PROGRESSIVE WORK AT BARNARDSVILLE

Students Have Plan for Purchasing Material Necessary for Making Accredited Institution.

Students of Barnardsville High School have adopted a business-like method for securing money to purchase equipment for an accredited institution. They have launched a business in salesmanship, provided by a Philadelphia publishing house and at the same time are providing a method of securing subscriptions for the publications outside of school hours. This course has been conducted in more than 6,000 schools and has the endorsement of a number of leading educators of the country.

O. T. Hall, vocational director for this district, delivered an interesting lecture to the students several days ago, explaining the present day need for a knowledge of salesmanship. The school has been divided into two teams under the leadership of Corrie Horton and Bernice Whitaker.

A total of $62 was realized from the box paper given by the Bazaar Association last Friday night.

The honor roll for the present month follows:
