MARKET NEWS

CLEWS' REVIEW

NEW YORK, May 19.—A very small proportion of our people seem to fully realize what the war means to the United States. America is not yet thoroughly awake as to the importance or the consequences to ourselves of the struggle into which we have lately entered. Very few seem to realize that the preservation of civilization and freedom of the world over is at stake. As a nation we feel quite comfortable in our trusted immunity from attack. Probably if a portion of the German fleet were to break through the wall of steel in the North Sea and succeed in crossing the Atlantic, shelling some of our eastern cities, we should then stand up and take vigorous notice. But so far we have become accustomed to the unseemly protection of the British fleet, and our sons are not yet giving up their lives in the trenches or coming home maimed and disabled of life. As a people we certainly devoutly wish to avoid these painful realities, and up to date our shocks from the war have been limited to the loss of a few lives and ships from our marine warfare. Yet the realization of the perils now facing us seems confined to the government, to those engaged in our defense and to relatively few of our leading business men. In all probability something will happen ere long to dissipate this apathy and bring us to a keener sense of the huge task before us. France has given us a magnificent example of patriotic sacrifice. For nearly three years Great Britain with a population of about 45,000,000 has been carrying the brunt of this battle for freedom. Her fleet has not only insured us from the sea but has also opened up the way for our foreign trade, the loss of which would have been an incalculable injury to our economic welfare. She has further raised an army of about 5,000,000 men, and has furnished allies to the extent of about $4,500,000,000 and aided in feeding the starving millions in Belgium, Armenia and Serbia. She is certainly doing more than her share and she has helped the principal beneficiaries. It is but just that we should give active support in return. France is weary, Russia unsettled and Italy checked, while we are fresh and strong, and we must reply by spending our energy and resources to the limit. Our young men are ready and only too anxious to defend their country's honor and reach the front lines of the war. Our industrial leaders are co-operating with the government in every possible way and without regard to personal sacrifice. The labor leaders are rivaling capital in the same directions and burying differences in a patriotic desire to serve country and cause. Only a moderate proportion of our population will go to the front or reach the trenches where the issue can only be settled, nevertheless, those at home can "do their bit" and help their country in ways far too numerous to mention. Whoever puts patriotism before profit, whoever stops waste and extravagance, whoever resolves in his daily duties that through all of them he will do his best for the sake of his country, will be far more efficient than cheap talk or effervescent enthusiasm.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, May 20.—Technical conditions again accounted for a considerable extent for some of the important changes that accompanied the enlarged operations of the week in the stock market. The many signs of increased operations of the week in the increased industrial activity awakened in inquiry for steel and iron issues and the general list of equipment and construction issues.

While no official announcements have been made, it is understood in trade circles that several large contracts for supplies were consummated recently at prices which bore no suggestion of oppression on the part of the federal authorities.

Another favorable factor of the week was the let-up in liquidation of rails and utilities, although motor issues were under increased pressure.

Betterment in rails was assisted by more encouraging crop prospects and a well defined belief that the interlocking commission will soon accede in part to the demands of the railroad companies.

The change in the stock market came more immediately from the loan made by the government to Russia, recently at prices which bore no suggestion of oppression on the part of the federal authorities.

Investors continued to show much uneasiness over the course of revenue legislation, affirmation by the lower house of the retroactive clause afforded an excuse for much realizing in the later dealings of the week.

Issued by the treasury department of another $200,000,000 of certificates and the disbursement of additional money to this country's allies created no change in domestic monetary conditions. Home transactions showed a slight recession from the high crest of recent months, but all mercantile demands were met without strain.

COTTON REVIEW

NEW YORK, May 20.—There has been a very sharp advance in the cotton market during the past week, with new crop months making new high record for the season, although weather conditions have been improving. October contracts for instance, sold at 20.28 during Friday's trading, making an advance of 128 points from the low level of Tuesday and of nearly 110 per cent from the level of last week. Sentiment was nervous and unsettled during the earlier part of the week, owing to unfavorable news from Russia and an expectation that rising temperatures in the south would bring in better crop accounts. There was little or no selling attributed to hedging of either old or prospective new crop cotton, but after touching 19.50 on Monday, October contracts broke about half a cent under liquidation and scattering pressure. The smaller amount of ocean tonnage reported sunk for the previous week, suggested that the addition of American naval resources to those of the allies, was beginning to tell in the submarine campaign and would open the way for increased exports. The announcement of the Russian loan was followed by reassuring advices as to internal conditions in that country and a bull movement started on Thursday. Wall street and western interests were among the heaviest buyers on the advance, while there were also reports of buying for Russian, Japanese and domestic trade accounts.

DUN'S REVIEW

NEW YORK, May 20.—Regular business holds up remarkably well considering its many hindrances, with retail trade in some sections responding to improved weather and spring prospects. The period of low temperatures was too prolonged to make best results in spring distribution possible and the accumulations of merchandise reflect to some extent the influence of the extreme prices. While full employment of labor and wage advances have continued, the tendency toward economy among consumers is spreading. This is evident not only in foodstuffs, but in dry goods and footwear. The lessened buying of necessities has not lowered costs perceptibly, and the large expenditures for military supplies act as a sustaining factor. With strikes of minor importance in certain branches and more skilled hands needed than available, maintenance of manufacturing outputs is in some cases impracticable, and operators nearly everywhere continue hindered by the difficulty of moving materials and products to points of destination. Weekly band clearings, $5,355,485, 156.

DRY GOODS REVIEW

NEW YORK, May 20.—Trading in cotton goods was greatly stimulated this week by the large demand for cloths for government purposes. Buyers for commercial houses have been operating, especially on print cloths and sheetings, deliveries carrying to the end of this year. Prices for print cloths have risen 1/4c on many wide constructions and some lines of sheetings and drills are half a cent a yard up. There is a steady demand for many sorts of heavy colored goods. The improvement in the demand for export requirements has been marked. The demand for knit goods for government purposes is increasing. The jobbing trade is seasonably quiet and retail business has been showing some improvement. Prices quoted are as follows: Print cloth, 28-inch 64x64's, 6 1/2c; 64x60's, 6 1/2c; 38 1/2-inch, 64x64's, 9c; 44's, brown sheetings, southern standard, 12c; tickings, 8-ounce, 27 1/2c; denim, 2.20's, indigo, 2 1/2c; staple ginghams, 10 1/2c; prints, 9 1/2c; dress ginghams, 15c.
