A Vagary of the Law.

A man in the city of Baltimore stole a cat. The owner of the cat procured his arrest on a warrant for theft. Then the man's lawyer arose and told the court that his client had not stolen a cat, because it was legally impossible to steal a cat, because only property can be stolen, and cats in the commonwealth of Maryland are not property, but fere nature-that is to say, fieras, which are wild beasts, such as tigers, lions and felis catus, living in the state of nature. The indige was struck dumb by this argument of the man's lawyer, and referred the question to the attorney-general, a person of great learning, who in his youth was a mighty hunter of wild-cats, which he pursued over peaks and through chasms of the Blue Rilge and chased over back fences and through vacant lots in his native village. The formal decision of this eminent authority has established that, under Maryland law, you cannot steal a cat. Which is another illustrative example of the variation and conflict of the local laws in this country.-Legal Adviser.

been debated in the U.S. Senate very vigorously. One thing should be remembered about that climate; it is death to almost every foreigner who goes there, and laborers especially succumb. It is said that the Panama Railroad cost a life for every tie. What an idea of pains and aches is in this sentence. It is mostly due to carelessness. Every laborer provided with St. Jacobs Oil would be armed against these troubles. Men's muscles there are cramped with rheumatic pain and they ache all over. That's just the condition where this sovereign remedy can do its best work. The fearful malady is very much like the break-bone fever in certain parts of America.

Grace for Congress. Rebellious Kaffirs---Native Outbreak on The President has sent the following mesage to Congress

A NOTHER

To the Congress of the United States: Since my recent communication to the Congress calling attention to our financial ondition and suggesting legislation which I leemed essential to our National welfare and redit, the anxiety and apprehension thin existing in business circles have continued. As a precaution, therefore, against the failure of timely legislative aid through Congressional action, cautious preparations have been pending to employ to the best possible adantage, in default of better means, such excutive authority as may, without additional egislation, be exercised for the purpose of einforcing and maintaining in our Treasury an adequate and safe gold reserve. In the judgment of those especially harged with this responsibility, the business situation is so critical and the legislative situation so unpromising, with the omision thus far on the part of the Congress to beneficially enlarge the powers of the Secretary of the Treasury in the premises, as to enjoin immediate executive acprecedented demands made upon them tion with the facilities now at hand. Therefore, in pursuance of section 370 of he revised statutes, the details of an arrangeient have this day been concluded with paries abundantly able to fulfil their undertaking whereby bonds of the United States aunorized under the act of July 14, 1875, payable in coin thirty years after their date, with interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, o the amount of a little less than $62,400,000. re to be issued for the purchase of gold oin amounting to a sum slightly in excess f $65,000,000, to be delivered to the Treasry of the United States, which sum, added the gold now held in our reserve, will so estore such reserve as to make it amount to omething more than $100,000,000. Such a ent, per annum. At least one-half of the able feature of the transaction.

The arrangement thus completed, which ifter careful inquiry appears in present cirumstances and considering all the objects esired, to be the best attainable, develops such a difference in the estimation of inestors between bonds made payable in coin and those specifically made payable in gold favor of the latter, as is represented by aree-fourths of a cent in annual interest. In he agreement just concluded the annual saving in interest to the Government if 3 per ent, gold bonds should be substituted for 4

The Western express on the Atchison Topeka and Sante Fe Road, train No. 1, bound for Colorado and California, was held up one mile west of Sylvia, Reno County, Kan., at 11.25 o'clock p. m. by four masked men, who signalled danger. Two of the robbers covered the engineer and fireman and two went to the express car. For some reason they failed to effect an entrance and then went to the coaches and made the passengers give up all their valuables. The train was held for an hour and ten minues by the robbers, who then rode South. Conductor McGrath ran the train back to Sylvia and gave the alarm, and Sheriff Pat ton was on the train with his posse in a few ninutes. The men were believed to be members of the Stafford ban | of desperadoes One of the men who went through the train is described as five feet nine inches tall. He wore a wide-rimmed gray hat.
