

Society and Personals

The recent wedding of Mr. Leon Hattomer and Miss Lorana Cain, which occurred in Montgomery, was an event of considerable social interest in that city and in Asheville, where Mrs. Hattomer and her family have their summer home. Mrs. Hattomer and Miss Hulda Hattomer were present at the wedding of the son of the former, Mrs. Basil Valentin, who was to have been matron of honor, but owing to a recent illness was unable to be present. The advertisement contained a picture of Miss Cain and a column and a half describing the wedding, the elaborate decorations and arrangements, in detail all of which is omitted to give space to descriptions of the ceremony and principals, as follows:

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by an orchestra, the bridal party descended the stairs, led by Miss Laura Kennedy, Elmer Crum, Annie Foras Smith and Julia Randolph, four girl friends of the bride, who carried broad satin ribbons, through which the bridal party passed. The three bridesmaids, Miss Phedora Randolph, Miss Margaret Hubbard and Miss Jean Mapes, entered next. They wore gowns of white crepe meteor trimmed with pearls and lace, and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums, the color of the blossoms contrasting prettily with the white of their gowns.

Miss Jett-Aileen Farley was first bridesmaid. She wore a Parisian gown of white embroidered mousseline in chrysanthemum design over white satin, trimmed with gold lace, and carried golden chrysanthemums.

Just preceding the bride was her maid of honor, Miss Theo Lipfert, of Winston-Salem, N. C. She wore a Parisian gown of white messaline with an overdress of white chiffon, and with trimmings of rose point lace and pearls. Her flowers were white chrysanthemums.

Miss Cain entered with her father, Mr. McDuff Cain, by whom she was given in marriage. She was a picture of girlish beauty in her bridal robe of white satin, fashioned empire, and with a court train of princess lace over white satin. Her veil was caught to her hair with a spray of lilies of the valley, and she carried a showy bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Hattomer was attended by Mr. John Brandon as best man. Reverend S. D. Devall officiated, and the ceremony of the Episcopal church was used.

Afterwards an informal reception was held and an ice course was served. Assisting in receiving the guests were Mrs. Cain, mother of the bride, and Mrs. J. L. Hattomer, mother of the groom.

Mrs. Cain wore a gown of white crepe meteor trimmed with rich lace. Mrs. Hattomer's gown was of white crepe meteor trimmed with rich lace.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hattomer left for New Orleans, from whence they will sail for New York and other points. The bride's gown was a handsome coat suit of pastel blue, with shoes and gloves to match, and her hat was of black beaver cloth trimmed with mirror veils in pastel shades.

MALARIA CONQUEST NEAR

It was about this time in September, 1629—22 years ago—that a woman introduced to the physicians of Europe the bark of the cinchona tree, from which quinine is made, and in so doing conferred upon humanity one of the greatest blessings that have come to it.

The Countess of Chincun, wife of the French ambassador to Peru, suffered while in that country terribly from malaria, a disease for which at that time there was no known remedy. Being advised to drink a tea made from cinchona bark, she tried it and was cured. She, in all probability, did not realize the fact that she had come across the antidote to the most wide-reaching and demoralizing of all the diseases that ever afflicted the race.

Naturally, however, upon her return to France she took with her some of the bark which had been so beneficial to her, and, like the good woman that she was, she was instrumental in having it introduced into the medical practice of France and of the continent.

The story of the ravages of malaria is as old as the history of the race, and, without knowing what it was, men, women and children all over the world and through all the generations have suffered and died from its insidious poisons.

It was this inevitable foe more than anything else, more than the arms of the barbarians or the luxury of the world owners by the Tiber, that destroyed the Roman empire and most of the other ancient civilizations. This same vile enemy, lurking in the swamps and marshes of every land today, would repeat the terrible work it did in the old times were it not for the remedy we have in the little white powder that comes from the bark that was made known to the world by the Countess of Chincun.

NATURE'S CURE FOR CHRONIC ULCERS

Only by removing the cause can any chronic Ulcer or Old Sore be cured. No one will question the truthfulness of this statement. The cause is always from an inward source, never an outward influence, and therefore the only possible way to get rid of these places is to take internal treatment. Pure blood is the one unfailing cure for chronic ulcers; just as long as the circulation is allowed to remain in an impure condition the place will be kept open from the constant discharge of impurities into it from the blood. But pure blood will change this condition and the flesh tissues will be nourished and made healthy, and then nature will promptly and permanently heal the ulcer. S. S. S. is recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers and therein lies its power to cure old ulcers and sores. It goes into the circulation, and removes every trace of impurity or infectious matter, and so enriches this vital fluid that it nourishes all flesh tissues instead of irritating them with impurities. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood and the place has healed over it is not a surface cure, but the entire ulcer is filled in with healthy flesh. Book and medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.
