manifested themselves in the family of our first parents—the principle of nature and of grace, or the flesh and the Spirit. Cain was the representative of the former, Abel of the latter. Upon the death of Abel Seth was given of God to Eve to take the place of the slain Abel, and the two opposing principles of nature and grace were developed in the descendants of Cain and Seth. The descendants of Cain were distinguished by material prosperity and a brilliant and proud civilization, but also by sensuality, pride and violence.

The descendants of Seth, on the other hand, were distinguished by personal piety and household religion—the true worship of God being handed down from one generation to another, its influence culminating in such eminent characters as Enoch and Lamech and Noah.

But the Sethites finally became dissatisfied with their quiet life and began to covet the brilliant features of the Cainite civilization. Especially were they attracted by the beauty and worldly charms of the Cainite women. This is the meaning of that verse which has puzzled some: "And it came to pass when men began to multiply on the face of the earth and daughters were born unto them, that the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair and they took them wives of all which they chose." (Gen. 6:1-2).

In the days of Enoch, the son of Seth, the Sethites had already begun to call themselves by the name of the Lord (Gen. 4:26—marginal reading). They were the sons of God.

It was these promiscuous marriages that corrupted the descendants of Seth, until there was only one righteous man left. This was the case of the flood, which swept away the whole race, except Noah and his household, from the face of the earth.

Dr. Campbell then showed that the two principles developed in the lines of Cain and Seth, respectively, have still their representatives on earth in the people of God and the people of the world. "That which is born of the flesh is flesh and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit." Alliances of the people of God with the world will lead to a repetition of the pride and violence and corruption which prevailed in Noah's day.

With all our boasts about our civilization, the world is hastening on to a greater catastrophe than the Deluge, and Noah is in the days of Noah so shall also come the Son of Man. For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, and knew not till the flood came and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. Watch, therefore; for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." (Matt. 24:37-42).
