VITERBO, Italy, March 11 .- Formal proceedings began today in the trial of thirty six members of the Neapolitan camorra including the alleged head of the organization, Enrico Alfano, also known as Erricone, for the murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife, Maria Cutinelli Cuoccolo "the beoutiful Sorrentina." For the first time in Italy two presidents of the court appeared to direct the trial, so that if one should unavoidably to absent the other might take his place.

Trouble Selecting Jury. Most of the day was given over to the selection of a jury, but notwithstanding the threats of the presiding judge to apply the severest fines against citizens offering pretexts for not serving on the jury, almost unsurmountable difficulties arose at the last moment and the trial was postponed ntil Tuesday.

The crown prosecutor strongly stignatized such want of civic feeling, which, he declared, if persisted in. would deprive the accused of their personal liberty and their right to be tried. The authorities intend to leave nothing undone, however, to bring the prisoners to justice and to keep out of the jury box any person thought susceptible to fear engendered by the Camorrists organization or influenced by threats from supporters of the accused. "Erricone" fearning that the penitentiary in Gradi belonged to the dominican inquisitors and was the seat of the supreme tribunal of inquin, made complaint to the director that he also was the victim of inquiitorial methods and protested strongly against the accusation that he had ed or directed, or was in any connected with the murder of the ican detective Ideut. Jos. Petrosino at Palermo in 1909, one of the crimes that the government authoriies are most anxious to connect the Cammorists with.

When the jury had been sworn President Bianchi questioned the prisoners closely concerning their careers This examination concluded, a mass of decuments was presented by the
