OUR NEXT GOVERNOR.

CYRUS B. WATSON—A SHORT SKETCH OF HIS BUSY LIFE.

A PATRIOT AT SIXTEEN.

An Enemy of Trusts.—Self Made Man of the People and for the People Every Time.

(Winston Sentinel.)

Cyrus B. Watson, "Our Cy," as he is popularly known throughout Western North Carolina, is a son of the late John Watson, Esq., and was born January 14th, 1844, near Kernersville, in what was then a part of Stokes, but forming now a very important section of this (Forsyth) county.

From early childhood he was exceptionally bright and gave promise of great mental activity and capacity. His educational advantages were only those afforded by the common schools of that day.

When the dark clouds of the late civil war arose and hovered threateningly over this Southland, although only 16 years of age, he was one of the first to go out from the home of his boyhood to fight, suffer and, if need be, die for the Confederate cause. He served most valiantly as sergeant of company K, forty-fifth Regiment N. C. troops. He was seriously wounded at both Williamsport, Md., and Spotsylvania Court House.

When the war closed Mr. Watson laid down his arms and came back to his Kernersville home. He served both there and at High Point for a year or two as a clerk in general merchandise stores. He afterwards studied law under the late J. M. Leach at Lexington, and was admitted to the bar in 1868. During the next year, he was united in marriage to Miss A. E. Henley, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. W. P. Henley.

Since the war, while loyal in every way to the Federal Government, he has at all times, by both word and action, shown himself an earnest defender of the South and her interests. He is an active member of Norfolk Camp, No. 426, United Confederate Veterans.

Mr. Watson rose rapidly to prominence in his chosen profession, developing into an able practitioner, especially adroit and successful in the conduct of criminal cases.

In 1883 Mr. Watson was elected to the North Carolina State Senate, thirty-second district. He served as an efficient member of the Committees on Internal Improvement, the Code, restricting the State, judiciary and several others. He was a hardworking Senator, in every way representing his district with much credit to himself and constituency. It is to Mr. Watson that is due the credit for engineering to successful enactment the most notable and salutary law of that year, the famous anti-lynch law. He was elected to the senate by a majority of 1,305.

About 1875 Mr. Watson formed a copartnership for the practice of law with the late W. B. Glenn, with whom he was associated until 1885, when the present well-known law firm of Watson & Buxton, which ranks as one of the foremost legal combinations in the State was formed.

Again in 1893 Mr. Watson was called into public life, having been elected to the lower House of the Legislature. In this position he, as in the Senate of 1883, labored diligently for the best interests of his constituency and State at large.

He was the author and earnest advocate of the famous anti-trust measure introduced in the House by himself, and passed that body by a good majority, but was foundered and defeated in the Senate by a bare majority. The direct aim of this measure was to throw off the heavy yoke of trusts and combinations, which have for several years been sapping the life from North Carolina industry and hindering her material prosperity. It aimed an especial blow at that arch enemy of the tobacco planter, the American Tobacco Company.

Mr. Watson during this term of the Legislature served as chairman of the Committee on Banks, and was quite active in

THE PASSAGE OF A LAW PROVIDING FOR THE RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF STATE BANKS, WHICH WAS TO GO INTO EFFECT WHEN THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES SHALL HAVE REPEALED THE 10 PER CENT. TAX ON INSTITUTIONS OF THIS CHARACTER.

It was during this session that Mr. Watson made his deepest and most favorable impressions upon the people of the State at large as an uncompromising Democrat and, as Forsyth's recent convention expressed it, "the ancient and earnest foe of monopoly and trust—the friend of silver—the defender of the people's rights." It was with commendation like unto the quotation just used, that the Forsyth county convention, held in this city June 20th, most enthusiastically endorsed Mr. Watson for the nomination as Democratic candidate for Congress from the Eighth district.

It was with unfeigned yet reluctant pleasure that Forsyth's delegation, in obedience to the State convention yielded their favorite as a Congressional candidate for the higher and more responsible position of Governor of the Old North State.

A PAINFUL SPECTACLE.

A Governor and a Judge Engage in a Fistic Encounter on the Stump.

For the past six years candidates for public office in South Carolina have been blackguarding each other on the stump and have been time and again on the very verge of getting together in personal combat, but they had never gotten to the fighting point. The people had come to believe that such a thing as representing an insult on the stump was a dream of the past. But Judge Joseph Earle broke the record when he jumped upon the stand at Florence, S. C., and struck Governor Evans on the head with his fist, getting a little blood drawn from under his eye in the personal row which followed. Governor Evans' fist landing in his face. It was an exciting episode and a most painful spectacle—the Governor of the State and a Circuit Judge in a public "scrap." The trouble was caused by Mr. Evans alluding to Mr. Earle as a fice with his tail cut. The whole courtroom was wild with excitement for at least fifteen minutes. Friends crowded around the two men after they had been very forcibly separated. A number of pistols were drawn and held in the hands of their owners ready for use. Governor Evans was speaking when the incident occurred. Candidate Duncan spoke afterwards, going for Governor Evans in pretty warm language.

NEGROES DECLARE FOR BRYAN AND SEWELL.

The Afro-American League of Alabama, composed of many of the most influential negroes in the State, met at Montgomery in its State convention last week and heartily endorsed the candidacy of Joseph F. Johnson, Democratic nominee for Governor, and that of Messrs. Bryan and Sewell. The resolution declares in favor of the policy of the Democratic party. The announcement of the convention's action occasioned considerable sensation there.

CAUGHT IN THIS CITY.

C. H. BOUSH, WHO ROBBED AN OLD COLORED WOMAN IN NORFOLK.

STOLE OVER $500.

Spent all but $57.22 in Riotous Living.

On June 4th a box containing about $600, the property of an old colored woman in the employ of Mrs. Schwarzkoff, was stolen from the latter's residence in Ghent, near Norfolk, Va., where the old woman had hidden it. When she discovered her loss a colored boy employed at the house was arrested for the crime and examined in the Norfolk Police Court, but no evidence was found against him. Several other men had also been at work in the cellar and the officers were at a loss as to whom to suspect.

The case was given to Detective James, of Norfolk, and he captured his man. The party was C. H. Boush, an electrician, of that city. Boush, when captured, had taken the alarm and fled to this city and was about to take passage on the steamer Newbern for Nag's Head, when he was stopped by officers Brooks and Sedwick upon a telegram from the Norfolk authorities. He waved extradition papers and made a clean breast of the whole affair. He found the box of money while he was laying electric wires in the basement of the residence.

When arrested he had on his person $57.22 and confessed that he had spent the rest of the cash in having a good time. He blew it in along Norfolk's tenderloin district, indulging in wine suppers and dropped it at the summer resorts.

AN OUTRAGE AT CUMMOCK.

A MINER SHOT IN COLD BLOOD BY THE BOSS OF THE HANTS.

A miner was shot at Cummock, N. C., last Saturday night by Davis, boss of the hands in the coal mines. The particulars of the unfortunate affair are about as follows:

Lynn Barbee missed some money, and the man who now lies suffering with a pistol shot wound was suspected of having taken it. About a dozen miners clubbed up and took the supposed thief out and searched him. After finding no money on his person Davis forced him to kneel down and shot him in the mouth with a pistol.

The ball shattered his jawbone and was found in his tongue. A doctor removed the pieces of bone and it is thought the man will recover.

Davis took the train and skipped out.

A North Dakota editor unburdens himself thus: "The politician is my shepherd, I shall not want for anything during the campaign. He leadeth me into the saloon for my vote's sake. He filleth my pocket with good cigars and my beer runneth over. He inquireth concerning my family, even unto the fourth generation. Yea, though I walk through the mud and rain to vote for him, and shout myself hoarse when he is elected, he straitway forgetteth me. Although I meet him in his own house he knoweth me not. Surely the wool has been pulled over my eyes all the days of my life."

A MINER'S MAIL BAG.

THE CARRIER MANAGED TO SAVE HIS LIFE BUT LOST HIS JOB.

When we got to the postoffice at the mining town of Strawberry Hill the mail bag had to be carried to and from Bluff City over the hills by a man on foot. The distance was nine miles and was traversed twice a week. One Wednesday the carrier came in without the bag and the 400 men assembled around the shanty used as a postoffice at once demanded an explanation.

"I'll tell you how it was," began the man, who was bleeding from a dozen hurts. "Up thar at the bend I was tackled by a 'bar.'"

"And you killed him, of course, replied one of the crowd.

"No; I left my gun behind."

"Then you dodged him?"

"No. Tried to dodge him, but he was right thar."

"Then you ran away?"

"No chance to run. The critter was after me or that mail bag and I heaved him the bag and got away. He clawed me a few times, but it's nuthin' to hurt."

"Stephen Jackson," said Judge Watkins, in solemn tones, as a murmur of indignation passed through the crowd, "do you mean to tell us that that gin that mail bag to that 'bar'?"

"I had to."

"Didn't that 'bar' seem to prefer you to the bag?"

"Reckon he did."

"And you felt that he did?"

"Yes; felt purty strong that way."

"And yet, after swarin' to uphold the sacred constitution of the United States and defend that mail bag with your life, you calmly fed it to a 'bar'?"

"Had to do it to git away."

"But you said anything about you gettin' away? It was you solemn dooty to perish right thar! It was your dooty, sir, as a patriot and a mail carrier and a government offshull to hang that mail bag to a limb and let that 'bar' go ahead on your karkass! You hev escaped the 'bar', but you hev to deal with the outraged feelin's of this yer camp! Stephen Jackson, how do you prefer to die?"

"By hangin'."

"Wall, we'll send two men up to the bend. If they git the bag you are saved; if the 'bar' has devoured it we'll hang you by the neck till you ar' dead."

The men found the bag and the carrier's life was saved, although he lost his job. Singularly enough, the bag contained but one letter, and that was a missive for Judge Watkins from his wife in Ohio, saying he needn't come home, as she had applied for a divorce and expected to marry a better man.—Detroit Free Press.

ONLY WANTED $2,000,000

A CRANK TRIES TO BLUFF A RAILWAY MANAGER.

IT FAILED TO WORK.

And the Would-be Murderer is Now in Prison.

Superintendent William Peddles, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, was called on Monday by a man who demanded $2,000,000 in Central New Jersey and Baltimore and Ohio bonds. The crank made the demand as he toyed carelessly with a heavy piece of iron, which protruded from his trousers pocket.

Mr. Peddles succeeded in inducing the man to go to the office of Mr. Thompson, superintendent of motor, to get the bonds, and in the meantime notified Mr. Thompson of the stranger's advance on him. Thompson had a detective on hand, and while the man was talking to Mr. Thompson the detective sprang at him and pinioned his arms. The crank said he was Dennis M. Menpen, residing in New York.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

A Husband Cuts His Wife's Throat and His Own.

J. L. Hailey, a farmer living five miles from Petersberg, in Marshall county, Tenn., on Tuesday last, cut his wife's throat with a butcher knife and then plunged the knife into his own throat. The double tragedy took place in the presence of Hailey's daughter, who, horrified, fled to a neighbor's. The dead bodies were found lying in the yard one foot apart. The long butcher knife was still sticking in Hailey's throat.

STOPPED THE CEREMONY.

THE FATHER OF A WOULD-BE GROOM OBJECTS TO A BIGAMOUS MARRIAGE.

On Monday last Stafford county, Va., was thrown into a state of great excitement by the unlooked for interruption of a marriage ceremony. When the preacher asked if any knew any cause why the parties should not be married the father of the groom rose and objected because his son was already married. The son's name is William Barbour and the bride to be Emma Anderson. All are of high social standing. Several letters were read from the wife of the would-be groom. The preacher refused to go on with the ceremony and Barbour departed.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. NATURAL ICE FACTORY.

It is Said to Exist in Virginia and Works in Summer.

Perhaps it is not generally known that there is a natural ice factory in the world—one that goes right on with its work through Summer's heat and Winter's snows; yet such a phenomenon is presented by this (Scott) county, says a correspondent of the Richmond Times.

This phenomenon has been questioned as to its existence by scientific men, who regard such a thing as impossible and contrary to the well regulated laws of nature. The writer himself doubted the glowing stories he had heard of it till he went there himself and had an ocular demonstration of its existence.

Stony Creek is a clear, bold stream that thunders down over rough boulders from Stone and Powell's Mountains, on the north side of this county, and empties into Clinch river at Fort Blackmore, the first place settled in all this section. About five miles from the mouth of Stony Creek is the mouth of an affluent known as the Devil's Fork. One mile and a quarter up this stream is the "iceberg," as it is known in that section.

All around this place the laurel and birch grow so densely that it is with the greatest difficulty one gets through it. The basin on which the "berg" is situated embraces about half an acre. On the north side the precipice makes a gentle curve, and on the south side there is a curvilinear indentation in the mountain giving the basin an elliptical form. The open space is an immense aggregation of huge boulders. It was a humid rainy morning and the rocks over which we had been walking presented no appearance of ice. But the instant we stepped into the opening embracing the "berg" the rocks were sheathed with ice, and we had to take heed of our footsteps. We then paused and looked down into the openings in the rocks. There were the solid blocks of ice, completely filling the crevices and giving the appearance that the whole place was prepared by nature as a storehouse for that which alleviates the intensity of Summer's merciless caloric. Everywhere was ice, crystal and clear. Under the ledges appeared stalagmites of ice, and down the nether sides of the rock a resemblance to honey-comb. At one point an opening ten feet in depth was made last Summer, and from it great blocks of pure, solid ice were obtained. Those who made the excavation say that it was so cold in summer that they could remain at the work only a few minutes.

From all indications the ice extends to the depths of many feet and covers a large surface. People of the vicinity go there in August and without trouble get ice. There is a variety of moss, long and feecy, growing upon the rocks and adjacent trees, in which they can wrap the ice and carry it long distances.

Many theories have been advanced concerning the phenomenon, but your correspondent differs from all of them and advances the idea that it is simply the result of a compound action of the air in caverns below, producing an effect similar to that brought about by our ice factories.
