Archdeacon Heard At Kinston Church

Rev. John H. Griffith, archdeacon of the Episcopal Diocese of Western North Carolina, preached last Sunday at St. Mary's Church at Kinston. For 25 years, according to the Kinston Free Press, Rev. M. Griffith ministered to the Kinston Parish and under his leadership grew to be one of the strongest parishes in Eastern Carolina. To quote the Kinston paper:

Mr. Griffith interspersed his splendid sermon with frequent reminiscent references to events in his long period of ministrations to the flock of St. Mary's and recalled the struggles of early days—the sorrows and the joys that had come to the faithful band, the success that had come and the tender relations existing between the shepherd and his flock, and these he wove into fabric of finest cloth—a story of love and faithfulness and devotion characterizing St. Mary's during the long years of his ministry. The tribute of love to their old pastor with him here during the long years of the service of the Master.

It is perhaps the highest triumph we can obtain over bigotry, when we are able to bear with bigots themselves.—Anon.

FIRST PRODUCTION OF PLAY WRITTEN BY ASHEVILLE MAN TO BE AT PACK NEXT MONDAY

That Asheville has an opportunity to become a theatrical producing center is promised by the announcement of the fact that the Jack Players will make the first production on any stage of a new comedy drama by an Asheville author at the Pack Theatre next Monday. Winston E. Wright, who has been a resident of Asheville for nearly four years is the author of the play which has been selected by the management of the Jack Players for a premier production. Mr. Wright has had considerable experience in writing short stories and also one act sketches for vaudeville and dramas from his pen are now in the hands of the play readers for two New York producing firms.

Produced at the Pack is particularly appropriate for Asheville just now as it has been named "Putting It on the Map" a title which fits in very nicely with the present efforts of the Asheville Chamber of Commerce. The plot deals with a young New Yorker who inherits a hotel in a small Southern town. With all of the enthusiasm and youth he goes to the town and finds every stage of community spirit lacking. He sets out to awaken the town and the SUMMER days are gone and the leaves are falling, but bright skies are overhead and —crisp, cheerful, frosty days, it may be, are just beyond the horizon of the seasons. Yet even when stern Winter blasts blow down upon us from the North, the days — and especially the evenings—are not without their happy compensations. For Autumn ushers in the season of theatres and more formally brilliant affairs, which are accompanied by garments of rich loveliness. And in the veritable spirit of the cloth-of-gold and of shimmering silks and satins, evening costumes afford appropriate backgrounds for beautiful jewels, without which, indeed, the effect of no costume can be complete. And there is an abundance of such jewels now in Fashion's favor. The popularity of ear-rings shows no abatement; bracelets are gaining rapidly in importance; while the sautoir watch, an ornament of genuine distinction, has ticked its way into feminine fancy. But should we try to enumerate the charms of all the fashionable jewelry, we could never stop. Instead, we invite Madam to come and inspect them for herself. HENDERSON Your Jeweler 52 Patton Avenue.
