We do not sell

Gold Dollars

—FOR—

92 Cts.

And yet some people would believe such a thing possible. What we will do, however, is to give you full value for every dollar spent with us.

One Dollar spent at our store goes a long ways.

Read some of the prices and don't let them prejudice your mind, but come and see with your own two eyes and you will say, it pays to go down town to trade.

Examine our all wool flannel dress goods at 30 cents per yard.

All shades of double width Tricots, at 57½ cts. We have marked down all of our 25c worsteds to 15 cents. Double width flannel dress goods at 48½c

Just received 1000 yards of Hamburg Edgings—exquisite patterns, only 12½c for any you may select. Finer than we ever sold.

Have you seen those lovely hats, straw and felt—New York style?

Examine our French kid button boot at $1.75. It beats the town.

Examine our Ladies' wool Vests at 50c and 98c—best quality.

Examine those Ladies' linen handkerchiefs 3 for 25c; a bargain.

Fine, regular made, Ladies' hose warranted fast black at 18c a pair. Best Balbriggan hose at 25c.

We have Ball's celebrated corset; the best in the world.

A new lot of decorated china and glassware on exhibition this week.

We would advise you to

THE MOTHER WHO HATH A CHILD AT SEA.

Written for the FISHERMAN & FARMER.

There's a cheek that is growing sadly white,
As the tokens of storm comes on with the night;
There's a form that is fixed at the lattice pane,
To mark how the gloom gathers over the main;
While the angry billows wash the shore
With loftier sweep and wilder roar,
That face, that form, oh! whose can it be
But a mother who has a child at sea.

The rushing whistle chills her blood,
As the north-wind hurries to scour the flood;
An ice shiver shreds over her heart,
As the first red lines of lightning start;
The ocean boils, all mute she stands
With parted lips and tight clasped hands,
Oh! marvel not at her fear, for she
Is a mother who hath a child at sea.

She presses her brow, she sinks and kneels,
While the storm howls on and the thunder peals;
She utters not a word, for her passionate prayer
Is too fervent and deep for the lips to bear;
It is poured in the deep convulsive sigh
In the straining glance of an upturned eye,
And a holier off ring cannot be
Than a mother's prayer for her child at sea.

AROUND THE WORLD.

THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.

To the FISHERMAN & FARMER.

These islands are governed by a King and are called the Hawaiian kingdom. In the early days each island had its Chief or petty king, and made war continually on each other. It is generally supposed they eat their enemies, and in it was not until the reign of the Kamehamehas were these islands known to history.

Kamehameha I. was born in 1753, or twenty-five years before the islands were discovered by Capt. Cook, 1778. He has been styled the "Napoleon of the Pacific," having conquered all the islands of this group, and established a dynasty, which has lasted nearly a century, having been almost contemporary with the Republic of America. He died at Kailua, Hawaii, May the 8th, 1819.

Kamehameha II. was the son of the former, and was born in 1797, on the island of Hawaii. He was proclaimed king on the death of his father. During the first year of his reign idolatry was abolished, and during the second year the American missionaries arrived, or rather they arrived just at the close of the first year of his reign, in March, 1820. He sailed for England in October, 1823, where he and his Queen both died in July, 1824. They were kindly received by George IV., and after their death their remains were returned to the islands on board H. B. M.'s S. Blode, commanded by Capt. Byron, a cousin of the poet.

Kamehameha III. was also a son of Kamehameha I., and was born March 17, 1814. He died at the age of 42, December 15, 1854. During his reign the old feudal system of the kingdom was abolished and a Constitutional Government established. The lands were surveyed and fee-simple deeds granted. Many other important changes were effected. The king was acknowledged as independent by the great nations.

Kamehameha IV. was proclaimed king, having been adopted and appointed successor by the former king. He was son of Kirian, a daughter of Kamehameha I., by his Excellency Kekuanaoa, Governor of Oahu. He was educated at the Royal School, taught by A. S. Cooke Esq. He was a well educated gentleman, and while a Prince accompanied his brother, the late king, and Dr. Judd on a visit to America and Europe. He died Nov. the 30th, 1863, at the age of 29 years, and was succeeded by his brother.

Kamehameha V., who has since reigned. He died on the 11th of December, 1872, at the age of 42 years, having died upon his birthday.

His late majesty not having appointed a successor it devolved upon the Legislature to elect a successor and on January 8th, 1873, a king was elected to the throne made vacant by the death of Kamehameha V. The new king Prince William C. Launalilo, reigned several years and on his death Kalakua was elected king of the Hawaiian kingdom. The present king is a very fine looking man well educated. He has travelled extensively through America and Europe, and has done much to bring his country to the foremost ranks of the nations of the world.

DON ARTURO.

FIFTY POUNDS.

At a recent poultry show in New York, some of the turkeys weighed nearly fifty pounds. The advances being made in poultry culture is astonishing to those who have taken note of it. It is the principal industry in this country, and fine specimens bring what may seem enormous prices. We have known of single roosters selling for one hundred dollars that is not uncommon. Thousands of "chickens" are sold at from two to five dollars each. A good trio of breeders readily sells from twenty to thirty dollars. Ducks and geese have kept pace with chickens and turkeys. The great interest taken by progressive farmers in the improvement of stock is a good sign of the times. The old scrubs in stock, and the old foggies among the farmers "must go." The wheels of progress will crush them out. The world moves; droned have no place in the new order of things.—Falcon.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Governor Seales says he believes the people are becoming more and more opposed to capital punishment in North Carolina. He is led to so think by the great number of petitions for commutation of death sentences which come in. There are now only four capital crimes in this State—murder, arson, rape and burglary. Forty years ago there were about twice as many.—Virginian, 11.

GOOD SELECTION.

Mr. Frank Beard, the most brilliant blackboard artist in America, has been engaged for the coming session of the Teacher's Assembly at Morehead City. Mr. Beard was for a long time the author of those powerful cartoons in the New York Judge, and his educational work since that time at leading teachers' gatherings in the world has been received with intense enthusiasm.—News and Observer.

Mr. T. W. Mayhew, a prominent attorney of Aurora, Beaufort county, who was one of the counsel in the Potts-Lincke case at Washington, N. C., died on Sunday, the 5th, inst.

Falcon: Mr. Greenleaf informs us that he will begin, next week, setting boundary stones between North Carolina and Virginia, from the Atlantic Ocean to Nottoway River. The work to begin at the sea shore.

Virginian, 14th: News from Raleigh to the effect that an extensive movement is on foot in North Carolina in favor of securing the nomination of Lieutenant-Governor Chas. M. Steadman as the candidate for Governor on the part of the Democrats.

An accident occurred, on the 11th inst., on the north-bound passenger train on the Chester & Lenoir Road, near the Catawba river, by the breaking in of a rattle twenty-five feet high, but fortunately no lives were lost, though several were severely injured.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK.

Wilmington Star, 13: A sharp shock of earthquake was felt in this city about ten minutes before ten o'clock yesterday morning. The movement was apparently from west to east, and its duration about two seconds. While it was sufficient to cause timbers in buildings to creak and chandeliers to sway in some instances, many persons did not notice it.

CONTRACT TO BE LET.

President Brewer of the Chowan Baptist Female Institute, of this place, tells us that contract for the brick for the new building to be built on the East end of the old building, will be let in a few days, and that the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible.—Murfreesboro' Index.
