The wedding of Miss Mary Isabella Henderson to Rev. Hope Henry Lumpkin, brother of Mrs. Eugene H. Henderson in Columbia Tuesday evening will be of interest to their friends in Asheville. Rev. Lumpkin occupied the pulpit of All Souls and Trinity churches in this city on different occasions last summer and is well known in the city. The wedding was one of the fashionable events of the season in Columbia and the church was filled with prominent citizens. The young people were showered with handsome gifts, sufficient to entirely and completely furnish their residence. Rev. and Mrs. Lumpkin will shortly visit Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Eason in this city. The following account is taken from a Columbia paper: "Miss Mary Isabella Henderson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Henderson, and Mr. Hope Henry Lumpkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lumpkin, were married last night at 7:30 o'clock in Trinity church, the betrothal ceremony being performed by the Rev. Kirkman G. Finlay, rector of Trinity church, while the marriage service was performed by the honored bishop of South Carolina, the Rt. Rev. William Alexander Guerry, of Charleston. As the beautiful wedding march was played the bridal party entered the church, first the bridesmaids, Messrs. Lewis G. Wood, Jr., James G. Holmes, James Hammond and Andrew Crawford, followed by the groomsmen, Dr. J. C. Bonowski of Charleston, the Rev. L. B. Hubbard of Clemson, Mr. McKee Webb, Mr. Morris Lumpkin of Columbia, Dr. Eugene Byron Glenn of Asheville, and Mr. John Wilds of Darlington. The lovely bridesmaids Miss Jo Foster of Lancaster, Miss Della Gray, Miss Gray Nell, Miss Grace Lumpkin of Columbia and Miss Greta Henderson of Summerville came next, wearing exquisitely dainty lingerie dresses and carrying great bunches of snowy Easter lilies. The bridesmaid of honor, Mrs. Eugene Byron Glenn, the groom's sister, was strikingly handsome in her becoming gown of soft yellow crepe de chine, worn over rich tulle. She also carried an armful of Easter lilies. The maid of honor, Miss Julia Henderson, the bride's attractive sister, wore a charming gown of white-antique silk, draped in graceful Grecian effect, and carried an arm bouquet of lilies. The bride, who is noted for her rare beauty, was never more lovely than in her bridal gown of soft white muslin, fashioned along the becoming empire lines, and surmounted with rare old lace from her mother's wedding gown. She also wore her mother's exquisite bridal veil and spray of sweet, old-fashioned orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley with delicate maiden hair fern. Entering with her father, the bride was joined at the chancel by the groom, with his best man, Mr. Alva Lumpkin, where the betrothal ceremony was performed by Mr. Finlay, and before the Holy-covered altar the beautiful marriage service was read by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Guerry. There were many friends gathered in the church, but only a few were invited to the reception given just after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, in honor of the bridal party. Just after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Lumpkin left for Washington and after a short trip will return to make their new home in Darlington, where Mr. Lumpkin is rector of St. Matthew's church. Both the bride and groom have won for themselves a wide circle of sincere friends in all parts of the state who now unite in wishing them happiness. The bride, who has for years devoted her time and valuable services to kindergarten work in the mill village, has a warm place in the hearts of many in Columbia and her place will not be easily filled, nor her influence forgotten. Mr. Lumpkin, as a graduate of the University of South Carolina, as well as of the University of the South, at Fawcett, has many college friends in Columbia and throughout the South, who predict for him a brilliant future in the active service of the Episcopal church."

The following account is taken from a Columbia paper: "The Athenian and Cooper Literary societies will engage in a debate this evening at the High school auditorium at 8 o'clock to which the public is most cordially invited. The judges will be well known public men of Asheville, Judge J. C. Pritchard, Hon. J. H. Tucker and Mr. Frank Carter. The chairman will be Mr. R. R. Williams. The question under debate is: "Resolved: That capital punishment should not be abolished in the state of North Carolina." The Athenian will defend the resolution while the Cooper will argue the negative side. Messrs. Hiden Hansen and Cedric Robinson of the Athenian and Messrs. George Pennel and Casper Cox of the Cooper society, are the debaters. There will be no charge for admission."

Mr. Louis Rowell of Tryon gave an interesting exhibition of his water colors yesterday morning at the Battery Park hotel and the palm room was filled with enthusiastic most of the morning. Mr. Rowell's pictures breathed the spirit of spring from the tender green of the first opening leaves of the fleecy clouds of dogwood which seemed to float through the awakening forest. In several of the pictures the log cabin, distinctive of the North Carolina mountains, lent additional atmosphere. Mrs. Olive Fremstad, the celebrated singer, was one of the most enthusiastic buyers and carried away with her yesterday afternoon as a souvenir of her visit, one of Mr. Rowell's largest and most characteristic pictures. Mrs. Fremstad further complimented Mr. Rowell by saying that his art should find a wider field and strongly advised him to go to Paris. Mr. Rowell is making arrangements for a large exhibition of pictures early in the summer which will include not only his well known water colors but a number of oils.

Mrs. Katherine Logan gave an informal dinner Wednesday evening at the Club Cafe for Miss Edna Lynch. Miss Lynch is visiting in Asheville for a few days prior to an extended Southern trip.

The Misses Williamson who have spent some time at Mrs. Baskerville on Vance street have leased a cottage on Ashland avenue.
