Another, "It is a place for gossip, where wolvering disposifully before the sermon is through we shall have the divine prescription. I say to these young men who come here Sabbath by Sabbath, and who are going to preach the gospel-these theological students-I say to them, we want in our sermons not more metaphysics, nor more imagination, nor more logic, nor more profundiry. What we want in our sermons and Christian exhortations is more sympathy. Again I remark that sanctuary help ought o come from the sermon. Of a thousand people in this or any other audience, how nany want sympathetic help? Do you guess a hundred? Do you guess 500? You have guessed wrong. I will tell you just the proportion. Out of a thousand people in this audience there are just 1000 who need sympathetic help. These young people want it just as much as the old. The old people sometimes seem to think they have a monopoly of the rheumatism, and the neuralgias, and the headaches, and the physical disorders of the world. But I tell you there are no worse heartaches than are felt by some of these young people. Do you know that much of the work is done by the young? Raphael died at thirty-

Don Juan won Lepanto at twenty-five ; Grotius was Attorney General at twenty-four, and I have noticed amid all classes of men that some of the severest battles and the toughest work comes before thirty. Therefore we must have our sermons and our exhortation in prayer meeting all sympathetic with the young.

And so with these people further on in life. What do these doctors and lawyers and merchants and mechanics care about the abstractions of religion? What they want is help to
