PROCLAIMS HIMSELF CHRIST.

South Carolina Negroes Leave Their Crops And Work to Follow Him. Great Excitement.

Down on the banks of the Savannah river the negroes are in a fearful state of mind. For a month or so a white man who calls himself Jesus Christ, has been going through the country preaching. The negroes have come to believe in him and have accepted his words as inspired teachings.

"Give up everything and follow me," he commanded. "Let your crops go; turn your cattle in the patches; the Lord will provide for you."

And, obeying him, hundreds of negroes have quit work. Their little crops have grown up with weeds; the planters have been deserted by their laborers, who absolutely refuse to work; the turpentine manufacturers and the saw mill men have great difficulty in getting help enough to continue operations. The colored population has been demoralized for three weeks. To such an extent has the craze spread that the intelligent colored people and the whites joined in discussing some plan to put a stop to it. It was decided to arrest the crank or send him out of the county. Some were ready to lynch him, but better counsel prevailed.

A warrant has been issued for his arrest and is in the hands of the sheriff. He has prophesied that he would be arrested, and his followers, "disciples," as they call themselves—declared that he should not be taken away, and that no violence should be done him. The women were more emphatic than the men, and have armed themselves with guns, but the new prophet told his people not to offer any resistance. They feared that he would be crucified, but he told them that he would not be put to death again.

When the officers went to arrest him no resistance was offered, but a large crowd soon joined the favored disciples, who are almost constantly about him. They were ready to tear the officers to pieces, but at their prophet's request they suffered him to be taken quietly away. After his arrest he gave the name of Campbell, and said he came from the west. He shows scars in his hands, which he says were made by nails when he was crucified on calvary. His hair and beard are long and shaggy, although he evidently endeavors to trim his beard as the Saviour's is represented in some old pictures.

The negroes fall down and worship him, and kiss his hands and feet, and anoint him. He dresses shabbily some times, and at all times poorly. He refuses money publicly, but is said to have money, and it was feared the charge of vagrancy could not be sustained. At his bidding women have left their husbands and men their families to follow him. His familiarity with the scripture is exceptional. He has told the people that he will go back to Heaven in a chariot of fire at an early date.

Why White Was Appointed.

Anybody by thinking a minute and putting this and that together might have known all the while that White would be appointed collector of the eastern district. He had the game in his own hand from the moment that he established the fact that one of his wives was kin to some of Mr. Harrison's folks. Under this administration the kin all sit at the first table.—Statesville Landmark.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING.

The second paralytic stroke suffered by Wilkie Collins probably puts an end to the literary activity of a writer than whom no living author has had a larger audience.

John Wanamaker says the present postage stamp is too large. A smaller size, he says, would answer all purposes and be less expensive to the government, so he will reduce the size.—Plant.

Paraphrasing the saying of Henry Clay that he would rather be right than President Senator Evaris of New York, is reported as saying that he would rather be fat than be President. It is not at all likely that he will ever be either.—News and Observer.

Our families need to be told more often "No cross, no crown." If you want knowledge you must toil for it; if food, you must toil for it; and if pleasure you must toil for it. Toil is the law. Pleasure comes through toil, and not by self-indulgence and indulgence. When a man gets to loving his work, his life is a happy one.—Morning Light.

The city of Raleigh which has for several years been more or less agitated over the liquor question, is now going to try the high license experiment. The cost of a license to sell by retail, which has heretofore been $325, has been increased to $725. The working of the system will be watched with interest, for if it is successful in reducing the number of the more objectionable places where liquor has been sold, at the same time that the city's revenue is increased, there is but little doubt that the movement will extend.—Norfolk Ledger.

Oldest Now Living.

The Portland Argus says that the death of Simon Cameron leaves James W. Bradbury, of Maine, Alpheus Felch, of Michigan, and Jefferson Davis, of Mississippi, as the oldest ex-Senators now living. These gentlemen entered the Senate two years subsequent to Mr. Cameron's election. Mr. Bradbury is now eighty-four years of age; Mr. Davis eighty-one and Mr. Felch eighty-three. George W. Jones, of Iowa, was also a member of the Senate of the same Congress, and still survives at the same age as Mr. Felch.

The McDow Trial.

The McDow trial has been made the subject all over the North of a general discussion of the capabilities of the negro as a juror and it is a fact that the opinion of the colored population of Charleston has startled the Northern mind. If after twenty years of education the colored people of a city in the South can blindly put prejudice into the scale of justice, what, says the intelligent Northern critic, is to be the final result of the problem of equality as proposed by Bill Chandler, lessee and manager of the outrage mill for 1890-1895, which is that festive statesman's Senatorial term.—Richmond Times.

A Scrap Of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. Fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trail bottles of this wonderful Discovery free at Dr. W. J. Leary's Drug store.

NORTH CAROLINA CLIPPINGS.

One thousand people were in attendance at the Teachers, Assembly at Morehead City.

License at Monroe has been fixed at $500 in addition to the State and county tax. The town commissioners also ordered that any person found on the streets intoxicated so as to stagger should be arrested and fined not more than fifty dollars.—Ex.

It is said that if Trinity College is moved to Raleigh, it is proposed to use the old college buildings for a home for Confederate veterans. The Legislature will be asked for an appropriation to support such a home. The people of the State will subscribe money sufficient to pay for the buildings.

The North Carolina Teachers, Assembly elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: Henry Louis Smith, Davidson College, President; F. P. Hogwood, Oxford Female Seminary, First Vice President; Eugene G. Harrell, Raleigh, Secretary; Hugh Morson, Raleigh Male Academy, Treasurer. Mr. D. L. Ellis the present treasurer, declined re-election.

Attention Teachers!

The State Board of Education have determined to send Prof. J. Y. Joyner to hold an Institute at Edenton, for white teachers, under the provisions of chapter 260, laws of 1889, beginning on the 29th day of July and continuing one week. All white teachers in Chowan county are required to attend continuously the session of said Institute and, on failure so to do, they shall not be certified as teachers for the ensuing year. I give this notice, thus early, that teachers may make every arrangement necessary to be present.
