COTTON OPENS FIRM AT DECLINE OF TEN POINTS

New York Market Loses Part of Advance Made the Day Before.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The cotton market lost part of yesterday's advance under realizing for over the week-end and scattered southern selling. March contracts soid off to 35.68, or 55 points net lower and closed at 35.95, with the general list closing steady at a net deciline of 8 to 35 points.

The market opened firm at a decline of 10 points on January and 1 point on March, but generally 5 to 18 points higher. January recovered its initial loss, while later months sold 11 to 25 points net higher right after the call on a renewal of yesterday's buying movement, with July touching 32.95. The heavy covering of the previous day evidently left the market in an easier technical position, however, and demand was much less active, although buyers found encouragement in the large amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance; the reports of firm spot markets and bullish advices from the goods trade. The appearance of southern selling orders here suggested a disposition to hedge spot holdings around the prevailing prices, and as prices eased off, offerings became more active, with Wall street a prominent seller on the decline. July held relatively steady, but declined to 32.30, with the general list showing a net loss of 35 to 58 points at the low point of the morning. Rallies of 25 or 30 points followed on covering, but the bullish features in evidence failed to inspire any fresh buying of consequence, while sentiment was somewhat unsettled by the easier ruling of foreign exchange and reports of increasing importations of goods. Both Liverpool and New Orleans will be open for business on Monday morning and the disposition to even up commitments for over the week-end was probably increased by uncertainty as to their response to over holiday evidences.
