Subject: "The Tragedy of Dress."

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUN-

Text: "Whose adorning let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair and the wearing of gold or of putting on of an parel, but let it be the hidden man of the heart."-I Peter lit., 3, 4.

That we should all be clad is proved by the opening of the first wardrobe in paradise, with its apparel of dark green. That we should all, as far as our means allow us, be beautifully and gracefully appareled is proved by the fact that Go I never made a wave but He gilded it with golden sunleams, or a tree but He garlanded it with blossoms or a sky but He studded it with stars, or alowed even the smoke of a furnace to ascend but He columned and turreted and domed and scroiled it into outlines of indescribable gracefulness. When I see the apple or chards of the spring and the pageantry of the autumnal forests, I come to the conclusion that, if nature does ever join the church, while she may be a Quaker in the silence of her worship, she never will be a Quaker in the style of her dress. Why the notcies of a fern leaf or the stamen of a water hily? Why, when the day departs, does it let the folding doors of heaven stay open so long when it might go in so quickly?

One summer morning I saw an army of a million spears, each one adorned with a diamond of the first water—I mean the grass, with the dew on it. When the prodigal came home, his father not only put a coat on his back, but jewelry on his hand. Christ wore a beard. Paul, the backels are the coat of with any bachelor apostle, not afflicted with any sentimentality, admired the arrangement of a woman's hair when he said in his epistle, 'If a woman have long hair, it is a glory unto her.' There will be a fashion in beaven as on earth, but it will be a different kind of fashion. It will decide the color of the dress, and the population of that country, by a beautiful law, will wear white. I say these things as a background to my sermon to show you that I have no prim, precise, prudish or east iron theories on the subject of human apparel. But the goddess of fashion has set up her throne in this world, expected to fall down and worship. The | patroniz's. Old and New Testament of her Bible are the fashion plates. Her altars smoke with | exercises are taken up with the discussion the sacrifice of the bodies, minds and souls of 10,000 victims. In her temple four people stand in the organ loft, and from them there comes down a cold drizzle of music, freezing on the ears of her worshipers. This goddess of fashion has become a rival of the Lord of heaven and earth, and it is high time that we unlimbered our batteries against this idolatry. When I come to count the victims of fashion, I find as many masculine as feminine. Men make an easy tirade against woman, as though she were the chief worshiper at this idolatrous shrine, and no doubt some men in the more conspicuous part of the pew have already cast glances at the more retired part of the pew, their look a prophecy of generous distribution. My sermon shall be as appropriate for one end of the pew as for the other. Men are as much the idolators of fashion as women, but they sacrifles on a different part of the altar, With men the fashion goes to eigars and clubrooms and yachting parties and wine suppers. In the United States the men chew up and smoke $100,-000,000 worth of tobacco every year. That is their fashion. In London not long ago a man died who started in life with $750,000. but he ate it all up in gluttonies, sending his agents to all parts of the earth for some rare lelicacy for the palate, sometimes one plate of food costing him $300 or $400. He ato up his whole fortune and had only a guinea off. With that he bought a woodcock and had it dressed in the very best style, ate it, gave two hours for digestion, then walked out on Westminster bridge and threw himself into the Thames and died, doing on a large scale what you and I have often seen done on a small scale. But men do not abstain from millinery and elaboration of skirt through any superiority of humility. It is only because such appendages would be a blockade to business. What would sashes and trains three and a half yards long do in a stock market? And yet men are the disciples of fashion just as much as women. Some of them wear boots so tight they can hardly walk in the paths of righteousness. And there are men who buy expensive suits of clothes and never pay for them, and who go through the streets in great stripes of color like animated checkerboards. I say these things because I want to show you that I am impartial in my discourse, and that both sexes, in the language of the surrogate's office, shall "share and share alike." As God may help me, I shall show you what are the destroying and deathful influences of inordinate fashion. The first baneful influence I notice is in fraud, illimitable and ghastly. Do you know that Arnold of the revolution proposed to sell his country in order to get money to support his wife's wardrobe? I declare here before God and this people that the effort to keep up expensive establishments in this country is sending more business men to temporal perdition than all other causes combined. What was it that sent Gilman to the penitentiary and Philadelphia Morton to the watering of stock, and the life insurance presidents to perjured statements about their assets, and has completely upset our American finances? What was it that overthrew the United States secretary at Washington, the crash of whose fall shook the continent? But why should I go to these famous defaultings to show what men will do in order to keep up great home style and expensive wardrobe when you and I know scores of men who are put to their wits' end and are lashed from January to December in the attempt? Our politicians may theorize until the expiration of their terms of offlee as to the best way of improving our monetary condition in this country. It will be of uo use, and things will be no better until we can learn to put on our heads and backs and feet and hands no more than we can pay for. There are clerks in stores and banks on limited salaries who, in the vain attempt to keep the wardrobe of their family as showy as other folks' wardrobes, are dying of muffs and diamonds and shawls and high hats, and they have nothing left except what they give to cigars and wine suppers, and they die before their time, and they will expect us ministers to preach about them as though they were the victims of early piety, and after a high class funeral, with silver handles at the side of the coffin of extraordinary brightness, it will be found out that the undertaker is cheated out of his legitimate expenses. Do not send to me to preach the funeral sermon of a man who dies like that. I will blurt out the whole truth and tell that he was strangled to death by his wife's ribbons. Our countries are dressed to death. You are not surprised to find that the putting up one public building in New York cost millions of dollars more than it ought to have cost when you find that the man who gave out the contracts paid more than $5000 for his daughter's wedding dress. Cashmeres of a thousand dollars each are not rare on Broadway. It is estimated that there are 10,000 women in these two cities who have expended on their personal array $4000 a year. What are men to do in order to keep up such home wardrobes? Steal? That is the only respectable thing they can do! During the last fifteen years there have been innumerable fine businesses shipwrecked on the wardrobe. The temptation comes in this way: A man thinks more of his family than of all the world outside, and if they spend the evening in describing to him the superior wardrobe of the family across the street that they cannot bear the sight of the man is thrown on his gallantry and on his pride of family, and without translating his feelings into plain language he goes into extortion and issuing false stock and skillful penmanship in writing somebody else's name at the foot of a promissory note, and they all go down together—the husban I to the prison, the wife to the sewing machine, the children to be taken care of by those who were called poor relations. Oh, for some new Shakespeare to arise and write the tragedy of human clothes! Will you forgive me if I say in tersest shape possible that some of the men have to forge and to perjure and to swindle to pay for their wives' dresses. I will say it whether Again, inordinate fashion is the foe of all Christian almsgiving. Men and women put so much in personal display that they often have nothing for God and the cause of suffering humanity. A Christian man cracking his Palais Royal glove across the back by shutting up his hand to hide the cent he puts into the poorbox. A Christian woman, at the story of the Hottentots, crying copious tears into a $25 handkerchief and then giving a two cent piece to the collection, thrusting it under bills so people will not know but it was a $10 goldpiece. One hundred dollars for incense to fashion; two cents for God. God gives us ninet; cents out of every dollar. The other ten cents by command of His Bible belong to Him. Is not God liberal according to His tithing system laid down in the Old Testament? Is not Go I liberal in giving us ninety cents out of a dollar when He takes but ten? We do not like that. We

and one for God.

Now, I would a great deal rather steal ten cents from you than from God. I think one reason why a great many people do not get along in worldly accumulation faster is because they do not observe this divine rule. God says, "Well, if that man is not satisfied with ninety cents of a dollar, then I will take the whole dollar, and I will give it to the man or woman who is honest with Me." The greatest obstacle to charity in the Christian church to-lay is the fact that men expend so much money on their table, and women so much on their dress, they have got nothing left for the work of God and the | what. world's betterment. In my first settlement at Belleville, N. J., the cause of missions was being presented one Sabbath, and a pleafor the charity of the people was being made, when an old Christian man in the audience lost his balance and said right out in the midst of the sermon, "Mr. Talmage, how are we to give liberally to these grand and glorious causes when our families dress as they do?" I did not answer that question. It was the only time in my life when I hall nothing to say. Again, inordinate fashion is distraction to public worship. You know very well there are a good many people who come to church just as they go to the races—to see who will come out first. What a flutter it makes in church when some woman with extraordinary display of fashion comes in! "What a love of a bonnet!" says one. "What a perfeet fright!" says 500. For the most merci-

In many of our churches the preliminary of wardrobes. It is pitiable. Is it not wonderiul that the Lord does not strike the meeting houses with lightning? What distraction of public worship! Dying men and and women, whose bodies are soon to be turned into dust, yet before three worlds strutting like peacocks, the awful question of the soul's destiny submerged by the question of navy blue velvet and long fan train skirt, long enoug to drag up the church aisle, the husaand's store, office, shop, factory, fortune and the admiration of half the people in the building! Men and women ome late to church to show their clothes. People sitting down in a pew or taking up a hymnbook, all absorbed at the same time in personal array, to sing :

Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings; Thy better portion trace. Rise from transitory things Toward heaven, thy native place.

I adopt the Episcopalian prayer and say, "Good Lord, deliver us!" Insatiate fashion also belittles the intelect. Our minds are enlarged or they dwindie just in proportion to the importance of the subject on which we constantly dwell. Can you imagine anything more dwarfing to the human intellect than the study of fashion? I see men on the street who, judging from their elaboration, must have taken two hours to arrange their apparel. After a few years of that kind of absorption, which one McAllister's magnifying glasses will be powerful enough to make the man's character visible? They all land in idiocy.

I have seen men at the summer watering places, through fashion, the mere wreck of what they once were. Sallow of cheek.

Meagre of limb. Hollow at the chest, Showing no animation save in rushing across a room to pick up a lady's fan. Simpering along the corridors the same compliments they simpered twenty years ago. York lawyer at United States Hotel, Saratoga, within our hearing, rushed across a room to say to a sensible woman, "You are as sweet as peaches!" The fools of fashion are myriad. Fashion not only destroys the body, but it makes idiotic the intellect. Yet, my friends, I have given you only the milder phase of this evil. It shuts a great multitude out of heaven. The first peal of thunder that shook Sinal declared, "Thou shalt have no other God before Me," and you will have to choose between the go idess of fashion and the Christian God. There are a great many seats in heaven, and they are all easy seats, but not one seat for the devotee of fashion. Heaven is for meek and quiet spirits. Heaven is for those who think fore of their souls than of their bolies. Heaven is for those who have more joy in Christian charity than in dry goods religion. Why, if you, with your idolatry of fashion, should somehow get into heaven, you would be for putting a French roof on the "house of many mansions." Give up this idelatry of fashion or give up heaven. What would you do standing beside the Countess of Huntington, whose joy it was to build chapels for the poor, or with that Christian woman of Boston who fed 1500 children of the street at Fancuil Hall on New Year's day, giving out as a sort of doxology at the society who have consecrated their needles to the Lord, and who will get eternal reward for every stitch they take? Oh, men and women, give up the idolatry of fashion! The rivalries and the competitions of such a life are a stupendous wretchedness. You will always find some one with brighter array and with more palatial residence, and with lavender kid gloves that make a tighter fit. And if you buy this thing and wear it you will wish you had bought something else and worn it. And the frets of such a life will bring the crow's tect to your temples before they are due, and when you come to die you will have a miscrable time. I have seen men and women of fashion die, and I never saw one of them die well. The trappings off, there they tay on the tumbled pillow, and there were just two things that bothered them—a wasted life an 1 a coming eternity. I could not pacify them, for their body, mind and soul had been exhausted in the worship of fashion, and they could not appreciate the gospel. When I knelt by their bedside, they were mumbling out their regrets and saying: "O God! O Their garments hung up in the wardrobe, never again to be seen by them.

Without any exception, so far as my memory serves me, they died without hope an I went into eternity unprepared. The most ghastly deathbeds on earth are the one where a man dies of delirium tremens and the other where a woman dies after hav- | trial. ing sacrificed all her faculties of body, mind and soul in the worship of fashiou. My friends, we must appear in julgment to answer for what we have worn on our bodies as well as for what repentences we have exercised with our sonis. On that day I see coming in Beau Brummel of the last century, without his cloak, like which all England got a cloak, and without his cane, like which all England got a cane, without his snuffbox, like which all England got a snuffbox—he, the fop of the ages, particular about everything but mis morals, and Aaron Burr without the letters that down to old age he showed in pride to prove his early wicked gallantries, an I Absalom without his hair, and Marchioness Pompadour without her titles, and Mrs. Arnold, the belie of Wall street, when that was the center of fashiou, without her fripperies of vesture.

And in great haggardness they shall go away into eternal expatriation, while among the queens of heavenly society will be found Vasnti, who wore the modest veil before the palatial pacchanalians, and Handah, who annually made a little coat for Samuel at the temple, and Grandmother Lois, the ancestress of Timothy, who imitated her virtue, and Mary, who gave Jesus Christ to the world, and many of you, the wives and mothers and sisters and daughters of the present Christian church, who, through great tribulation, are entering into the kingdom of God. Christ announced who would make up the royal family of heaven when He sail, Whosoever doeth the will of God, the same is My brother, My sister, My mother."

Impoverished Kansas Farmers. T. C. Henry, of the Colorado Land and Emigration Company, has just returned from Central and Western Kansas. To a press representative he said :

"Many counties in the western third of the State of Kansas have already lost fourfifths of their population, and in some, county organization cannot be maintained. The condition of the people is appailing in many districts. I saw hundreds of teams going eastward with loads of household goods thrown hastily into hay wagons. "The condition as compared with former droughts in Kansas is without a parallel, Heretofore the farmers have been able to procure loans on their farms to make up the equities left, and if they had, the loan companies will not let out a dollar on Kansas "There is no new corn, no vegetables little stock, horses are worth nothing, and in the central counties, where there is a little wheat crop wheat is worth but thirtytwo cents a bushel. "Did the prisoner, Santo Caserio, assassinate President Carnot, and was the crime premeditated?" The jury retired at 12.05 o'clock and were absent just thirteen minutes. They returned to court and presented an affirmative answer removed from the court room, was brought back and the jury's declaration was read to him by M. Vidor, the Registrar. At the announcement of the verdict the supercitious grin which Caserto has worn most of the time during the trial disappeared like magic, and his face blanched. At-torney-General Folchier demanded the immediate imposition of the death penalty. There was silence for a moment, and then Judge Breuillac pronounced the sentence, that the prisoner be put to death by the guillotine. As the sound of the Judge's voice ceased Caserio pulled himself together for a moment he was almost limp—and in a feeble voice exclaimed: "Vive la revolu-
