WEDDING IN DURHAM OF INTEREST HERE

The many friends of T. K. Bruner, formerly of this city, but now a resident of Blaco, will be interested in the following special to the Charlotte Observer from Durham. A surprise wedding this evening at the First Presbyterian church was that of Thomas K. Bruner of Blaco and Miss Annie Hamilton of Raleigh, who came here accompanied by Miss Kathleen Bernard and Arthur Holding, who stood with them. They came on the 5 o'clock train and sought the register and the jeweler, and Rev. Dr. Leyburn of the Presbyterian church. Smart work finished the ring in time for the Raleigh attendants to return and break the news to the other couple taking the westbound train for Greensboro. They will go to Blaco, where Mr. Bruner has a position in the cotton mills. He is a son of the late secretary of the department of agriculture and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Hamilton. They will live in Blaco.

PECULIAR SAWS

The employment of circular disks of iron, turning with great velocity, but possessing no teeth on the edge, for sawing material, is common in many workshops. Among other places where such saws without teeth are used are the celebrated Krupp gun works, where armor plate is sometimes cut in this manner. The process is not a newly discovered one. As long ago as 1824 Darrier and Colladon, at Geneva, experimented with swiftly rotating disks of iron. They found that when a disk about seven inches in diameter turned with a peripheral velocity of ten meters a second, it could be cut with a steel tool pressed against it but that when the velocity was increased to twenty-one meters a second the steel tool was damaged. At a velocity of sixty meters a second the iron disk even cut quartz and steel.

WIND DRIVEN ICE CARRIER

A "sail car" for transporting ice is successfully used on a railroad track in Florida, says the July number of Popular Mechanics magazine. The car holds 70 cakes of ice, each weighing 200 lbs., or a total of 14,000 lbs. There is usually enough wind blowing at any time to push the car, which, with an ordinary wind, makes the trip in three minutes.

DUST IS THE WORKMAN'S FOE

Science with her wizard appliances has done marvelous things for mankind in the matter of protection against disease. She has searched out the causes of the scourges that formerly played havoc with the human race. Smallpox, diphtheria, cholera and typhoid fever have been hunted down and made to reveal their death-dealing secrets. We have learned to be cautious as regards the character of our drinking water. We know the danger of the malaria-carrying mosquito. We appreciate the insidious means of the common house-fly. We understand the importance of enforcing pure-food laws. Nevertheless, there is one broad avenue along which disease and death march arm in arm, right into the very heart of the citadel of life. It is the highway that leads from the Kingdom of Dust. The myriads of dust motes are the real executioners of mankind, especially in those occupations where the formation of dust is a necessary concomitant.

An average man breathes about 21 cu. ft. of air per hour. Under the very best conditions possible, the air he breathes is never entirely free from dust. Under ordinary conditions the average business man in his comparatively sanitary office breathes in thousands of dust particles every hour. The workman, who earns his livelihood in shop, factory, or mine, has his proportion of motes enormously increased, owing to the nature of his work; unfortunately, also, the character of these particles is too often changed from the innocuous kind to the death-dealing splinters due to certain occupations. An artisan working with knee-edged tools must exercise extreme care in order to prevent harm to himself. If he is surrounded by circular saws revolving at lightning speed, or with vats of corrosive acid, or furnaces of molten steel, these perils are at least in open view, and may be guarded against. It is different, however, with the dangers lurking in dust. They are invisible, but none the less deadly. In a steel-grinding factory, the air is charged with flying, jagged splinters of steel, infinitely sharper and more dangerous than the razor-edged tools to which he is accustomed. Every breath sends bits of metal, keener than the famed Damascus blades, right into the midst of his delicate lung tissue. From "The Kingdom of Dust," by J. Gordon Ogden in the July Popular Mechanics Magazine.

JOHNSON GETS A FIGHT

LONDON, July 16.—Articles have been signed for a fight in London before September 10 between Jack Johnson and Bombardier Wells for the championship of the world and $40,000. Most Englishmen consider that Wells will have small chance against the heavyweight champion.

NEW YORK IN MIDST OF AN INVASION

Use men, who have been in daily contact with persons suffering from Asiatic cholera, to come to this city in the same clothes they wore when about the cholera victims and touch elbows with everybody they meet? Is the question propounded by Judge Ruiger in the interview. Dr. Day's statement continues: "The facts are these: The five men referred to were called as witnesses by the people in charge of the investigation and were permitted by me to be absent from duty at Hoffman island for this purpose. Cholera is not transmitted by clothing or by the air but by actual contact through the mouth with discharges from the intestinal tract of the cholera victim. There is, therefore, no danger whatever from contact with a person who has been in the presence of the disease." In the presence of the disease, Dr. Dauchkind also calls attention to the development of a number of cases of cholera at quarantine as he alleges "several days after the period of incubation had expired."

SITUATION WATCHED

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The public health and marine hospital people are watching closely the appearance of cholera in New York and are co-operating in every way with the health authorities of that state. One of the experts of the service will leave tomorrow to lend further assistance to the state officials and instructions have been sent to agents abroad at all suspected ports to exert increased vigilance and to call for further assistance if the situation warrants. Government officials here scout the idea that there is any danger of anything approaching an epidemic of cholera.

CANADA'S RAPID DEVELOPMENT

Our neighbor on the north is rapidly attracting the wistful eyes of over populated Europe, to whom free homesteads and cheap farms offer possibilities impossible in the homeland. While the volume of immigrants coming into Canada is much less than that coming to this country, it is very much larger in proportion to the resident population of the two countries. During the past two years the Canadian government gave away land to homesteaders in six equal lots to the state of Illinois, and the present year 300,000 homesteads are available, equivalent to the state of Ohio. Canada expects to receive half a million additional population this year, of whom 150,000 will enter from the United States. This, with the construction of 1,600 miles of railroad into new country will make busy times across the border.

Until the past few years immigration to Canada was comparatively small and the country, notwithstanding its vast area and natural resources, has been handicapped and held back for lack of population. This construction of her lines to the Pacific, and the incentives afforded and inviting opportunities, have directed attention to the Canadian northwest, and the tide now flowing is but the vanguard of millions yet to come.—H. H. Windsor in the July Popular Mechanics magazine.

MANY DRUNKARDS

"Nowhere in all the world today can be found as many confirmed drunkards as there were among the Thracians, the Iberians, the Celts or the Sogdians," says a writer. "The man who didn't get drunk every day or two was regarded as queer. The Greeks were moderate drinkers until their treatment by the luxury of the Persian feasts. Then the whole world went on a mad drunk. It was a saturnal. Caligula owes his niche in the hall of fame to the drunken banquet with which he made even Rome marvel. The excesses made fashionable by such potentates as Lullius, Nero, Verres, Tiberius, Caligula, Vitellius and Domitian really began in the days of Pompey, and they mark the beginning of the end of the republic."

ABOUT SKIRTS

A few weeks ago attention was called to the probability of the passing of the stereotyped expression "she wore skirts to her ankles," because of the general use nowadays of the short skirt without regard to age. Nowhere is another expression that probably will become obsolete because of the progress of fashion. It is "he belongs to the silk stocking class." That used to mean, taken literally, that the person so referred to was wealthy enough to buy silk stockings. All that is changed now. The silk footwear is no longer only within the reach of the rich. It may be obtained now for from 75 cents a pair upwards.—New York Tribune.

GRIEWSOME PICTURE

The China correspondent of The Lancet gives a gruesome picture of the disposal of the victims of the plague in north China. The greatest difficulty, it seems, has been experienced in this matter. About one hundred and fifty grave diggers took five days to dig a pit large enough to hold one hundred coffins, the ground being frozen deeply. The dead, coffined and uncoffined, accumulated in huge stacks, but the local officials absolutely refused to cremate as advised by the foreign doctors. It was not until permission had at last been obtained from the throne that the dead could be burned.

The solution of a problem is a very interesting pastime, but that the owner of an automobile is in poor business trying to amuse himself in this way.

It is a fight of fancy that takes a man with money into a place where they sell junk accessories.

HEALTHY MOTHERS

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for or free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature. "MADFIELD LEGISLATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga."
