REV. DR. TALMAGE. THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUN-DAY SERMON.

Subject: "The Tax Collector's Conversion."

Text: "This day is salvation come to this house."-Luke xix., 9. Zaccheus was a politician and a taxgatherer. He had an honest calling, but the opportunity for "stealings" was so large the temptation was too much for him. The Bible says he "was a sinner"—that is, in the public sense. How many fine men have been ruined by official position! It is an awful thing for any man to seek office under government unless his principles of integrity are deeply fixed. Manya man upright in an insignificant position has made shipwreck in a great one. As far as I can tell, in the city of Jericho this Zaecheus belonged to what might be called the "ring." They had things their own way, successfully avoiding exposure, if by no other way perhaps by hiring somebody to break in and steal the vouchers. Notwithstanding his bad reputation there were streaks of good about him, as there are about almost every man. Gold is found in quartz, and sometimes in a small Jesus was coming to town. The people turned out en masse to see Him. Here He comes, the Lord of glory, on foot, dust covered and travel weary, limping along the way, carrying the griefs and woes of the world. He looks to be sixty years of age, when He is only about thirty. Zaccheus was a short man and could not see over the people's heads while standing on the ground, so he got up into a sycamore tree that swung its arm clear over the road. Jesus advanced amid the wild excitement of the surging crowd. The most honorable and popular men of the city are looking on and trying to gain His attention. Jesus, instead of regarding them, looks up at the little man in the tree and says: "Zaccheus, come down. I am going home with you." Everybody was disgusted to think that Christ would go home with so dishonorable a man. I see Christ entering the front door of the house of Zaccheus. The King of heaven and earth sits down, and as He looks around on the place and the family He pronounces the benediction of the text, "This day is salvation come to this house Zaccheus had mounted the sycamore tree out of mere inquisitiveness. He wanted to see how this stranger looked-the color of His eyes, the length of His hair, the contour of His features, the height of His stature. "Come down," said Christ.

And so many people in this day get up into the tree of curiosity or speculation to see Christ. They ask a thousand queer ques-tions about His divinity, about God's soyereignty and the eternal decrees. They peculate and criticise and hang onto the outside limb of a great sycamore, but they must come down from that if they want to be saved. We cannot be saved as philosophers, but as little children. You cannot go heaven by way of Athens, but by way of

Why be perplexed about the way sin came into the world when the great question is how we shall get sin driven out of our hearts. How many spend their time in criticism and religious speculation! They take the rose of Sharon or the lilly of the valley, pull out the anther, scatter the corolla and say. "Is that the beautiful flower of religion that you are talking about?" No flower is beautiful after you have torn it all to pieces. The path to heaven is so plain that a fool need not make any mistake about it, and yet men stop and cavil. Suppose that, going toward the Pacific slope, I had resolved that I would stop until I could kill all the grizzly bears and the panthers on either side of the way. would never have got to the Pacific coast. When I went out to nunt the grizzly bear, the grizzly bear would have come out to hunt me. Here is a plain road to heaven. Men say they will not take a step on it until they can make game of all the theories that bark and growl at them from the thickets. They forget the fact that, as they go cout to hunt the theory, the theory comes out to hunt them, and so they perish. Dr. Ludlow, my professor in the theological seminary, taught me a lesson I shall never forget. While putting a variety of questions to him that were perplexing he turned upon me, somewhat in sternness, but more in love, and said. "Mr. Talmage, you will have to let God know some things that you don't." We tear our hands on the spines of the cactus instead of feasting our eye on its tropical bloom. A great company of people now sit swinging themselves on the sycamore tree of their pride, and I cry to you: "Zaccheus, come down! Come down out of your pride, out of your inquisitiveness, out of your speculation. You cannot ride into the gate of heaven with ceach and four, postilion ahead and ickey behind. 'Except ye become as little hildren, ye cannot enter the kingdom of God.' God has chosen the weak things of the world to confound the mighty. Zaccheus, come down, come down!" I notice that this taxgatherer accompanied his surrender to Christ with the restoration of property that did not belong to him. He says, "If I have taken anything by false accusation, I restore fourfold"-that is, it I have taxed any man for $10,000 when he had only $5000 worth of property and put in my own pocket the tax for the last $5000, I will restore to him fourfold. If I took from him $10, I will give him $40. If I took from him

$40, I will give him $160. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been sent to Washington during the past few years as "conscience money." I suppose that money was sent by men who wanted to be Christians, but found they could not until they made restitution. There is no need of our trying to come to Christ as long as we keep trau-tulently a dollar or a farthing in our possession that belongs to another. Sup pose you have not money enough to pay your debts and for the sake of defrauding your creditors you put your property in your wife's name. You might cry until the day of judgment for pardon, but you would not get it without first making restitution. In times of prosperity it is right, against a rainy day, to assign property to your wife, of defrauding your creditors, you make such assignment you become a culprit before God, and you may as well stop praying until you have made restitution. Or suppose one man loans another money on bond or mortgage, with the understanding that the Your son does just as you do. He tries to mortgage can lie quiet for several years, but walk like you and to talk like you. The foreclosure-the sheriff mounts the auction block, and the property is struck down at balf price, and the mortgagee buys it in. The mortgagee started to get the property half price and is a thief and a robber. Until he makes restitution there is no mercy

You say: "I cannot make restitution. The parties whom I swindled are gone." Then I say, "Take the money up to the American Bible Society and consecrate it to God.' Zaccheus was wise when he disgorged his unrighteous gains, and it was his first step in the right direction. The way being plain, Christ walked into the house of Zaccheus. He becomes a different man : his wife a different woman : the children are different Oh, it makes a great change in any house when Christ comes into it! How many beautiful homes are represented among you? There are pictures on the wall, there is music in the drawing-room, and luxuries in the wardrobe, and a full sup ply in the pantry. Even if you were half sleep, there is one word with which I could wake you and thrill you through and through, and that word is "home!" are also houses of suffering represented in which there are neither pictures nor wardrobe nor adorument-only one room, and a plain cot, or a bunk in a corner. Yet it is the place waere your loved ones dwell, and your whole nature tingles with satisfaction when you think of it and call it home. Though the world may scoff at us and pur-sue us, and an the day we be lossed about, at eventide we sail into the harbor of home. Though there be no rest for us in the busy world, and we go trudging about, bearing burdens that well nigh crush us, there is a refuge, and it hath an easy chair in which we may sit, and a lounge where we may lie, and a serenity of peace in which we may repose, and that refuge is home. The English soldiers, sitting on the walls around Sevastopol, one night heard a company of Eu-sicians playing "Home, Sweet Home," and it is said that the whole army broke out into the Loonard St. Eow York City | sobs and wailing, so great was their home-sickness. God pity the poor, miserable wretch who has no home!

Now, suppose Christ should come into First the wife and the mother would feel His presence. Religion almost always begins there. It is easier for women to become Christians than for us men. They do not fight so against God. If woman tempted man originally away from holiness, now she tempts him back. She may not make any fuss about it, but somehow everybody in the house knows that there is a change in the wife and mother. She chides the children more gently. Her face sometimes lights up with an unearthly glow. She goes into some unoccupied room for a little while, and the husband goes not after her, nor asks why she was there. He knows without asking that she has been praying.

The husband notices that her face is brighter than on the day when, years ago, they stood at the marriage altar, and he knows that Jesus has been putting upon her brow a wreath sweeter than the orange blossoms She puts the children to bed, not satisfied with the formal prayer that they once offered but she lingers now and tells them of Jesus who blessed little children and of the good place where they all hope to be at last. And hen she kisses them good night with something that the child feels to be a heavenly benediction-something that shall hold onto the boy after he has become a man forty or fifty years of age, for there is something in a good, loving, Christian mother's kiss that fifty years cannot wipe off the cheek. Now the husband is distressed and annoyed and almost vexed. If she would only speak to him he would "blow her up." He does not like to say anything about it, but not and a peace that he has not. He knows that, dying as he now is, he cannot go to the same place. He cannot stand it any longer, Some Sunday night, as they sit in the church side by side, the floods of his soul break forth. He wants to pray, but does not know how. He hides his face lest some of his worldly friends see him, but God's spirit arouses him, melts him, overwhelms him. And they go home, husband and wife, in silence, until they get to their room, when he cries out, "Oh, pray for me!" And they kneel down. They cannot speak. The word will not come. But God does not want any words. He looks down and answers sob and groan and outgushing tenderness. That night they do not sleep any for talking of all the years wasted and of that Saviour who ceased not to call. Before morning they ave laid their plans for a new life, Father and mother descend from the bedroom. The children do not know what is the matter. They never saw father with a Bible in his hand before. He says, "Come children; I want you all to sit down white we read and pray," The children look at each other and are almost disposed to laugh, but they see their parents are in deep earnest. It is a short chapter that the father reads. He is a good reader at other times, but now he does not get on much. He sees so much to linger on. His voice trembles. Everything is so strangely new to him. They kneel-that is, the father and mother do, but the children come down one by one. They do not know that they must. It is some time before they all get down. The sentences are broken. The phrases are a little ungrammatical. The prayer begins abruptly and ends abruptly; but, as far as I can understand what they mean, it is about this: "O Saviour, elp us! We do not know how to pray, Feach us. We cannot live any longer in the way we have been living. We start to-day for heaven. Help us to take these children along with us. Forgive us for all the past. Strengthen us for all the future, and when the journey is over take us where Jesus is and where the little babe is that we lost, Amen!" It ended very abruptly, but the angels came out and leaned so far over to listen they would have fallen off the battlement but for a stroke of their wings and cried: "Hark, hark! Behold, he prays!" That night there is a rap at the be-iroon door. "Who is there?" cries the father. It is the oldest child. "What is the matter? Are you sick?" "No; I want to be saved." Only a little while, and all the children are brought into the kingdom of God. And there is great joy in the house. Years pass on. The telegraph goes click, click! What is the news flying over the country? "Come home. Father is dying ?" The children all gather. Some come in the last train, Some, too late for the train, take a carriage across the country. They stand around the dying | two of them will be pitchers. bed of the father. The oldest son upholds the mother and says : "Don't cry, mother. I will take care of you." The parting blessing is given. No long admonition, for he has, through years, been saying to his children all he had to say to them. It is a plain "good-by!" and the remark, "I know you will all be kind to your mother," and all is

Shortage in Live Stock. The returns of the United States Department of Agriculture show that in January, 1894, the total number of cattle in this coun try amounted to 53,095,568 as against 54,-067,590 in 1892. The number of swine was reported at 45,206,498, a reduction of 7,000,000 from that of 1892. And from the way the pigs and young cattle have been marketed recently, driven in by the drought and prospects of a short corn crop, a market shortage may occur within the next year or two. Taking these points into consideration, it will be seen that live stock presents a more promising future than most other branches agriculture. The consumption of meats increases from year to year, and this increase has to be supplied, as well as catching up the shortages. If prices advance in the next year on any kind of live stock on ac-
