HARDING HAS NO ACTIVE PLANS FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

All Members of His Cabinet Will Take Part in Spell Binding.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(By The Associated Press.)—Although President Harding is making no plans to take personal part in the political campaign, virtually every member of his Cabinet, according to statements today, will take the stump between now and election day to ask for a return of a Republican Senate and House.

Extensive trips are in prospect for several members of the President's official family whose speech-making tours will cover nearly every section of the country. The effort, it appears, however, will center in the East, New England, and Middle West, but some speeches will be made in other parts of the nation according to present plans.

The President's friends say he sees no necessity for going personally to the country for an endorsement of the Republican administration. Although he is participating in campaign councils, his associates say he is not likely either to make any partisan speeches or to issue any statements asking for election of Republicans. His views are represented as coinciding with those of his party managers who are averse to the issuing of party appeals from the White House.

The Cabinet, however, with the single exception of Secretary Mellon is preparing to do its share through speech-making in the fight for Republican victory in November. Few of the department heads have made fixed speaking engagements but have arranged to be away from Washington or in a position to assist the regular array of party spell binders at the peak of the battle in late October and the first days of November.

The only definite speaking date made so far by Secretary Hughes is at Boston where he is scheduled to speak October 30.

In addition to a full list of candidates for House seats, Senator Lodge, the Republican floor leader in the Senate and Chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee, is a candidate for reelection and it may be supposed that Mr. Hughes in his Boston address will touch upon the administration's foreign policies.

Mr. Hughes, later in the week of the 30th probably will visit New York and New Jersey.

Secretary Weeks will precede Hughes into Massachusetts, having accepted an invitation to speak in Boston October 24.

Attorney-General Daugherty has definitely scheduled only two platform appearances during the campaign—Chicago on October 29 and Canton, O., October 21. It is said, however, that undoubtedly the Attorney-General will make other speeches.

No fixed dates have been announced for Secretary Denby but he is scheduled to leave Washington on Friday for Detroit to attend the Pulitzer races and a brief participation in the campaign in his home State is expected.

The Navy Department head plans also to make a tour of inspection of the Boston and Portsmouth Navy Yards in about two weeks.

This trip, it is said, probably will include several campaign speeches but Mr. Denby has definitely accepted no invitations.

The state of Secretary Hoover's health requires that his contemplated tour be shortened, it was announced today. His physicians have ordered that he limit his campaign tour through the Middle West.

Trips farther into the West are contemplated for Secretary Davis and Secretary Wallace, the former having accepted engagements to go to the Pacific Coast.

The Agricultural Department head will make a stumping trip at the request of the Republican Congressional Committee which is to include speeches at Columbus, O., October 18; Cincinnati, October 19; Frankfort, Ind., October 21 and St. Louis October 23.

Secretary Fall who already has left Washington for his home in New Mexico, will participate in the campaign only to a limited extent and in the inter-mountain district.

JOURNAL SHEDS LIGHT ON THE DEATH OF COOK

Blow on Head and Stab in Neck Came as He Was Defending Self.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 23.—An important manuscript, the original journal kept by Lieutenant James Burney, aboard the H. R. M. S. Discovery, which was a companion ship to the Resolution, commanded by Captain James Cook on his last voyage around which ended on the island of Hawaii, where he met his death, has been purchased by the Mitchell Library of Sydney, the repository of many valuable papers on Australian history.

The journal, which never has been published, throws new light upon the circumstances surrounding the death of Captain Cook. It said that the explorer had gone ashore to invite the King of the island and his sons to discuss the theft of a cutter belonging to the Discovery. He was returning to his boat with King Kerrioboo when he was killed, according to the journal.

"Captain Cook was about to give orders for embarking when he was provoked by the insolence of a man armed with a thick mat and a long spike," the journal reads. "Captain Cook fired at this man with small shot, which neither penetrated the mat nor frightened the Indian, as was expected it would do. Another man with an iron spear came near Mr. Phillips, who, suspecting his intentions, drove him back with the butt end of his musket."

"Captain Cook, who had a double-barreled gun, immediately fired with ball. The sergeant said he had shot the wrong man, whereupon he told the sergeant to shoot the right one. The Indians gave a volley of stones and began to close. Captain Cook ordered the marines to fire. The Indians gave back but advanced before the marines had time to load. The marines were obliged to take to the water. Captain Cook was struck by an Indian and he turned to beat the assailant back with his musket. He received at the same moment a blow on the head and a stab with a spike in the neck, which tumbled him into the water. Unable to swim and stunned by the blow, he turned toward the shore and a number of the Indians surrounded him and dragged him in the rocks, where they beat and stabbed him in several places, snatching the daggers from each other out of eagerness to have their share in killing him."
