

The Fisherman and Farmer.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY

Fisherman and Farmer Publishing Co.

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE MARKETS.

Late Wholesale Prices of Country Produce Quoted in New York.

Table with columns for produce types (Beans, Peas, etc.) and prices. Includes items like Marrow, 1891, choice and Green peas, 1891, per bush.

NEW BUTTER.

Table listing butter products such as Creamery-Penn, extras and State dairy-half tubs and pails, extras.

CHEESE.

Table listing cheese products like State factory-Full cream, white, fancy and Full cream, full made, fine.

EGGS.

Table listing egg products such as State and Penn-Fresh, 1891, choice and Western-Fresh, fancy.

FRUITS AND BERRIES-FRESH.

Table listing fruit products like Apples-Northern Spy, bbl. and Grapes-Western N. Y., Catawba, 5 lb basket.

HOPS.

Table listing hop products such as State-1891, choice, per lb. and 1891, prime.

LIVE POULTRY.

Table listing poultry products like Fowls-Jersey, State, Penn. and Chickens, Western.

DRESSED POULTRY-FRESH KILLED.

Table listing dressed poultry products such as Turkeys-Selected hens, lb. and Mixed weights.

POTATOES AND VEGETABLES.

Table listing potato and vegetable products like Potatoes-Jersey, bulk, bbl. and State Rose and Hebron.

LIVE STOCK.

Table listing live stock products such as Cows, com. to good and Calves, common to prime.

GRAIN, ETC.

Table listing grain products like Flour-City Mill Extra and Wheat-No. 2 Red.

FURS AND SKINS.

Table listing fur and skin products such as Black bear, $20.00 and Cubs and y'lings, 5.00.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "Lessons From the Story of Daniel."

TEXT: "Daniel was first."—Daniel vi., 2.

Where in romance can you find anything equal to what Daniel was in reality? A young man, far away from home, introduced into the most magnificent and most desolate palace of all the earth.

Daniel becomes so much of a favorite with King Darius that our young hero is promoted to be prime minister or secretary of state—the Frelinghuysen or the Bismarck of the ancients.

There were demagogues in Babylon, who, highly appreciative of their own capacity, doubted the policy of elevating such a young man as Daniel.

I hear the growl of the monsters, and their pawing of the dust, and as their mouths are placed to the ground the solid earth quakes with their bellow.

But King Darius was not so happy. He loved Daniel and he hated the stratagem by which his favorite had been condemned.

Gathering strength, he puts his mouth to the rifts in the rock and cries, "Oh, Daniel, is thy God whom thou servest continually able to deliver thee from the lions?"

Now, you see from this subject that in the eyes of many the greatest offense you can commit is success. Of what crime had this young man been guilty that he should come under the bitter hatred of the demagogues?

But after awhile you begin to emerge from the darkness. That was a capital investment. You purchased at just the right time. Fortune became good natured and smiled.

Success is often a synonym for scorn. The first thing a man wants is religion. The second is grit. If you do not want to face wild beasts you must never get to be prime minister.

Before you get fully past you hear a word or two. "Stuck up," says one. "Didn't get it honestly," says another. "Will burst soon," says a third.

Men say success in life is all a matter of good luck, but industry and economy and self denial put together always make good luck. There are young men who failed twice and are getting no nearer to success the third time before they are as old as their father when he first began business for himself.

to succeed in your different occupations and professions, how is it then, young merchants, young lawyers, young physicians, young ministers? How is it then?

There are those who for thirty or forty years have accomplished nothing anywhere because they have not felt themselves settled. They have thought of the law, of medicine, of merchandise, of mechanism.

When a young man resolves on a religious life, he does not always find it smooth sailing. Old companions laugh and say with sarcastic tone, "He has got to be pious."

Again, let this story of Daniel teach us that the way to future success is through present self-denial. Not only Daniel showed his willingness for self restraint by refusing the luxuries of the king's table, but must have denied himself much social enjoyment and sightseeing in order to have attained most wonderful proficiency in study.

Out of the dark, deep mines of want and suffering has been dug the marble for the world's greatest temples of wisdom and palaces of power. Vanderlyn, the artist, must first content himself with a charcoal sketch.

If a young man starts in life with large notions of what he must immediately have, willing to consider no economy, but expecting with a small ship to unfurl as much sail as an ocean frigate, he will find himself capsize by the first northeaster.

Men say success in life is all a matter of good luck, but industry and economy and self denial put together always make good luck. There are young men who failed twice and are getting no nearer to success the third time before they are as old as their father when he first began business for himself.

Men say success in life is all a matter of good luck, but industry and economy and self denial put together always make good luck. There are young men who failed twice and are getting no nearer to success the third time before they are as old as their father when he first began business for himself.

Men say success in life is all a matter of good luck, but industry and economy and self denial put together always make good luck. There are young men who failed twice and are getting no nearer to success the third time before they are as old as their father when he first began business for himself.

Men say success in life is all a matter of good luck, but industry and economy and self denial put together always make good luck. There are young men who failed twice and are getting no nearer to success the third time before they are as old as their father when he first began business for himself.

Men say success in life is all a matter of good luck, but industry and economy and self denial put together always make good luck. There are young men who failed twice and are getting no nearer to success the third time before they are as old as their father when he first began business for himself.

yet master languages and sway a very scepter over his fellows. Many an education which is now considered complete is made up of a smattering of newspapers and the last page of a fashion magazine.

The parlor and the drawing room cannot educate us. They may give us outward adornments of man—but getting valuable knowledge is like sweltering in a forge, belching in one hand and hammer in the other.

Passions harnessed and yoked make excellent beasts of burden. However attractive may be the sinful offers of the world, though rich and luxurious as the provision of the king's table, we must be willing to refuse them if nothing be left us but plain pulse.

When God would make a great light of truth and holiness in the world, he often takes great persecutions and with them strikes fire. The devil's hate is God's glory.

Again let this story of Daniel teach us that the way to future success is through present self-denial. Not only Daniel showed his willingness for self restraint by refusing the luxuries of the king's table, but must have denied himself much social enjoyment and sightseeing in order to have attained most wonderful proficiency in study.

Frederick watching his father's sheep among the hills or thrashing rye in the barn is far different from Frederick on the Stock Exchange. How often does the kind, retiring spirit become bold effrontery, and the accommodating, self sacrificing disposition once exhibited among brothers and sisters becomes a cold and unresponsive selfishness.

Probably address young men now, distant from their father's house, and others who, still under the parental roof, look forward to a time when they will depart alone to conflict with the world and among strangers be called to build up characters for themselves.

Outbursts of folly, carelessness and inpropriety of manner and looseness of speech were kindly reprove, and although the restraint seemed sometimes too severe, yet hours of sober reflection have convinced him that it was salutary and righteous.

At the door of his cheerless boarding-house no one greets him, and the evening meal is insipid, for no one cares whether he eats or does not eat. The room in the third story that evening seems doleful and repelling.

At the door of his cheerless boarding-house no one greets him, and the evening meal is insipid, for no one cares whether he eats or does not eat. The room in the third story that evening seems doleful and repelling.

At the door of his cheerless boarding-house no one greets him, and the evening meal is insipid, for no one cares whether he eats or does not eat. The room in the third story that evening seems doleful and repelling.

At the door of his cheerless boarding-house no one greets him, and the evening meal is insipid, for no one cares whether he eats or does not eat. The room in the third story that evening seems doleful and repelling.

corrupted population shall pour into our great thoroughfares to keep them pure and manage the traffic of the world. Multitudes of such are constantly making their departure from home.

To-morrow morning all of the thoroughfares leading toward the great cities of our land, on steamboat and rail car, there will be young adventurers for the first speeding away from their homes in order to try their fortune in town.

Passions harnessed and yoked make excellent beasts of burden. However attractive may be the sinful offers of the world, though rich and luxurious as the provision of the king's table, we must be willing to refuse them if nothing be left us but plain pulse.

When God would make a great light of truth and holiness in the world, he often takes great persecutions and with them strikes fire. The devil's hate is God's glory.

Again let this story of Daniel teach us that the way to future success is through present self-denial. Not only Daniel showed his willingness for self restraint by refusing the luxuries of the king's table, but must have denied himself much social enjoyment and sightseeing in order to have attained most wonderful proficiency in study.

Frederick watching his father's sheep among the hills or thrashing rye in the barn is far different from Frederick on the Stock Exchange. How often does the kind, retiring spirit become bold effrontery, and the accommodating, self sacrificing disposition once exhibited among brothers and sisters becomes a cold and unresponsive selfishness.

Probably address young men now, distant from their father's house, and others who, still under the parental roof, look forward to a time when they will depart alone to conflict with the world and among strangers be called to build up characters for themselves.

Outbursts of folly, carelessness and inpropriety of manner and looseness of speech were kindly reprove, and although the restraint seemed sometimes too severe, yet hours of sober reflection have convinced him that it was salutary and righteous.

At the door of his cheerless boarding-house no one greets him, and the evening meal is insipid, for no one cares whether he eats or does not eat. The room in the third story that evening seems doleful and repelling.

At the door of his cheerless boarding-house no one greets him, and the evening meal is insipid, for no one cares whether he eats or does not eat. The room in the third story that evening seems doleful and repelling.

At the door of his cheerless boarding-house no one greets him, and the evening meal is insipid, for no one cares whether he eats or does not eat. The room in the third story that evening seems doleful and repelling.

At the door of his cheerless boarding-house no one greets him, and the evening meal is insipid, for no one cares whether he eats or does not eat. The room in the third story that evening seems doleful and repelling.

Bright green is the latest fashionable color.

The evening cape is the latest freak of fashion.

The glove with the high cuff is still in vogue.

The newest thing in jewelry is Lohengrin's swan.

A Cornell (N. Y.) girl is said to be studying veterinary surgery.

Women used to wear nightgowns. Now it is "dream robes" that they wear.

The only veils that are becoming to women are of plain, thin mesh without figure or border.

Mrs. Andrew Carnegie is one of the host of people who make amateur photography a fad.

After all, there are few better fabrics for children than navy blue flannel and blue and white gingham.

Pullman's daughter, Julia, gets $1 000 per annum for selecting the names for the Pullman sleeping cars.

The Queen of Greece is the best royal needle-woman in Europe. She cuts out and makes most of her own underclothing.

How Chinese women were expected to behave themselves 2000 years ago is set forth in an ancient Chinese work in 314 chapters.

Rustling dress skirts have rustled too long, say the Paris dressmakers, and soft materials are now used to line their newest skirts.

There are said to be over nine hundred women preachers in this country. The most of them belong to the Universalist Church.

Miss Ellen Omerod is one of the leading entomologists of England. She was led to the study by the weevil in her father's wheat.

The President's wife, Mrs. Harrison's right hand is so lame that she does not use it, except on rare occasions, for public hand shaking.

A woman is investigating the Patent Office, in Washington, to obtain copies of all the patents secured by women since the days of its establishment.

Plans are now completed for the erection in Washington of a hotel for women, which will be different from any other which has ever been projected.

The latest thing in jewelers' novelties is the fluted enameled ribbon, which comes in all the delicate tints, and is tied up in all manner of knots and bows for the hair, for the watch or for the neck.

Mrs. Cunningham Graham, the Spanish wife of the Socialist Member of the British Parliament, is a remarkable woman. She spends half the year in Spain following the track of Saint Theresa, whose life she is engaged in writing.

The last idea in dress skirts is to leave the corner which has been ordinarily cut off to form the bias seam up the back in the bell, and let it cascade itself in jabb folds down the back. The effect produced is excellent, and needs no particular experience to arrange.

The newest powder puffs are of much larger size than of yore and look like enormous snowballs, as big as ordinary sugar bowls. The handles are made to represent figures of well known celebrities and are done in both ivory and silver.

Mme. Recamier and the Empress Josephine are the women most frequently represented.

The rage for bizarre effects in dress trimming has led manufacturers to bring out the Moorish bangle in various sizes of crystal, porcelain, jet, steel, fire and French gilt and white metal of silver, gold, copper and bronze finish. These flashy little ornaments are sewed all over the laces, gauzes and ribbons used in dress and millinery work.

Nail embroidery is considerably used, fancy nails being offered to carry out the designs. The pattern is traced on the wood of picture or screen frame, and the nails are simply put in like any nails, to follow the outlined pattern. The only skill required is a degree of that commodity in grouping and selecting to be grouped the different designs in nails.