WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The draft treaty prepared by naval and legal experts covering the five-power contract for reduction and limitation of naval armament was in the hands of the five delegates tonight, a jealously guarded secret as to its text. The various national groups are understood to have been informed by Secretary Hughes that both text and substance of the proposed pact were looked upon as highly confidential by the state de-partment, yet enough information caked through the barriers of allence thus imposed to show numerous wholly new features are included in the draft copy.

Among these, it is understood, is a proposal that the duration of the pact be until 1937. Another new item is the proposal to limit the size of guns used on merchang ships to six-inch calibre as compared to the eight-inch weapons authorized for naval ay illiary craft, Still another is authority for the construction of warships on foreign account within the jurisdiction of the five powers, provided the size of limitations on such ships laid down for the five nations in the treaty are not exceeded in building for an
