Affect an INDIVIDUAL Lillian Russell & PERFUME

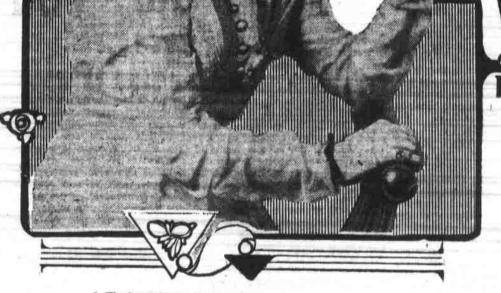

JUST AS THERE IS HAR-MONY IN COLOR. FORM. AND SOUND, SO IS THERE A HARMONY OF ODORS. AND IT IS POSSIBLE TO CULTIVATE THE OLFAC-TORY NERVE TO A KEEN AND SENSITIVE APPRE-CIATION OF THIS HARMONY.

(Copyright: 1918: By Lillian Russell.)

FEW years ago only one or two perfumers of Paris were known among us, and we considered that to have a bottle of perfume from one of those French establishments was to taste real luxury. Perhaps the perfumes in those days. better-at least they were more delicate.

In Paris today every woman affects a special perfume. You are quite convinced of that when near them, either in private houses among your friends or among strangers whom you meet in shops, restaumants, and theaters.

If refinement is judged by the amount and quality of perfume used by a woman, then there is little re-Insment in Paris, for the odors which women affect are anything but delicate. And yet perfumes are so universally used that all of the old perfumers are spreading out and new ones are bursting forth. Wonderful bottles seem to be far more important than fine edors, and the prices asked for those fancy bottles would keep a small family in food for a week. I must confess to a great weakness for delightful edors, but I do rebel at fancy bottles of cut and engraved glass for enormous prices.

1. The bouny brown haired g ri surgers rough a. One associates violets with a delicately colored blonde girl.

. .

Individuality in One Perfume.

Few women are constant to their perfumes; they try everything and mix odors indiscriminately. To be true to one delicate odor is to be individual-and you know the charm of individuality is strong. One assoclates violets with a delicately colored blonds girl. So such a girl should use violet odors, or lily of the valley, in sachets and on her handkerchiefs. A drop or two on the hair is effective also. The bonny brown haired, rosy cheeked girl suggests roses-American beauty, jacqueminot, or tea roses. Such odors may be purchased and are delicate and delicious. The dark girl suggests sandalwood and spicy odors. Jasmine and tuberose for the ash blonde, and red haired girls suggest lavender.

I know one Titlan haired girl who affects lavender at all times, and she is a veritable garden in herself. most refrashing. She uses little of the perfume, but she uses lavender water in her daily bath and on her hair. She keeps her linen chests filled with the dried lavender flowers. She is consistent in the use of her favorite odor and is a delight to meet always.

bags among your linen. Use it delicately upon your not when it is solled. And you will individualize yourself among your friends.

Just as there is harmony in color, form, and sound, so is there a harmony of odors. And it is possible to fumed pads of some soft silk or fiannel and large ones cultivate the olfactory nerve to a keen and sensitive were hung by loops of ribbon in the backs of wardappreciation of this harmony.

her the sweetest and best of all and then fixes her pad.

affections firmly upon it. She individualizes it by using it among all her belongings. She avoids the disagreeable effects of running through the whole gamut of odors with rose perfume in her glove box, sandalwood in her veils, and violet in her gowns.

It is a pretty fancy, especially for young girls, to coming or favorite color, and when opportunity or means admit the idea is carried even to the furnishings of the girl's room. Carnation, rose, lily, violet, lavender, mignonette, and peroli lend themselves charmingly to this individuality.

All history is filled with the overpowering infinence even the sails of Cleopatra's barge were fragrant as it "Burn'd on the water-the poop was beaten gold;

Purple the sails, and so perfumed that The winds were lovesick with them."

. . Perfumed Closet Walls.

use of perfumed oils. Great medicinal virtues used to sonal odors from unclean bodies. Study yourself, your type. Decide upon your favor- be attached to many essences. The rose especially was fastened into the gown. Then trunk trays and dresser robes. And from this every box or receptacle for dainty

The inst expression of luxurious fancy is to cover the perfumed pad in the electric stifle the un select an odor which harmonizes with their most be- the entire walls and ceiling of the gown closet with perfumed fiannel or slik pads. These pads are made with a backing of cheesecloth. There is a thick layer of cotton batting strewn with perfumed powder, and they are covered with silk in harmony with the perfume.

The perfumed cone for the hatr is a new and pretty exercised upon man by perfumes. Are we not told that fad. It is a tiny cone shaped bag of silk filled with a dainty sachet and is hidden away under a curl or braid or puff.

Strong perfumes are extremely vulgar. Orientals use much strong odor, spicy and sweet, which suspiclously looks as if they used it to cover up some uncleanliness. That may not be true, but the use of strong and heavy perfumes gives rise to a suspicion The beauty of Heles of Troy was attributed to the that there is an attempt being made to overcome per-

A man said to me recently: "Girls have the strange its perfume and stick to it. Use it in little sachet believed to possess qualities as healing as beguiling. idea that men like a strong machet powder and perfume, But the modern woman has exceeded all others who whereas they detest it." A delicate suggestion that a handkerchief and isces. Then sprinkle a faw drops have lived bafore her in the dainty devices which she woman's clothes have been near some agreeable powder of it upon your hair fum after it has been shampooed, has invented for imparting a subtly delicate fragrance or sachet in a drawer is pleasant, but to have strong to all her belongings. This began with tiny sachets perfumed handkerchiefs, machet bags, and such things carried around is repuisive to a man. And when this and chiffonier compartments were provided with per- sachet odor mingles with a bad breath and the average body odor the combination-and it is a not unusual one-is absolutely abhorrent.

Personal cleanliness must be observed before a per-The fastidious woman ascertains what odor is to feminine belongings has been fitted with its parfumed fume or sachet is dreamed of. Without the daily bath no amount of stohet will impart daintiness. Nor will lest a refined odor and stick to it.

S. The Titlan haired girl affoots lavenday,

4. The dark girl suggests sandal wood and spicy edu

pleasant odor that sticks to clothes hung away husriedly and without proper airing.

> Not for Men.

When you choose the eachet to lay among your things buy the most delicate one possible, and keep to the same one. Let the odor from it, a more qui tion of some flower, mingle its fragrance with the sweet small of freshly laundered linen.

There is something spiritual about a delicious sweet odor. Just as the Chinese and Japanese burn sweet incense before their bronse gods to clear the air from evil spirits and send sweet incense to heaven, so I love a dainty parfume to fill my rooms, either from freel flowers or incense.

There is a close relation between beauty and perfume. One suggests the other. I cannot imagine a beautiful woman without a delightful accompanying perfume. But perfume in a man is hardly to be tolerated. He may use a tollet water of the most simple kind sparingly, but a real man maver uses strong perfume.

There is no necessity of using vile smelling moth preventives, for sachets of dried lavender are more efficacious and do not announce in an offensive way to every one with whom you come in contact your resurrection from a packing chest.

Remember: Perfumes are symbolic of much-oo se

LILLIAN RUSSELL'S ANSWERS TO INOUIRIES BY BEAUTY SEEKERS DOLLIE: There is nothing that will make your hair great deal. A bleach will remove the tan and freckles, three months. Cocoa butter is perfectly harmless, no But she keeps it perfectly clean and beautiful. Each by little two ouncas of orange flower water, to which streaked and brittle and will break off and fall.

AMY B : The climate has a great effect on the complexicn. Where it is damp and cold for a few hours with heavy fogs, then right afte: this it is hot, hot enough almost to blister the skin, of course no one would have a lovely complexion. The only thing I can suggest is to take as good care of your complexion as you can. Nothing is better for the complexion than damp, foggy weather, and nothing worse than hot, scorching sun. Keep out of the sun when you can and never go nothing better than a good skin food massaged into a stamped, addressed envelope. the face each night when retiring. Leave a portion of this gream on your face over night to become abscreed in the skin. It will probably take you some time to get your skin in good condition gain, but if you wish to gain results you must have patience. I shall gladly send you a formula for skin food and instructions for facial massage, also a bleach for tan and freckles if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

* *

. .

PERPLEXED: I am sorry, but I cannot give you the name of a physician through my columns.

8 8 MRS. M. F. H.: To keep white hair from turning yellow it must have the best of care. Shampooing must be done carefully and thoroughly. Be sure you fighter without bleaching it. I would not advise ; ou but they will not stay off unless you take great matter how much you use. I will be glad to send you night when retiring she takes 'er hair down, mas- five drops of tincture of bensoin has been added. Be to bleach your hair. You will ruin it. It will become precautions when going out of doors. I know of complete instructions as to its use if you will send me sages her scalp, then places a piece of absorbent cot- sure to beat ingredients constantly until quite coid. ton on the testh of the comb and carefully combs her Beating is the secret of fine cream. You must also be hair. The absorbent oution takes the dirt from the sure that the ingredients are fresh and of the best hair and absorbs the oil. It keeps her hair and scalp and purest quality. perfectly clean. If you care for it and will send me a stamped, address envelope I shall gladly send you the formula get all the soap out of your hair, for if you don't it is skin food. I cannot print the formula for the astrin- that will spoil the golden glints so much desired by liable to make it yellow. Don't wash your hair more gent lotion, too, but if you will send me a stamped, the blonde girl so quickly as soap if allowed to remain than once every three weeks. Some people think addressed envelope I shall gladly send it to you: Molt in the hair. Rinse the hair thoroughly, using a strong MARGARET: Gentle massage will do no harm to white hair - t be washed often to keep it white and together in a double boller one-half ounce of white bath spray. In the last rinsing water put the juice of out of doors without a hat or sunshade In your the busts; in fact, it will develop them. I have never clean. I know an old lady who has beautiful white was, one-half ounce spermaceti, one ounce of lanolin, a lemon. This will not bleach the halr, but will preclimate it is not nearly all the year round. A good cold heard of any one getting a cancer from massage. The hair and she doesn't wash her hair more than twice in two ounces sweet almond oil, and one ounce cocoanut vent it from becoming darker. I am sending you cream will keep the face soft and protect the skin a amount of cocoa butter is not too much to use in the winter and about once a month in the summer, cil. Take off the fire and heat until cold, adding little formula for shampee for blonds half.

* *

. .

J. H.: One must be careful in the care of light hain. The hair should not be shampooed more than of a month. When shampooing blonds hair be sure that M. M.: Here is the formula for the orange flower you get all the soap out of it, for there is nothing