cking Their Help in Bringing Fair Adjustment of Express Routings Into Asheville.

Considerable interest has been oused at Asheville over extreme plays of from 24 to 72 hours of press matter from points North Baltimore to Asheville, due to misrouting of express matter for Asheville by the American Railway Express Company.

Secretary N. Buckner, of the tiamber of Commerce, urges very business man in Asheville to write letters to the Chairman of he Interstate Commerce Commis-don, protesting against this practhe American Railway Exress and also write letters to Sen-tors Overman and Simmons and ongressman Weaver urging them make every effort to secure jusin this matter of express Asheville. Skaggs, General Manager the Southeastern Express Com-any, has written the following eiter to M. V. Moore and Com-any and a number of other busiss men here which shows the nortance of prompt action of matter of express routing now ore the Interstate Commerce mmission under I. C. C., num-

You are possibly aware of the that the Southeastern Express npany is now engaged in litin against the American Rail-Express Company before the state Commerce Commission, an effort to force the latter comny to respect shippers' routing structions avoid the use of cir-itous routes for the handling of press traffic, thus delaying same. d to participate in establishing at through rates and routes. "In looking over our records of xpress received in transfer from he American Railway Express company, at Spartanburg, S. C., I save noticed a large volume of express moving to your company rom New York and other Eastern points, and in practically every inlitance it was delayed from 12 to 24 hours and more. You no doubt have been seriously inconvenienced by these delays, and this ietter is to inform you that they are in no way caused by the Southeastern Express Company, but are the result of the American Company's arbitrary use of circuitous routes in order to hold the traffic on their lines every possible mile before transferring same to this company disregarding your interests and the interests of the great many other

Madge Fuller Left Speaking Stage To Train Elephants In the Circus

It's nothing to read of circus folks graduating from the white tops to the legitimate stage, nothing at all We've all read of that, but few of us have heard the story of Madge and high-monster elephant herd with Sparks Circus, coming to Asheville on Saturday, Oct. 21.

And that's what Madge did. Of course, it might be well to state that Madge, a Macon, Ga., girl, absorbed her love of the circus when a child with them on circus day.

"You are no doubt interested in this matter, and if you Jesire to use your influence to correct this present existing evil, a letter from you to the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington, D. C. and also to your Senator and Con-gressman, asking for their inter-vention and assistance in avoidance of these delays, will have weight."

Vandernoof will preside for the legion.

A ball game and dance, as already announced, will be other features of the celebration.

Discussion of plans for the New Orleans trip brought to light the fact that while a sufficient number have paid up to hold a special Pullman in reserve, a number of names remain on the plat without having reservations actually taken up. The Legionnaires are scheduled to leave Asheville Saturday afternoon at 3:10 p. m. headed for the national convention at New Orleans. vention at New Orleans.

tions Tells Oldham in Reply of Question. Complaints have been made that certain registrars have requested persons registering for the approaching elections to state their political affiliation and that this practice is not required by law. John C. Oldham, secretary of the Buncombe County Republican executive committee, in order to settle the matter, yesterday sent the following telegram to Chairman Persall, of the State board of elections: "Wire if law requires voter to state his political affiliations when registering for November elections." In reply, Chairman Pearsall telegraphed Mr. Oldham as follows: "Replying to your wire, voter cannot under law be required to state his party affiliations when registering for November election."
