brated their fifty-fifth wedding an- ler's "The Havoc" ily connection and intimate friends, rest before Christmas. Mr. Lindsey is one of the ploneer citizens of Asheville and one of the few remaining survivors of the North C., is in Asheville for several days, on business.

Mrs. Duffield Hillard has issued she will give tomofrow afternoon in the Albemarie Park Club house. The reception will be one of the most important social events of the holidays and is the first of several functions which will be given between now and the New Year, and for which invitations are being issued. The hours for Mrs. Hillard's reception tomorrow are from five un-til seven o'clock.

The Santa Claus wagon will make trips today on Haywood street, Cher-ry, Phillips and several other streets in the sicinity. The Charitles wish the sicinity. The Charities wish to thank the public for the generous response to their appeal this year, and to state also that the gifts have been more numerous than ever before. The bundles are being made in the city for several days on busi-up and those holding tickets will ness. call Friday and Saturday at the beadquarters in the Outes building. If the wagon has omitted to call on any one wishing to give cloth-ing or groceries, Mrs. Wild may be notified at 902 and if possible, the bundles will be called for.

Dr. and Mra. Charles Launcelot Minor have issued invitations to an at home which they will give New at home which they will give New Year's day from five until seven o'clock at their residence on North French Broad awanue, in honor of their daughter. Miss Lucy Minor. Miss Minor made her debut this winter in Charlottesville, Va., at a tea given at the University of Vir-ginia.

Miss Eva Starnes and Mrs. Ernest Paxton were married Sunday by Magistrate Gudger. Miss Starnes is the daughter of Mr. and Mre. J.
P. Starnes and has many triends in Asheville who will learn with interest of her marriage. Mr. Paxton is connected with the Gloucest-r Lumber Company, of Transylvania county.

The rectial given yesterday afternoon at the Asheville School for Giris was very well attended and a most successful affair. The drawing froom was attractively decorated with various Christmas greens. There wars about eighteen jumbers on the program, principally instrumental, although a group of songs by one of the children was a feature of the afternoon. The program was unusually interesting and the work of the children was remarkably well done. Mass Elimbeth Porter invited a number of personal friends to the recital which was a most onloyable and successful affair.

NO ACTION IS TAKEN

At a called meeting of the board of county commissioners yesterday for the purpose of deciding upon me method of checking contagiou diseases, no action was taken in view of the fact that County Attorney E. Swain so ordered because of Judge Peebles' holding in Wake county that the county board of health is an unconstitutional organ ization. As that was appealed to the Supreme court, no action will be tak en by the county commissioners, probably, until the outcome of the case in known. Various organica tions endorsing the movement for a county health officer to devote more time to the health conditions of the county, appeared before the commissioners yesterday, and in view of the situation in Wake county and th holding of a Superior court judge appreciated the position of the com-
