EDENTON, N. C., FRIDAY, February 19, 1892.

No. 841.

MORE ABOUT HAYWOOD,

THE DIRTY ASSININE EDITOR OF THE NORFOLK SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

SOME THINGS THE PRESS SAYS ABOUT HIS MALICIOUS ATTACK UPON EDEN-TON, AND NORTH CAROLINA.

We think Edenton has the "drop" on Haywood, and his "Progress" as the case now stands, and we commend to him Polonius' golden counsel in controversy: beware the entrance to a quarrel."—E. City Economist-Falcon.

The Norfolk (Va.) Chat, in an acknowledgment of the receipt of Southern Progress, Frank A. Haywood's sheet, says: "The ill-concealed and ill-advised animosity of its publisher against the State of North Carolina on account of the acts of one or two of its citizens is execrable."

The FISHERMAN & FARMER is right in denouncing Frank A. Haywood, of the Southern Progress. Whatever of merit there may be in his controversy with the town council, about the advertisement and the payment of the same, it furnished no excuse for his wholesale onslaught upon the people of Edenton and North Carolina. Edenton and North Carolina, can well afford to dispense with Frank A. Haywood, his Real Estate Exchange, his Southern Information Bureau and his Southern Excursion parties. The fewer visits you have from, and the less you have to do with such characters the better.
Among the many disparaging remarks he makes of North Carolina, and North Carolinians, he says (A Carolinian don't know how to run a hotel). No not when it takes lying and fraud to run it. But the gentleman who had charge of Nags' Head Hotel last summer is a Carolinian, and if he don't know how to run a hotel he knows how to be a gentleman, and speaks the truth and not to slander, and lives better every day than Frank A. Haywood does on Sunday.—Perquimans Record.

Hallo! Heywood, hav'nt you 'bit off more than you can chew?'—to use a homely western phrase. Southern Progress the new Norfolk journalistic enterprise, of which you are engineer, in a late issue devotes much space to this section to North Carolina, for which thanks, but it empties the abundant vials of its wrath upon the devoted heads of Edenton, the fairest gem in our coronet which we are sorry to say is as ungenerous as it is unfair. We suppose the nature of the business controversy between the official representatives of the town of Edenton and yourself, from the numerous references in your paper to the subject, is simply a disputed advertising bill, which you claim is a just bill and they deny it because of your non-compliance with your contract. You turn in hot haste to the arbitrament of the courts, employ able counsel, and parting with your wisdom and discretion take counsel of your passion alone. You supplant the labors of your able counsel, by the most violent anathemas against the official fathers of Edenton, against the citizens of Edenton, and unjustly against the State of North Carolina. Can you not divest yourself of passion and see how unjust this is to your legal counsel, to the people of Edenton, to the State of North Carolina, to yourself and to your cause in court? Could not the City Fathers of Edenton with equal justice follow your bad example by pronouncing you an adventurer, a swindler, a shrewd New England Yankee, who was seeking to make money out of our people and make no adequate compensation? And can you not see the advantage that Edenton would have over you in this interchange of sulphurous compliments? And do you see the injustice you do your legal representatives in leaving them to struggle with the matter in controversy and against a public sentiment of your own creating? Ah!

Mr. Editor, perhaps you have never known that passion and wisdom are not co-tenants of the same brain. Edenton has the prestige of a hundred years of honor and distinction. It can sail by you in serene tranquility while you are heaving at the press of the Southern Progress, and laugh in decision at your supposition that the tail of your kite is necessary to its character or its progress.—Economist-Falcon.

Last Saturday about midnight the Police went into another den of gamblers on "cheap side," a place run by a colored individual named West Mitchell, where a number of his comrades had assembled to rob each other. The lights were immediately blown out and the Police was unable to recognize but two—West Mitchell and Alonzo Gatling, a notorious character who seem to feed upon crime. Gatling skipped to Virginia and West Mitchell was fined $25 and costs, total $28.65, on Wednesday last by the Mayor.
