

WEEK'S DEFENDANTS SENTENCED BY JUDGE

SUPERIOR COURT'S CASES ARE DISPOSED OF.

Judgments Range from Payment of Costs to Two Years on the County Roads—Three Perjurors Sentenced.

Winding up the first week of the special criminal term, Judge Thomas J. Shaw disposed of a dozen defendants yesterday afternoon in Superior court, by imposing sentences, ranging from the payment of costs to two years on the county roads.

Charles Jones, colored, who was also convicted of perjury early last week, was sentenced to serve twelve months on the roads. Jones escaped from the sheriff nearly two years ago while under indictment for perjury, but he was recaptured a short time ago. He was sentenced, in spite of an eloquent and lengthy appeal for the mercy of the court.

Conley Shepherd, a small negro, who was found guilty of the larceny of a cow on Friday, was sentenced to the county jail for twelve months. Shepherd's statement to the court after his conviction led Judge Shaw to believe that there might be a chance for the youth to produce an alibi, but when an eleven-hour witness was produced yesterday and swore that Shepherd was not where he claimed, to have been at the time the cow was sold, Judge Shaw proceeded to mete out justice.

Mark Watkins, colored, who entered a plea guilty to a charge of retailing, was let down with a three months' road sentence. Watkins convinced the court that his judgment rather than a tendency to commit crime led to the offense, hence the light sentence.

James Houston, colored, was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a girl under the statutory age, the jury being out for about three hours. He was not sentenced.

Wesley Means, colored, was acquitted of a charge of an assault with a deadly weapon, but was found guilty of disorderly conduct. He was sentenced to serve a term of thirty days on the county roads.

Bessie Weaver, Bessie Weaver, her sister, and Maggie Whitstine, were all sentenced to the Buncombe county house of correction on charges of vagrancy. Bessie was convicted by a jury, James O. E. Bennett, the attorney for the two sisters, submitted a plea of guilty for Bessie. In sentencing the two young women, Judge Shaw gave them both twelve months, then asking which was the elder raised Bessie's sentence to sixteen, and then to eighteen months. The Whitstine woman was given a six months' sentence in the house of correction and warned to leave the county after her term expires.

Charles Clark, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of forgery early in the term, was permitted to depart in the case of his uncle, who will work the land on a farm. The defendant is to pay a fine of $25 and the costs, in addition to reimbursing the victim of the forgery.

W. H. Dooley, colored, who pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon, was taxed with the costs of the case, Judge Shaw continuing prayer for judgment until the next term of court. Dooley to show good behavior. The weapon taken from the negro was an old fashioned type of derringer, a weapon of the sort with which President Lincoln was shot, according to Solicitor J. E. Swain's remark. Judge Shaw replied that Dooley did not shoot Lincoln, and that he would give the negro a chance to gain his liberty.

Estelle Warren, convicted of a charge of an immoral nature was given an opportunity to leave the state, when she was sentenced to serve a term of two years in the house of correction, the capias to issue at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Daisy Williams, a small colored woman, was found guilty yesterday afternoon, when she was sentenced to serve a term of two years in the house of correction, the capias to issue at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Daisy's case was held open in order to inquire into information furnished the police before her arrest, by the state's principal witness.

TO LAUNCH RED CROSS CAMPAIGN AT DINNER

WORKERS WILL GATHER TOMORROW NIGHT.

Rev. Francis B. Boyer, Manager of Campaign, Outlines Reasons Why Large Sum Must Be Raised.

Dr. Francis B. Boyer, the manager of the Red Cross campaign, which will be instituted here Monday night for the purpose of raising $25,000 in the city of Asheville, has about completed his plans. The campaign will be launched tomorrow night at a dinner, which will be given at the Langren hotel. The captains and their teams will be gathered around the table, and at the executive table, several prominent men will make short inspirational addresses. Those who will speak are William Jennings Bryan, Judge J. C. Pritchard and Thomas Settle. Dr. Boyer will give the final instructions to the members of the teams, at the dinner. Others at the executive table will be Reuben R. Robertson, chairman; Commissioner James G. Stikeleather, Thomas J. Harkins, S. Lipinsky and Edwin L. Day.

Messrs. Wilson and Devenish have volunteered as auditors of the campaign and will also attend the dinner. The Red Cross clock has been erected on the library building and the progress of the indicator will probably be watched with considerable interest. Dr. Boyer and the other workers, who will be active in the campaign, are optimistic and believe that the $25,000 will be raised without difficulty.

Dr. Boyer yesterday made the following appeal, stating the reasons why a large sum must be raised for the work of the Red Cross in this war: "Asheville is asked to give $25,000 as its share of the $100,000,000 Red Cross war fund. This money is to be used in many different ways. Immediately our soldiers go into camp, their dependent families will become a problem. When our men go to France, we must not only prepare to take care of them when sick and wounded, but a very serious question will confront them and will confront us, in our care and forethought on their behalf. The soldiers from our country on the firing line cannot go home. There is no home to go to. Our American boys must have a home in France, somewhere to rest, somewhere to find a friendly atmosphere, somewhere to go for recreation. The Red Cross must, and it alone can, become a real foster parent of our boys while they are in Europe. To perform that work well is the reason we are asking the people of Asheville for such a large sum of money.

"While the Red Cross was founded fundamentally for the care and comfort of soldiers, we are fighting this war not only for the direct efficiency of battle but for a better, a greater organization of that side of our civilization which we believe is today imperiled. And so, while the Red Cross devotes itself to the strengthening of the strong and the support of the soldier, it is a large part of our duty to illumine that part of American character and American ideal which stands for the care of the helpless.

"In other words, in raising this $25,000, I am asking the whole community in order to undertake this, the greatest work that we have to perform."

The teams and their captains follow: Frank M. Weaver, captain; W. B. Davis, A. Goodman, Rufner Campbell, Joe Nichols, H. A. Dunham, William Farr, P. R. Allen, J. W. Wolfe, Mark Brown.

George Lee, captain; R. E. Currence, Bruce Drvedale, George Forrester, A. A. Minick, J. C. Patterson, James E. Rector, S. Sternberg, C. A. Walker, W. H. Westall.

L. H. Pollock, captain; Robert Goldstein, A. W. Faulkner, H. L. Finckelstein, W. O. Beger, Clyde Wood, Leo M. Cadison, B. H. Shuey, Charles Williams, Walter Cain.

Ralston Fleming, captain; A. C. Brandt, Harry Howell, E. D. Murphy, D. Ramsey.

L. U. Greer, captain; W. T. Rowland, J. R. Clements, Joseph F. Ford, F. B. Miller, W. G. Taylor, Ed. B. Brown, B. G. Barber, J. M. Lorick, H. W. Felton.

D. W. Hill, captain; J. J. Yates, R. A. Marvel, J. M. Chiles, P. C. Blackman, J. H. Manley, S. A. Barbee, M. F. Teague.

Owen Gudger, captain, and Dr. Walker, captain.

MRS. MAGGIE FISHER DIES AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. Maggie Fisher, forty-seven years old, the wife of J. E. Fisher, of 298 Ashland avenue, died last night at 9:30 o'clock at the Biltmore hospital.

Mrs. Fisher had been ill for about six weeks. She was a native of Buncombe county. She is survived by her husband and four children, Pearl, Carrie, Clifford and Homer. TRIANGLE PLAYS AT PRINCESS THIS WEEK

An attractive and well balanced program has been arranged by the management of the Princess for this week. Marie Osborne, Winfred Lucas, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Dalton, Helen Holmes and Max Linder are among those who will be seen in the different plays during the week. Tomorrow, Marie Osborne will be seen in "Told at Twilight." Tuesday, Winfred Lucas and Lillian Gish in a Triangle Kay Bee play, "Souls Triumphant," and a one reel comedy, "The Camera Cure." Wednesday, "The Clock," a five part Bluebird production featuring Franklin Parnum and a Pathe News Thursday, Dorothy Dalton in a Triangle-Ince play "Wild Winship's Widow" and a one reel comedy "Twin Troubles," this program will also be shown on Friday. Saturday, Helen Holmes will be seen in the fourth episode of "The Railroad Raiders" also Max Linder in a one reel comedy "Max Comes Across."

Tomorrow, Baby Marie Osborne will be seen in "Sunshine and Gold" a five part Pathe drama. The story is said to tell of a little girl who, while out riding with the chauffeur, is kidnapped by a band of rascals. During a battle royal amongst the tribe she finally made her way to a hut of a crabbed old man, but she finally overcame his crabbedness by her cute and winning smile. Unknown to Little Mary, her benefactor was in reality her grandfather, who had taken his money to the backwoods place because of his son, who had married against his wishes. The chauffeur, wild with anxiety, finally locates Little Mary in the cellar, where she had gone to help the old man, who had fallen while miserly counting his money.

The Princess orchestra will accompany the pictures daily with appropriate music.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM AT GALAX THIS WEEK

An unusually attractive program has been arranged by the management of the Galax for this week. Such popular screen artists as Wallace Reid, Myrtle Steadman, Antonio Moreno, Robert Warwick, Francis X. Bushman, Vivian Martin and Marie Osborne are among those who will be seen on the Galax screen during the week. Tomorrow, Wallace Reid and Myrtle Steadman will be seen in "The World Apart" a Morosco-Paramount production. Tuesday, Antonio Moreno in "The Magnificent Meddler" a Vitagraph play. Wednesday, Robert Warwick in a World Film play, "The False Friend." Thursday, the sixteenth chapter of the Great Secret and a two reel Mack Sennett Keystone comedy "Oriental Love." Friday, Vivian Martin will be seen in the Paramount production "Giving Becky a Chance." Saturday, Marie Osborne in "Sunshine and Gold."

Tomorrow, Wallace Reid and Myrtle Steadman, the two popular Paramount artists who scored such a pronounced success in the Laiky-Paramount production of "The Prisoner Without Walls," will be seen in "The World Apart," said to be an unusually exciting story of western life prepared especially for them by Julia Ivers from the story by George Middleton. Wallace Reid is said to be the best example of young American manhood now on the screen, and is given an opportunity in this production to be seen at his best advantage. The majority of the scenes were laid in the west and were filmed in practically the exact location, it is said, about which George Middleton wrote his story.

The Galax pipe organ will accompany the pictures daily with appropriate music.

According to recent official estimates there are about 8,000,000 sheep in Argentina.

'THE TIGER WOMAN' AT THE STRAND THURSDAY

The Moving Picture Trade Review gives the following criticism on "The Tiger Woman," which is the attraction at the Strand Thursday and Friday.

"The Tiger Woman" Theda Bara reaches the height of a siren's art. With a skill that is unsurpassed she portrays the cold, cunning, remorseless woman of the upper strata of love, impersonating a Russian princess who, for the love of priceless jewels and money, lures her victims along in a manner that holds one breathless. The character Miss Bara plays in this wonderful production outwits, it is claimed, all previous vampire roles, depicting the innermost of a hard, cruel siren devoid of scruples. The story of an enchantress and her entangling web in a sumptuous super de luxe photodrama.
