

CORPORATION TAX INCORPORATED IN THE TARIFF BILL

Senate Unexpectedly Took Action on Measure And Passed It

MANY DEMOCRATS VOTED FOR IT FINALLY

Stood for Income Tax as Long as There Was Any Chance of Its Adoption

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, July 2.—The corporation tax amendment which was suggested by President Taft, is an integral part of the tariff bill as that bill now stands. After much tribulation the senate reached a vote shortly before adjourning at 7 o'clock this afternoon and the amendment was agreed to 60 to 11. Many democrats voted with the republicans for the amendment. Only three democrats voted against the provision on the final vote, but some refrained from voting at all. The test vote on the substitution of the corporation tax amendment for the income tax provision and on that vote forty-five senators cast their ballots in the affirmative and thirty-one in the negative. On this income tax, which also received the support of a number of the insurgent republicans. Still Work to be Done. The senate tomorrow will enter upon the administrative features of the tariff bill, probably taking up the maximum and minimum rate provision. There was a steady fire of oratory from the beginning of the session at ten o'clock until 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. When this fire had ceased Mr. Aldrich took the floor and made a request for unanimous agreement for a vote on the corporation tax amendment tomorrow at ten o'clock. Previous to presenting this request there had been much conferring between Mr. Aldrich and Messrs. Bailey, Cummins, Borah and other opponents of the amendment, and it was generally supposed that they had reached an understanding that the vote should be taken tomorrow as suggested by Mr. Aldrich. CORNELL TOOK ALL HONORS IN ANNUAL HUDSON REGATTA

Was Expected to Take the Four And Freshmen, But Got 'Varsity Also

HER CREWS BROKE TWO RECORDS FOR MILE

Columbia Was Close Second In 'Varsity Race Being Half Length Behind

(By Associated Press.) IOWA CITY, N. Y., July 1.—Cornell university made a clean sweep of the fifteenth annual regatta of the Inter-collegiate Rowing association today. Like Harvard at New London, yesterday, she won the four oared 'varsity, the freshman and 'varsity eight oared races. In the race for 'varsity eight oared shells, four miles, the time was: Cornell 19:02; Columbia 19:04 2-5; Syracuse 19:15 1-5; Wisconsin 19:24 1-5; Pennsylvania 19:32 1-5. 'Varsity four oared shells, two miles: Cornell 10:01; Syracuse 10:10; Columbia 10:12; Pennsylvania 10:27. Freshmen eight oared shells two miles: Cornell 9:07 3-5; Syracuse 9:14 4-5; Pennsylvania 9:21; Wisconsin 9:22 4-5; Columbia 9:26. Cornell established two records for the two mile course, one in the 'varsity four oared race and another in the freshmen eight oared race. Tonight Cornell men are celebrating in true Cornell style. Columbia Rowed Well. Cornell's sweeping victory was not unexpected. It was conceded that she would take the four oared and probably the freshman race, but there was some doubt about the 'varsity, the big race of the day. This proved to be the hardest contest, the other two being won in rather an easy fashion. In the 'varsity eight oared competition, however, Cornell met a stubborn and unexpected contender in Columbia and it took all the stamina and great rowing strength of the crew to poke the bow of their shell across the finish line a scant length in the lead. In the four oared race Cornell won easily, three lengths ahead of Syracuse, and in the freshmen eight oared race, she was also victorious. (Continued on page three.)

UNEARTHING DARK AND VAIN TRICKS OF "HEATHEN CHINEE"

Government Officials Take Steps to Break up Lottery Game

THREE CHINESE SHOPS RAIDED AT CAPITAL

Evidence That They Are Circulating Their Tickets Through This State

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, July 2.—Charged with using the United States mail for lottery purposes, proprietors of three Chinese shops were arrested tonight. The raid on the places was made by Postoffice Inspectors Keene and Barclay, assisted by about a dozen members of the local detective and police forces. In each of the places a large amount of gambling paraphernalia was found. What ordinarily would have been a merely local episode gains importance from the fact that the raid represents an effort of the postoffice department to reach the center of a widely-ramifying Chinese lottery system and gains interest from the recent murder of Elise Sigel in New York which has drawn the eyes of the world to the usually obscure doings of Chinamen in the United States. It was expected that the raid would be simultaneous with similar activities in other cities. It was planned with the utmost secrecy and followed many days of careful detective work on the part of the postoffice inspectors. The inspectors think that one of the places raided was the headquarters of the alleged lottery system. Because these tickets were being mailed to places outside of Washington; particularly, it is said, in the territory between Baltimore and North Carolina, the postal authorities interfered. RAID IN BALTIMORE. BALTIMORE, July 2.—Thirteen Chinamen were arrested here tonight by police officers Inspectors Koons and Robertson and were held at the Central police station for the United States authorities on charges of using the United States mail for lottery purposes. A number of members of the detective force assisted in making the arrests. A considerable amount of evidence was secured. (Continued on page three.)

SCORE OF WORKMEN BURIED ALIVE IN COLLAPSE OF SHORED-UP WALL

Several Taken Out Dead, Rescuers Able to Communicate with the Living Through Speaking Tubes—Danger in Removing the Debris That Covers Them.

(By Associated Press.) NEWPORT MONMOUTHSHORE, N. J., July 2.—It is estimated that the twenty men perished today by the sudden collapse of the west wall of the Alexandria dock, the extension of the dock work has been in progress for some time and fifty men were working in a trench sixty feet deep preparing for the laying of a concrete foundation. Without the slightest warning of the heavy shoring timbers gave way in the middle and the entire structure collapsed and carried down with it thousands of tons of earth, the railway lines on both sides of the trench many railway cars and four traveling cranes. The men at the bottom of the trench, which was one hundred yards long and thirty feet wide had no chance to escape, but many of those working nearer the surface were uninjured. The work of rescue was begun immediately after the collapse and three men were taken out alive. The bodies of some of the dead also were rescued. Late tonight four men, still living, were pinned in the debris in the trench. The incoming tide made the work of rescue very difficult. The engineers in charge of the work are unable to account for the collapse of the shoring timbers. At midnight the rescuers were still busy with their work. Conversations were being held with a few of the imprisoned men with the aid of speaking tubes and stimulants and cigarettes were passed down to them; but there was little hope of rescuing the victims, because the removal of the debris that was piling them above was likely to cause further falls of earth and beams. Up to midnight eleven persons had been extricated dead or injured and it was believed that there still were sixteen bodies under the debris. (Continued on page four.)

NO PROVISION ON AIRSHIP AGAINST LANDING IN TREES

Wright Brothers' Aeroplane Makes Two Successful Flights And Quits

COMES DOWN TO EARTH WITH HEAVY JOLT

Wrocks Machine so That Extensive Repairs Will Have to be Made

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, July 2.—Two successful flights were made by Orville Wright in his aeroplane at Fort Myer this afternoon but the machine came to grief as it struck the earth upon the conclusion of its second spin through the air. The machine was on its way around the drill grounds for the sixth time in its second flight when the motor stopped sixty feet above the earth and exactly in the place where the propeller blade broke last September, which resulted in the fatal accident that terminated the trials at that time. In gliding to the earth the machine struck a tree and was swerved around with such force that the skids were broken and the right wing badly ripped. Mr. Wright was not hurt. Becomes More Bold. The flights today were the most successful that Orville Wright has made at Fort Myer since his return to complete the government trials. On the first attempt he flew about the field twelve times in eleven minutes and fifty seconds and on the second trial he had gone around eight and one-half times when the flight was terminated by the mishap. He had been in the air for a little more than eight minutes. During both flights Mr. Wright went higher and faster than in the trials of the two previous days. It was estimated that his speed was about thirty-seven miles an hour on an average. Fly Again Tuesday. The glide, which covered a distance of perhaps three hundred feet was beautiful to behold, but there were few in the crowd of a thousand or more spectators who did not fear for a moment that they were about to witness a repetition of last year's accident. Orville and Wilbur inspected the machine closely to see what caused the motor to stop. They did not announce the result of their investigation but said that the aeroplane would not be ready for another flight before Tuesday at the earliest because it would be necessary to send to their Dayton shop for cloth with which to repair the damage to the planes. Can't Judge Trees. "My motor stopped just as I was over the aeroplane shed," said Orville Wright after the machine had been returned to the shed. "When you are over bushes and trees you can't see their height, and it was due to a miscalculation on my part that the wing hit the tree and swung the machine around, causing it to land side-wise on the skids. If it hadn't been for the tree it would have landed safely. It was too bad the accident has happened, because the machine was going fine today. It was making better speed than yesterday and more than the machine that I used last year. I should judge the machine was going over forty miles an hour at certain times." The motor on the aeroplane had been missing explosion for some time before it finally stopped. Otherwise the machine had acted much better today than on its previous tests. As soon as Orville began his second flight it was evident that he and his brother had agreed that he should travel higher and make longer turns. (Continued on page four.)

WIDOW SLEW YOUTH WHEN HE SPURNED LOVE SHE LAVISHED ON HIM AS WIFE

Romance of Illicit Love May Be Back of Killing of Versace

SHE CLAIMS REVENGE

(Special to The Citizen.) NEW YORK, July 2.—A romance has been discovered behind the murder of Domenico Versace, a young tailor, by the widow of Bruno La Barti, last Monday. The tragedy is believed to have been the result. Ever since Mrs. La Barti told her story of the shooting, saying she killed the youth because a year earlier he had murdered her husband, the police have been running across clues leading to a far different motive. Yesterday facts were unearthed which would make it appear that the widow killed the nineteen-year-old tailor because he was about to cast aside her love in order to marry another. Even Mrs. La Barti admitted yesterday that young Versace had been a friend of the family before her husband's death. Indeed, he had been so frequent a caller at her home that on one occasion, she said, her husband flew upon the youth in great anger, drew a knife and drove him from the house. When seen in the Tomb yesterday Mrs. La Barti at first stuck to her original story. She said she merely wanted Versace brought to justice, and that when the police had declined to act her punishment, she took the law into her own hands. "And although a year has passed since the murder you still desire revenge for that reason and no other." With a laugh the prisoner nodded. "And, as you told the police when they arrested you, you failed to kill this young man because you could not find him; and you at last discovered he was guilty of this crime through a note you received." Again the woman laughed, tapping the floor with her feet. Then suddenly throwing back her head and

DESIRES TO REMARRY HER FIRST HUSBAND AFTER HE HAD MARRIED ANOTHER

Durham Couple Get in a Queer Mixup Which Keeps Court Busy.

ALSO A BIGAMY CASE

(Special to The Citizen.) DURHAM, July 2.—E. A. Carrington, a Durham man who was divorced from his wife last year upon her complaint of non-support and abandonment, is working through his attorney, Mr. R. O. Everett for a remarriage and the former wife appears to be willing. When she was married seven years ago, she was Miss Mollie Young, and after he became worthless, he started to put up with him. After getting the divorce last year, Carrington took up Mrs. Kate Jernigan, of Sampson county, who appears to have had a first husband much like Mrs. Carrington No. 1 had. They were divorced. Recently Mrs. Carrington, the first wife, wanted to remarry her first and only husband, who also went into court to marry her again, when she finally fell in love with him. Mr. Everett has been the lawyer. In looking over the records, Mr. Carrington finds that his second wife's first husband is not dead, and that she did not live separately and apart from him more than three years. Therefore came his case of action. His duty was to get her to break the chains of matrimony and induce her to remarry. The papers have been served today. The relatives of Mrs. Carrington No. 1 are dead opposed to any more alliance with Carrington, but it appears that the first wife is going to have the second husband. She doesn't intend that another woman shall have him, and the outcome of this complex marriage and divorce matter will turn upon the interest to the people of Durham. The first Mrs. Carrington is a woman of exceptionally fine looks and has the most feeling about the family that one child has been a selfish. Their one child has been a selfish. Their one child has been a selfish. Their one child has been a selfish. (Continued on page three.)

IRISH LACEMAKER ON STAND PROMISES AN INTERESTING STORY

Woman Who Was Found in Bath Room on Trial for Larceny.

IMPLICATES MANY

(By Associated Press.) CHICAGO, July 2.—Ella Gingles, a lace maker charged with larceny of lace from Agnes Barrette, her former employer, took the witness stand in Judge Brennan's court today. Many women prominent in Chicago and philanthropic work crowded the court room to hear her. She declared that the charge against her was manufactured and her attorney promised that tomorrow she would be allowed to go into "all the details of the alleged attack upon her in the Wellington hotel where she was found unconscious in a bath room and how she was almost forced into a life of shame by women who pretended to be her friends. Men for whom these women were acting would be named, it was said. The young lace-maker said she was a struggling, uneducated country girl. Instead of stealing lace from Miss Barrette, the girl said Miss Barrette and Mrs. Stella Kenyon, who died suddenly a few days ago, carried her to her room at night and ransacked her belongings taking her money and her watch and little things she had made in her childhood. Among the organizations that have taken up the girl's case are the Woman's Christian Temperance union, the Daughters of the Confederacy, the Irish Choral society and the Catholic Women's League. Since the killing Robert Tweed has been with his brother in Norfolk, Va., until two or three days ago when he returned to Madison county passing through Asheville and Marshall on No. 11, that train passing Marshall at four o'clock in the afternoon. ROGER'S BROTHER LIKES HIS BELLOWS AND FORGE

Refuses to Take Any of Millionaire's Money and Will Shoe Horses.

(Special to The Citizen.) OKLAHOMA CITY, July 2.—Edward Rogers, who claims to be a brother of the late Henry H. Rogers, has declined to accept any of the latter's fortune. Rogers is a blacksmith and lives at Watonga, Okla. "I don't want any of my brother's money," he said today, while in Oklahoma City on route to Fort Sill. Rogers has refused to accept letters addressed to him from H. H. Rogers' attorney. "I will shoe horses the rest of my life before I will take a cent of that money," he emphatically declared. Rogers has been offered a job by the government at Fort Sill at $20 a month and $15 a month for rations, which he says "looks good to him," and he may take it and live up in blacksmith shop at Watonga. It has been a long time since Rogers last saw his brother and it is said they were estranged through ill words Rogers' son, H. H. Rogers, according to the story told by his blacksmith brother, paid him a visit six years ago. Edward was not at home at the time. After the meal knowing his father was not well off financially, the son asked Henry Rogers for a loan for his father. According to Edward Rogers this was refused and the multi-millionaire left no money to the son. No mention of Edward Rogers was made in the will of Henry H. Rogers, which was made public in full Monday, the late Mr. Rogers was well known to be the son of kindness and generosity to all the members of his family. (Continued on page four.)

CHARLOTTE CLOSES UP HER NEAR BEER SALOONS

Nobody Wants to Pay $1,000 for License and the Business Stops.

(Special to The Citizen.) CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 1.—The new license tax of $1,000 on near-beer dealers within the city of Charlotte went into effect last night at 12 o'clock and today all such places are closed, so far as the sale of the article is concerned. Some of the saloons, which conducted good rooms and cigar stands in connection with their business are still running these, but otherwise the bid is on tight and will probably remain so, according to the statement of the local dealers, unless the board of aldermen sees fit to rescind its former action by abolishing the $1,000 tax and substituting one of reasonable proportions. No application has yet been made for the $1,000 license and those dealers who were formerly engaged in the near-beer business say that they will not make application while the tax remains at its present figure. It is understood that the matter of reducing the tax will again come up before the board of aldermen at its first monthly meeting, Monday night. From its former action, however, and the general sentiment on the matter of these composing the board it is not probable that any action will be taken but that the tax will be allowed to remain as it is. Certain manufacturers of near-beer have expressed it as their intention should the board refuse to reduce the tax, to bring out against the city and carry the matter to the supreme court in order to test the measure.
