

Society and Personals

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Templeton announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Elliott, to Mr. Clifford Williams, of Lynchburg, Va. The wedding invitations will be issued during the week, and the marriage, it is understood, takes place in October at the home of the bride's parents on South French Broad avenue, and will be attended only by the close friends and relatives of the interested parties. Miss Templeton is a charming representative of the Calhoun and Templeton families, two of the oldest and most distinguished families of South Carolina and Georgia. Mr. Williams is prominently connected also, and is a descendant of President Madison. Mr. Williams holds an important post in the government service. Several hundred invitations will be issued, principally to out-of-town relatives and friends.

The Edward Boncompagni chapter, D. A. R., will meet Friday afternoon, Sept. 29, at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the regent, Mrs. Theodore Morrison, on Pearson's drive. A full attendance is requested as delegates will be elected to the state congress. The subject of the afternoon will be "Historic Homes in North Carolina," with a paper by Mrs. Thomas Woodriddle.

Mr. Charles Folson is entertaining a small week-end house party at his bungalow at Marshall, which is being chaperoned by Mrs. Bates, of that city. Several Asheville guests went to Marshall yesterday and will return to town tomorrow, and were Miss Lillian Fletcher, Miss Maud Guder, Miss Mary Stickleather, Miss Lillian Weaver, Mr. Willis G. Burns, Mr. Vonno Guder and several others.

The Danville, Va., Register of recent date contained an announcement of the engagement of Miss Noel Vass, of that city, to Mr. Thomas Meyers, of New York, which will be of special interest in this city, where the former, through frequent visits, is well known and has a great many friends.

An interesting event in society yesterday was the beautifully appointed luncheon given by Mrs. William Young Noel at her handsome home on Main street, at 1 o'clock, complimentary to her friend, Miss Nellie Penrose Vass, whose engagement was announced to Mr. Thomas M. Myers, of New York. Several intimate friends of the bride-to-be had been invited by the hostess to a luncheon and these did not expect the pleasant surprise, which was to be announced to them later in a most unique manner.

The lovely Noel home was decorated with quantities of fragrant autumn blossoms and ferns which made a lovely background for the coterie of handsomely gowned young women present. Mrs. Noel received the guests in the front drawing room, which was banked with roses of a most delicate shade of pink, while the light from a pink shaded electricolier cast a soft glow about the room.

The dining room was in green and white and the prevailing tone was most effectively carried out. Resting on an exquisite piece of Cluny lace was a tastefully arranged centerpiece of Yucca and ferns outlined with sprays of feathery clematis, dainty sprays of this same trailing vine festooned the chandelier. The soft light from green candles added charm to the lovely scene. The place cards were very attractive, pen and ink sketches of Cupids with toasts sparkling with wit and humor written on the reverse side. The bouquets were in miniature gold nests with two doves perched on either side holding in their bills a message of love, each plate was a miniature trunk, perched on top of which was a little Cupid holding the wedding ring and also a small dove bearing the scroll containing these words:

"Miss Nellie Penrose Vass. Mr. Thomas M. Myers, November, 1911." Some of the attractive features of the luncheon were the individual leaves to green and white, each of which was garnished with a tiny white taper. After this followed the toasts to the bride-to-be which caused much merriment. During Miss Vass's response all who were present clasped hands, making a circle of friendship and love. A cablegram from Mr. Myers added much interest to the occasion.

Seated around the table were Mrs. William T. Noel, Miss Nellie Vass, Miss Bonnie Watson, Miss Madge Vass, Miss Sue Schofield, Miss Willcox Wiseman, Miss Fanula Bouldin, Miss Helen Waddill, Miss Bonnie Carter, Miss Kathryn Hinson, Miss Irma Allen and Miss Mary Leigh.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fitzhugh Vass, of Danville, and is loved and admired by a large circle of friends. Her charming personality has won for her an enviable position in society and her friends will regret giving her up. Mr. Myers is a prominent young business man of New York. The wedding will be one of the leading events in society of the late autumn, the wedding to take place some time in November.

The M. L. C.'s held their reorganization meeting on Thursday night, Sept. 21. An informal banquet was followed by a discussion of possible subjects for the winter's work. Greek mythology was unanimously chosen, and on Thursday evening, Sept. 23, the first regular meeting will be held at the home of the members. The M. L. C.'s meet every second Thursday from October to June, and the members derive much pleasure as well as benefit from their study. The members are enthusiastic over the subject for the year's work.

The music for the Sunday morning service at Chestnut street Methodist church will be as follows: Anthem, by Schenker, "Jesus, Savior, Ever," Miss Bianch Loftain will be the soloist. Miss Viola Owenby is the organist.

Miss Cora Lee Drummond will issue invitations within several days for a tea which she will give at her bungalow, "Pine Logs," on Magnolia avenue, in honor of Miss Frances Dufour, whose marriage to Mr. Hobart Allport takes place early in October. The tea will be given Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. W. L. Scott will be the soloist at Central Methodist church this morning.

Mr. Clarence N. Maxwell has returned from Tokaway Inn, Lake Tokaway.

Mr. and Mrs. J. John Worsley have gone to Canton to spend the week-end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Woodcock.

Mr. C. Herman Hollowell left yesterday for Proctor.

Mr. Vester C. Bradley, of Mars Hill, was in Asheville yesterday.

Miss Bertha Tilson, of Weaverville, is in town with friends for several days.

Miss Esther Wilson has returned to her home in Charlotte after a visit of several days to Miss Nettie Brown.

Miss Lola Jenkins is in town from the Durham conservatory of music for a brief visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Jenkins.

Mr. J. A. Porter, of Billmore, has returned from a several days' stay at the Knoxville exposition.

Mrs. Malette, of Mobile, who has been at Busbee Hall, is in town for a short stay, and is a guest at Margo Terrace.

Miss Lois Davis has returned from a visit of several weeks to friends in the eastern part of the state.

Mr. Preston Lansford has returned to Nashville, Tenn., after a several days' visit to Mr. Tim Cooke.

Mrs. Duffield Hilliard has gone to Norfolk, Va., for a several weeks' stay after which she will return to Asheville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Montgomery have returned from New York.

Mrs. K. F. Alexander and daughter, Miss Ruth, are the guests of Mrs.

F. A. Hull. They have spent the summer in Hendersonville, and will the first October return to their home in Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell Stroud and Miss Anna M. Brandt, of Pass Christian, Miss., are spending several days with their nephew, Mr. Joseph B. Brandt, at the Knickerbocker.

Miss Sadie Griffith has returned to her home in Greensboro after a short visit to friends in the city.

Col. S. A. Jones of Waynesville, was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. Clyde Norman and children, who have spent the summer with the parents of the former in Tulsa, Okla., have returned to their home in Oklahoma.

HOOD'S OPENING.

Hood's millinery opening yesterday was the event of the morning, very little else being done until the important matter of choosing the winter "bonnet" was disposed of. The hats are startling in color and style this season, and are not for the timid and retiring maid. Never have the picture hats been so immense, their delicate satiny brims are furled or fringed on the under side, and trimmed with huge feather pompoms, or a mammoth bunch of the new feather that might be termed "near paradise." Fur, velvet and heavy dull gold embroideries are combined in beautiful color effects. The coronation purple is used in many of the most beautiful hats, and has a quiet distinction especially pleasing in contrast to the vivid greens that demand so much of one. The quaint little poke bunnets with an arrangement of velvet at the back, suggestive of the Alton bow, are charming in black and gold being especially seductive. A small theater hat of black beaver, almost obscured by a smart pink bow and a cluster of shell pink plumes attracted much attention. Some of the large and small hats had beautiful little wreaths or sprays of small satin flowers of many colors running under the brim or peeping out from beneath a picturesque bow. The hats are entirely new in shape and few of them are alike, which will insure one this season of the comfort of being distinguishable from the cook, who usually cherishes millinery ambitions.

JULIUS C. MARTIN, JR. FALLS FROM A TREE

Quite Painful But Not Serious Accident, No Bones Having Been Broken.

Julius C. Martin, Jr., the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, was the victim of a very painful accident yesterday afternoon when he fell about thirty-five feet from a tree, on Crescent street. The boy, with a number of playmates, was playing near the tree and gathering chestnuts when Julius climbed the tree to shake some down, with the result that a limb on which he was standing broke and he was thrown to the ground. He suffered a bruised hip, shoulder and side and sprained a wrist, although no bones were broken. The little fellow was unconscious for a while, but soon regained consciousness, and it is believed that he will be able to be up again within a short time.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES OF $8,000 INSTITUTED

Removed from Superior Court of McDowell County to United States Circuit Court.

The transcript in the case of I. H. Green, administrator of Elam Corpening, against the Southern Railway company, which was brought in McDowell county, has been filed with Clerk W. S. Hyams, of the United States Circuit court, the case having been removed, on motion of the defendant company, from the Superior court of McDowell county.

The plaintiff, who is represented by R. S. McCall and C. C. Lisabee, is suing the Southern for $8,000, alleging that Corpening was killed while employed as brakeman on a freight train between Asheville and Salisbury.

The Southern is represented by Manley, Henderson & Womble, W. T. Morgan and S. J. Ervin.

The First of a Series of Articles on the Bon Marche's New Store

The first week in October the Bon Marche will open in its new quarters; Nos. 19, 21 and 23 Patton Ave. During this week, prior to the moving, there will appear in the daily papers a number of advertisements appertaining to the new store. Those interested should read and thereby become familiar with Asheville's most progressive retail establishment.

Asheville is just emerging from its infancy. Prospects are very bright indeed. The Head of this firm has been in business here for thirty-two years, coming when Asheville was a village of twenty-five hundred. He has seen the village grow into a town, the town into a modern city. At no time in the past has the future been so promising. Four large Hotels are contemplated for the near future; two Suburban Car Lines have been built during the past year, others are promised; residences are being erected in every part of the City; the past summer was the greatest in every way the town has yet seen. The outlook is most pleasing.

When we move into the new store, we intend to have everything that a woman can desire. Even now hundreds of cases of all kinds of merchandise are hurrying to the new store. In these articles we will endeavor to show how it will pay you to be a customer of the BON MARCHE, not only financially, but in every other manner.

We will sell only goods that come up to the BON MARCHE'S standard. This does not mean expensive goods, but rather merchandise to be relied upon. In this we merely maintain the policy of the past.

It has taken much time, trouble and money to make this store the Show Place of Asheville. We were determined to give Asheville the best we could afford nothing has been spared. In the near future you can come and see for yourself how true these sentences are.
