

Society AND PERSONAL

Marian Cox in the February number of the Forum has the following interesting observation on "The Profile": "The woman of the future must become the great figure of today. For she alone can bring a thrill of poetry into the lives of men. She will not only be the imagination from which the poet draws his inspiration, but she will be the conqueror of the air, the land, the sea, and a renascence of glory can be achieved by the woman in profile because the full face is bourgeois and the side face is fact, where the profile is fancy as it seems to say: 'Hold me if you can, I am placed like the faces of deities when I am placed upon the metal for the greedy handling of men. I am the pose of a queen when mingling with her people, giving but half to one side, half to the other, and thus adored, venerated, idolized, by those subjects who could never endure the full revelation of aught they worshipped.' Ah, the woman who is endowed with a beautiful profile has no shadow upon the other side but that of a crown. More than any other influence, I believe that of a woman's profile has created the havoc of love in man. Invariably it stirs him to seek—the other side; and the entire impetus of love in a man consists in the seeking. Where there is nothing to seek, when all is given, there is nothing to love. The tragedy of marriage is that a man always sees in full face the woman he has wooed in profile. A bench for two lovers, a ride, a walk together, sets its charm because of the profile. Whereas at the breakfast table and at the dinner table the full face is seen, the man reproaches a woman with her profile. Nor can it give him more, simpler, honest—three things he really desires in a woman. But it does give him illusions, dreams, inspirations; the ailment of love. I believe that more men have married because of their ideal of a woman's profile at their hearts than from any other motive. Disappointment comes when they discover that in marriage the profile turns away and becomes a full face that talks!"

The "birthday party" announced to be given at the residence of Mrs. C. C. Mitchell at 1 Aston place on Thursday evening of this week is postponed on account of the mass meeting of citizens which is to be held on that evening. THE CITIZEN MOVES TO ITS NEW HOME

FILED BY NIGHT FROM ITS OLD QUARTERS

New Building Work of Art and Admirably Situated for Work of Publishing Daily Paper

Without a single mishap The Citizen "shifted in the night" from its old haunts on Patton avenue to its handsome new home in The Citizen building, Government street, and when The Associated Press wires opened as usual at 6:30 yesterday evening the linotypes began to hum on schedule and the work of getting out the paper went on as if there had been no change. The moving of the nonpareil linotype machines naturally proved to be the hardest task, yet they were taken down in the old office, moved along Patton avenue and erected in the new Citizen office by two o'clock yesterday afternoon. This feat was accomplished by Mr. D. A. Alexander, foreman of the composing room, who began his work at 2:30 yesterday morning. The heavy type cases and their contents were hustled out with like dispatch by Mr. Poland, one of The Citizen's "ad." setters. The moving of the business office and editorial rooms equipment proved child's play in comparison to the work mentioned, and the old Patton avenue building was practically dismantled by 5:30 yesterday evening. While there are still some finishing touches to be put on The Citizen's new home, the paper is practically established in its new quarters.

As stated in yesterday's issue, the erection of the big Hoe press will not be completed for about two weeks. Meanwhile The Citizen will be printed on the old press which remains for the present in the basement of the Patton avenue building, Ideal Building.

The new home of The Citizen is an ideal newspaper building, being erected for that special purpose by the Cox estate. The business office and the composing room on the first floor, are large and well lighted, the former being attractively finished in oak, with the floor of decorative tiles. The composing room and press room have metal ceilings. All the floors, with the exception of the tiling in the business office, are of hardwood.

The editorial and city rooms on the second floor are admirably fitted for newspaper work, those, too, showing the excellent work of the architects, Messrs Smith & Carrier, the builder, Mr. John W. McElrath, and his foreman of construction, Mr. W. J. Duckworth. On the second floor are also the telegraph room, art department and file room, the latter being large enough to hold bound volumes of The Citizen for many years to come.

The Ewart resolution for the investigation of the operation of trusts in North Carolina received unfavorable report this evening at the hands of the Judiciary committee number one of the house.

Regulate Water Powers

The Lemmond bill to regulate water power corporations generating electric current or gas for motive power was to have been argued this evening before the Judiciary committee of the senate but was postponed to Monday of next week to give time for parties from Wilmington and elsewhere to appear in opposition to the bill.

The committee names February 1 to hear argument on the bill to change the name of Croatan Indians to Cherokee of Eastern Carolina.

Rev. J. C. Woodson, representative from Cleveland, was taken violently sick in the state house today and is reported by his physicians to be a very ill man tonight.

He has not been carried to the hospital.

Judiciary committee No. 2 of the house announced Tuesday afternoon of this week as the time for hearing the final argument and passing on the Connor bill for uniform bill of lading for cotton shipments, a measure for which the bankers are fighting and which is being opposed with equal zeal by the railroad officials.

Another important committee hearing set for this week already is the Barrett bill for eliminating the mileage ticket nuisance by requiring that any railroad that persist in refusing to pull mileage on their trains shall not be allowed to sell tickets generally for more than two cents per mile.

been a gain in cash of more than $20,000,000.

The banks of the South are about the only ones showing gains of deposits. That is said to be because they are now being paid for cotton. Reductions of loans is the rule, however, all over the country, as a result of the necessity to follow such a sharp reduction of deposits.

Still with all the reduction, the banks are now holding $86,000,000 more in their reserves than is required by law.

On the whole the showing is pronounced good, but the disappearance of $138,000,000 from the banks of New York is a great puzzle to treasury officials.
