Voters in Line.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The small of battle has cleared, and the bare facts stand revealed. With approximately a million dollars to use for campaign purposes the Republicans failed to held anything like their own in the recent election. The Harding administration is now confronted with a large group of fighting insurgents and radicals led by Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin.

Mr. LaFollette, who is related to the Fergusons that fought at Kings Mountain, actually holds the balance of power in the House, and can cut a big figure in the Senate. His followers in the House, eleven from his own State, and four or if ive from other States, can stand aloof in a party fight between the Republican Regulars and the Demogration of the Consultant of the Pergusons and see the former get a show-down.

With Senators Borah, Norris, the Norbeck, Shipstead, Ladd, Fragier and one or two others, which he will have, Mr. LaFollette can cut a swat in the Senate.

All sorts of schemes are brawing. The Progressives, Radicals, or Insurgents, whatever one may call shem, are in high clover, and their old foes know it. President Harding has sliffened his back and will fight if the stiffening does not the latter required of the stiffening does not served.

All sorts of schemes are brawing. The Progressives, Radicals, or Insurgents, whatever one may call whem, are in high clover, and their old foes know it. President Harding has sliffened his back and will fight if the stiffening does not give out. The President's heart is in the right piace now but it has a habit of moving about, Pressure may change him.

Senators Borah and Norris, the senators Borah and Norris, the only insurgents here now, have made it plain that they and their associates will go to the bat with the old guard as soon as Congress meets. They will present the facts as they see them, and then demand certain progressive legislation, a program of which they will lay before the leaders. If the "reactionaries" do not agree to their proposition then they will proceed to do what they can to put them over, incidentally blocking other measures.
