BRISTOL TIRED OF THIRST TURNS BACK THE TIDE OF PROHIBITION

After One of the Hottest Fights in Whole South Virginia Town Votes Back the Saloon Against the Combined Forces of Church and Anti Saloon League. All Ready to Open at Once.

(By Associated Press.) BRISTOL, Va., July 8. By the narrow majority of 38 out of a total of 844 votes polled, the anti-prohibitionists won the local option election held here today, following one of the most hotly contested campaigns of its kind known in the South. There were 461 votes against and 429 in favor of granting license. Pandemonium reigned here tonight in that part of Bristol which lies in Tennessee as well as in the half of the city which has declared for the sale of liquor after a dryness of two years. Preparations are already being made for opening up of saloons and wholesale houses for supplying not only the inside territory but the half dozen nearby states which are in the prohibition column. Where Tide Turns. The "wets" declare that the victory here, following the recent one against prohibition at Petersburg, Va., will have the effect of checking the state-wide prohibition movement in Virginia and will have some influence toward preventing further inroads of the prohibitionists in the South. They say, too, that the winning of today's fight is but the opening of the great fight for reclamation of lost territory in the South. Locally, the contest was intensely exciting but it was more than a local contest. With the liquor interests of the entire country it was a pivotal fight. Deprived out of the surrounding Southern states, the whiskey people fought tenaciously for a foothold here. Options for Saloons. Against the influences of the prohibitionists and their unwavering allies, the women and children, the leaders of the opposing forces spent thousands of dollars. Nearly a hundred representatives of the saloon industry and lawyers interested were here to advise the election and lend what assistance they might to corral the votes. Many of them came here with a view to starting in business. Half of the business buildings in the city have been optioned for sale or rent at very high prices, pending today's result. And these options were paid for in cash too. Women Prayed. The campaign was begun over a month ago when Judge John W.

Price of the corporation court, ordered the election on petition of one fourth of the qualified voters. The temperance people brought many out of town speakers here and for two weeks meetings have been held nightly on the streets, in churches and in halls. Hundreds of women and children were on the grounds at the main voting place all day, singing and praying for the success of the temperance cause. The women served lunches and hot coffee near the polls and stood through dreaching rains and continued their work from early this morning till the polls closed. The anti-prohibitionists conducted a "still hunt" campaign and worked under cover until within the last week, when they suddenly burst into print and flooded the city with literature opposing prohibition and seeking to show its ill effects on Bristol. The Abington dispensary, thirteen miles east of Bristol, doing an immense business, largely from local trade, was used as a chief argument by them.

INVENTOR PUT HIS LIFE INTO MACHINE NEGLECTING WIFE

She Sues For Non-support Just as he Has Almost Perfect Motor

LEFT HIM TO COOK HIS MEALS ALONE

Old Man Almost Broken Hearted Tells of Sacrifice He Has Made

(Special to The Citizen.) NEW YORK, July 8.—One of this city's home tragedies came to light yesterday when Robert Phillips, an inventor, who after long years of work has practically perfected a new motor machine, was arraigned in Harlem police court charged by his wife with non-support. To the magistrate Mrs. Phillips and their daughter, Winifred, aged twenty, and Robert Jr., aged twenty-two, told the same story of the father of the household paying only the rent while they for years have had to meet all other expenses. The result of Phillips himself, however, so impressed Magistrate Herbert that he postponed the case for two months, during which time he expects Phillips to prove his invention is all he claims it to be. Phillips was found last evening sitting dejectedly in his little flat at No. 4 Hancock place, after his return from court, where he had listened to the charge that he cooked and ate his meals alone. "Yes," he said, "that is true even tonight. I am cooking my own dinner now because no one is here to cook it for me. Worked Night and Day. The impression has been given that I have been receiving $40 a month from the company formed to market my invention. That is not so. To make that money I have sacrificed my dignity and have gone to work as a nightwatchman. For five months now the affairs of my little company have been progressing so well that I have had to devote a great deal of time to it. My family knows I have had but three or four hours sleep a day during that time. I've been in our office and workshop most of the day, then I've come home, fixed up my luncheon and taken it with me to the night work I had. As he said this Phillips wept. "Why, my whole life has gone into this machine of mine. I know I've sacrificed myself and my family, but it was for their ultimate good. I expect to be a rich man, and when I allowed them to work I felt it was a partnership in which we would all profit greatly in the end. And now to have this terrible cut from my own life has almost broken my heart. I know they've all had to make sacrifices, but my life has been a sacrifice, too."
