

SOCIETY AND PERSONAL

Mr. T. J. Owensby and Miss Allison, of Black Mountain, were married at the Paxton hotel Wednesday night, the ceremony being performed by Mr. E. B. Atkinson. The couple arrived in the city Wednesday afternoon, having come to Asheville for the purpose of being married and for spending their honeymoon here. They will return to Black Mountain today. Mr. Owensby is a lumber dealer at Black Mountain, and his bride is well known in that city.

The first of the spring millinery openings occurred yesterday at the new shop of the Webb Millinery company on Haywood street, which harbored about half the feminine population of Asheville during the day. The new shop is a distinctly attractive building with its smart appointments and harmonious colorings, to which yesterday's softening array of feathery forms and fragrant flowers added a gala note. The lighting is excellent and its infiltrations fall becomingly on "my lady" as she frames her beautiful visage round with various reathed picturesqueness of various shapes and degrees. The preliminary opening, influenced by the Florida deland, late visitors going and returning, gave an encouraging glimpse of what will be worn during the summer. The new colors were insistent and instantly noted, the prettiest being the lovely coral pink, the favorite of the season. Brilliant green is a close second in popularity but not so generally becoming. The burst straws combined with black, are smart and have a peculiar softening effect. The hats are abruptly turned back in front a little to one side in a most rakish manner. One pale high model in this style attracted great attention although there were innumerable rivals in every shade of the rainbow. The Webb company has the agency for the well known Knox hats and these smart hats have a style all their own, and give an air to the morning suits that is original and unmistakable. The millinery opening will take place at Easter, which will show the latest models and many of the more elaborate dress and garden party hats, which are the most interesting of all.

The Friday informal dance this evening at the Battery Park hotel will be one of the pleasant features of the week and will draw the usual crowd of young people. The young people of Asheville are turning out in force for the weekly informal dances at the Park, and the palm room is crowded. The dances have continued in popularity since their inauguration some weeks ago, and their termination, which, however, has not been announced, will be received with regret. Spoor's orchestra will play an usual and punch will be served. Dancing begins at half after nine o'clock.

A special display of spring millinery will be shown at Spoor's millinery shop Saturday. The usual spring opening will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Bryson announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Tola Bryson, to Mr. Luther McHarge. The wedding will take place in the early spring at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bryson in Belmont, N. C.

There will be a meeting this afternoon at four o'clock of the American Woman's league at the residence of Mrs. James P. Sawyer on Haywood street. The place of meeting was changed this week owing to the wedding of the Y. M. C. A. auditorium for other purposes.

Miss Nellie Gee, of New York, has been chosen to take the place of Miss Elizabeth Anderson, who has recently resigned her position as teacher at the Park avenue school. Miss Gee comes to Asheville highly recommended and the school board feels that it has made a fortunate selection. She will enter upon her new duties at once.

Mrs. E. Rosenfeld entertained the Thursday Bridge club yesterday afternoon at her residence on Orange street, the guests of honor being Mrs. Silverman, of Providence, R. I., and Mrs. Charis, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who are spending the spring at the Battery Park hotel, and Miss Dorothy Long. The color used was green, and the house was beautifully decorated by the use of rare ferns and tropical plants, palms, etc. The best bonbons and food cakes were green of the collation which was served at the

The culinary "LAW OF THE HOUSEHOLD"

Is summed up in the famous Weston Snowdrift Oil Cook Book. It brings to every home the choicest recipes the world has developed for the epicure, and affords many an economical solution to knotty problems of the dining room and kitchen. And instead of hog fat and animal lard and greases, it brings into the family the nourishing, healthful influence of a pure, highly refined vegetable oil, unapproached for fine results in shortening, frying and salad dressings.
