STORY OF A NEWSPAPER . DEAL.

How Hoke Smith Ousted Capt Howell From the Constitution.

The inside details of the recont retirement of Captain E. P. Howell from the helm of the Atlanta Constitution have at last leaked out.

In the disclosure ex-Secretary Hoke Smith, ow of the Even. ing Journal, and the implacable enemy or Capt. Howell, is brought to the tet, not only as one of the umentalities that caused his rement, but as the actual pure user of part of his stock. Naturally, toward nouncement that Mr. Smith is now the holder of fity shares of Constitution stock chased cour sid-rattle gossip. The Constitution and Journal, up to the withdrawal of Capt. Howell, fought each other relentlessly in polis tics and business. Since the change in the Constitution stockholders' list there has been a noticeable change in the attitude of the two papers, but the public never guessed the cause of this change of front. Now that Mr. Smith's interest in the morning paper has been proclaimed, there is all kinds of talk about ultimate changes in editorial manages ment and revolutions in political policies. Some confidently predict that it is but a question of time when the Constitution will be brought into the sound money column. The others declare there is no probability of this, for business reasons. The story of the manner in which Capt. Howell got out of the Constitution and Mr. Smith got in is briefly this: When the Constitution lost its news franchise through the collapse of the Southern Associated Press, the Associated Press, throung Mr. Smith, put such exacting conditions on the Constitution that Capt. Howell became very exasperated, and in thatt frame of Mr. Hugh T. Inman, to whom the Capt. was talking, asked him how much he would take for his stock-250 shares.

He replied that he would sell for $40 per share, making his entire holding amount to $1,00,-Mr. Iuman asked how long he would keep that open, and Capt. Howell said one week. Papers were drawn up to that effect. Mr. Banigan, the Providence Messrs. W. A. Hemphill and Hoke Smith now hold the controlling interest in the paper. Mr. Clark Howell, editor-inchief, holds the same amount as Mr. Smith, the owner of the Constitution's afternoon rival. -Savannah News.
