NEWS AND GOSSIP FROM CAPITAL OF OLD NORTH STATE

Preparations for Teachers' Convention at Raleigh Complete.

Governor CRAIG'S ADDRESS FEATURE

Governor Declares Lobbying Was Absent From Recent Legislative Session.

RALEIGH, Nov. 15.—Preparations are in full swing for the convening of the North Carolina Teachers' assembly here November 24 and continuing through November 29, and the official program is to come from the printers ready to be mailed within the next day or two. It seems with important features from the opening ceremonies when J. W. Bailey will deliver the address of welcome and Dr. J. Y. Joyner the response and the address by Governor Craig on Wednesday morning, straight through to Friday evening when the marble bust of the late Calvin H. Wiley will be presented to the state through an address by Acting President Graham, of the University of North Carolina and accepted by Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes for the state. The State Association of Primary Teachers, the State Association of Kindergarten Teachers, Grammar Grade Teachers' association, State Association of County Superintendents, Association of City Superintendents, Association of Academies and Colleges, State Association of Music Teachers, Association of High School Teachers and Principals, and Association of Public High School Teachers are all provided with special programs adapted to their special work and suitable halls for the sessions of each have been procured and distinguished speakers and specialists of renown are booked for special addresses and demonstration work. Never have the teachers of the state been so fully awakened to the importance of attending the assembly and the indications are due probably one thousand teachers to be here.

Governor Craig and Chief Justice Walker Clark went to Greensboro this afternoon to deliver addresses in connection with a meeting of the Just Freight Rate association and friends of the two high state officials expressed special interest in this meeting on the same platform since the recent harsh criticism of the governor by Judge Clark in which he declared that had Governor Craig taken prompt and sharp action against railroad lobbyists at the recent special session of the legislature such as President Wilson took against lobbyists in congress freight rate legislation far better for the people would have been secured.

A significant feature of Governor Craig's speech in Greensboro is this paragraph:

"There was absent from this general assembly (the special session) the lobbying which has heretofore characterized some legislatures, the railroads were heard before the committee, but there was no 'insidious lobby.' I believe the railroads have come to realize that they cannot control the legislation of this state, by the influences which have been sometimes employed, that their interests will be dealt with as all other interests, and that the array of lobbyists which have sometimes gathered in Raleigh will do them no good. At any rate the lack of much of a lobby was clearly apparent at the special session. This was to the honor of the general assembly and the credit of the railroads."

State Treasurer Lacy received today notice from the directors of the State School for the Blind that the executive committee of the board is directed to not approve any voucher against the state for the $4,819 claimed by the Greater Raleigh Land company, to be due it on the purchase price for the tract of land bought as a new site for the school.

The directors explain in a resolution adopted that the board of directors and the state have already paid all that it was agreed they should pay for this piece of property. The legislature, at the recent special session provided an appropriation for this amount to take care of the claim. Now the directors refuse to pay the claim and this leaves the appropriation unclaimed. The trouble was that in purchasing this new site somebody seems to have pledged the business men of Raleigh would raise this balance of $4,819 and then it developed that the promise was not made by any one who could make it good by going out and actually raising the money. Then the legislature was appealed to make the appropriation. Raleigh came in for some sharp criticism when the appropriation was pending.

Two new North Carolina corporations were chartered today: The Newbern Veneer and Pannel company, of Newbern, capital $30,000 authorized and $1,200 subscribed by Dr. W. W. Dawson, George M. Dunkle, and others.

The Patterson-Glasscock Inc., Charlotte, capital $100,000 authorized and $10,000 subscribed by E. V. Patterson, A. D. Glascock and others, for stock, bond, insurance and real estate business.

The Rocky Mount Publishing company, of Rocky Mount, which published The Rocky Mount Telegram, filed an amendment to its charter today increasing the capital stock authorized to $10,000 preferred and $10,000 common, with $4,000 minimum for business to begin, of this $1,150 being preferred and $3,520 common stock.

Saturday is the day on which Governor Craig has indicated that he will announce the appointees for the special freight rate commission to adjust the rates fixed in the Justice Infratate freight rate act and the names of the new commissioners are being awaited with the keenest interest. There are no candidates or active campaigns for the appointment of Governor Craig some time ago that the seeking of an appointment would really operate against the candidate. Mr. D. Y. Cooper, of Henderson, prominent cotton mill man of wide business interests is being generally mentioned as likely to be selected. Also there is considerable talk of the probability of Hon. H. A. London, of Pittsboro, being chosen as one of the commissioners. Also Mr. Watta, of Charlotte, is believed to be a likely possibility. Neither of these gentlemen have made any move toward securing the appointment nor are they in any sense candidates, it is said.

Corporation Commissioners Lee and Pell returned today from their eastern Carolina trip for special hearings at Elizabeth City, La Grange, Wallace, Rose Hill and a brief stop in Wilmington. They and Secretary Pell, of the commission, are much pleased at the indications of success that are attending the movement for establishing a new steamboat line Baltimore to Wilmington and later New York and probably Boston to Wilmington, with Charlotte and other interior towns actively interested in the success of the enterprise. The undertaking hasn't the specific purpose of cutting freight rates that many would like to have specified, but there is the declared purpose of reducing rates to the end that a sufficient volume of business may be attracted to the new line and held. There is every indication now of success.

J.F. FRANK PATE DIES AT HOME IN FLETCHER

6 SCANDINAVIANS STUDENTS HERE ON FELLOWSHIPS

First Fruits of Half-million Endowment Provided by Neils Poulson.

MISS GLEDITSCH IN YALE LABORATORY

Had Been a Co-worker With Mme. Curie in Radium Experiments.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Six Scandinavian students, graduates of important institutions in Norway, Sweden and Denmark, are now in America pursuing advanced studies in universities here through the patronage of the American-Scandinavian Foundation. The foundation was established in 1911 and endowed with $500,000 by bequest of the late Niels Poulson of Brooklyn, for "the purpose of maintaining an interchange of students and teachers and for supporting other forms of educational intercourse between the United States and Denmark, Norway and Sweden."

The holders of the fellowships, two from each of the Scandinavian countries, are now at work in several institutions. One of them, Einar Corvin, is at Columbia. He is a graduate student in psychology, and had already accomplished some valuable results in his researches in the universities of Uppsala, Stockholm and Lund before he came here to get the American point of view in psychological studies.

The other Swedish fellow is Erik Koersner, who is studying concrete and water power construction in the graduate school of applied science at Harvard. C. M. Pedersen is taking advanced courses in railroad construction at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston and Wilhelm Siomann is studying library methods in the New York State Library school at Albany. Both of these students are from Denmark.

One Woman. Norway furnishes the only woman in the fellowship group. She is Miss Ellen Gleditsch, an investigator in chemistry and physics. For five years Miss Gleditsch was working in the laboratory of Mme. Curie, the discoverer of radium. She has published several articles on radium experiments, and was so well known in scientific circles that several American universities made special efforts to induce her to accept their laboratories as the workshop for her experimentation this year. Johns Hopkins and the University of Minnesota both wanted her. Harvard has never admitted women students to the Jefferson Physical Laboratory, one of the big research laboratories of that institution, but the director made an exception in Miss Gleditsch's case and invited her to be his guest in the work there for a year. She finally chose Yale because of some special equipment which she desired in her researches and she is now at work in the Yale laboratory.

The other Norwegian fellow is Arnt Jakobsen, who is studying in the engineering school of the University of Wisconsin. He is specializing in bridge construction. In addition to the six fellows there are two students pursuing studies on scholarships provided by the foundation. These are Bernhard Bergersen of Norway, who is studying advanced English courses at Harvard, and Paul Christiansen of Denmark, who is in the Carnegie Technical school, Pittsburgh. Dr. Henry G. Leach, secretary and executive officer of the foundation, at No. 25 West Forty-fifth street, told a World reporter that it is the expectation of his organization to send many promising American students to Norwegian institutions for advanced study. "We hope there will be a lot of people to apply for the appointments," said Dr. Leach, "because we want to be able to select the very best. And we want the appointments to be representative of the best that our universities turn out. I have recently had a letter from a man interested in architecture. He wants to study the cathedrals of Scandinavia. There are others who want to study co-operative agriculture—and in the Scandinavian countries you can get the best opportunities in that branch. The great industrial movements there harnessing water power and developing mines, makes these countries especially attractive to the student of engineering and mining and economics."

The translating and publishing of books by the Scandinavian authors will be taken up by the foundation next year. A beginning has already been planted. Dr. Leach says the average American is woefully ignorant of the great body of Scandinavian literature, and the work of translating and publishing is looked upon as one of the most important of the undertakings of the foundation.

"The only Scandinavian writers known in English are Hans Christian Anderson and Brandes of Denmark, Ibsen and Bjornson of Norway, Lag-erriet and Strindberg of Sweden," said Dr. Leach. "There are a hundred other authors who ought to be known. There is Holberg, the great eighteenth century dramatist. He is perhaps a greater dramatist than Ibsen or Strindberg, and he is absolutely not known in English. We are going to make a beginning in our translations with his work. Frederick Schenk of Harvard and James Oscar Campbell of Wisconsin university will translate three of his plays, which we will publish under the title, 'Three Comedies of Holberg.' This book we expect to issue next year."

Dr. Leach visited three Scandinavian countries the past summer. He has long been a student of Scandinavian literature and arts and politics. From 1908 to 1910 he was a traveling fellow of Harvard university in Scandinavia. During a part of this time he was secretary to the American minister at Copenhagen. In 1910 he came back to America and was made instructor in English and Scandinavian literature in Harvard. With the establishment of the American-Scandinavian foundation he came to New York as its secretary.

TWO MORE PLAYERS SIGNED YESTERDAY

Mountaineer Winter Squad is Increased by Outfielder and Post-Side Hurler—Both Amateurs.

Contracts from another outfielder and another pitcher were received yesterday by Secretary Thomas M. Duckett, of the Asheville baseball team. The new outfielder is Thomas Gudger, of Candler, who is regarded as one of the fastest amateurs in this section. The new outfielder is a brother of "Jim" Gudger, the pitcher who was with Asheville in the Appalachian league.

The new pitcher is J. F. Graham, of Concord, a port heaver with a world of speed, and a "hot on the He. too, is an amateur, but he held the amateur champions of North Carolina, the Red Springs team, scoreless through ten heart-breaking innings last summer. Every indication points to his more than making good in professional company next season.

Members of the Stove league are busy refreshing the dope these days and speculating on prospects for next year, and every dyed-in-the-wool fan is simply bubbling over with enthusiasm over the Mountaineer's outlook for securing the rag.

Baraback whipping of six Delaware convicts at Newcastle last November resulted in a resolution in congress providing that induction proceedings be brought against the state of Delaware.
