WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Jan. 20.—Correspondent of the Associated Press—"It would be difficult to find a more pampered lot of beings than the battle horses in the stress of battle they suffer with the men, but the number of equine casualties among the hundreds of thousands of horses employed is really very small.

There are veterans among the horses who have been three or four times wounded; there are even those who have suffered nervous breakdowns from the terrible shock of shells. If they were men in khaki they would have golden stripes of honor upon their sleeves, but the front time and they again asking nothing in the way of rank or distinction.

Best of Food. What they get instead is the best of food and the kindest care of care and the keenest appreciation of the services they render.
