All the churches held special ser vices with special union services of the Methodists at Central church and of the Baptists at the First Rap tist church. The decorations of the Episcopal churches were especially noteworthy, those at All Souls', Bilt more, being designed with great skill and artistic taste. And the churche were crowded. In this at least the Puritan origin of the day is still preserved here.

But it is doubtful if the Purious fifthers ever saw, tasted, or imagined such bounfectua feasts of the good things of the land as burdened the terday. In spite of the drawlook being in the mountains and some that remote from the epicurear belieacies of the waters and field Asheville has more than its share of Lucullan devotees who can ordserve, and relish a good dinner. rations were ever made before to the annual feast as were made thi ear, and from the contented look one saw on the streets vesterd: it is reasonable to believe that thes preparations materialized into the
