ELIZABETH CITY, April 3, 1897

The truckers of this section are in a more prayerful attitude just now than for months past, the burden of their desire being that further frost be postponed till next fall.

The people of this section of the country are wonderfully blessed—no appalling disasters such as befell the Illinois town Sunday afternoon, it being swept away by flood.

If the war scare is not over soon, says the Norfolk Ledger, interest in the coming baseball season is not likely to reach the boiling point with any great degree of celerity. With an actual war this would be an off year for sport.

Most of the warships of the United States are now either in American waters or on their way home. Practically every foreign station has been stripped of vessels, with the exception of the Asiatic station.

The Watanga Democrat says apropos of the call for the Democratic convention: "The proper thing, we think, is for the Democrats to open the doors of the party so wide that all the honest voters who want better government in the Old North State to come in and vote for honest, good men for office."

Mr. J. L. Whedbee, the fusion member of the State Senate from Perquimans, is after Harry Skinner with a card headed "Con-Fusion versus Fusion." The card is addressed to the voters of the First District, and among many other things said, is this: "That almost the solid mass of the Republicans (save some very few who may be for 'ring rule' possibly) are strongly opposed to further support of Harry Skinner. In the most emphatic terms, the fiat has gone forth from the Republican 'big wam' to the rank and file, that Col. Skinner cannot again receive the Republican support for his return to Congress, matters not what sort of rigs and intrigues that may be used to the contrary."

I was reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy in the Worcester Enterprise recently which leads me to write this. I can truthfully say I never used any remedy equal to it for colic and diarrhoea. I have never had to use more than one or two doses to cure the worst case with myself or children.—W. A. STROUD, Popo Moke, Md. For sale by W. W. Griggs, Druggist.

BUILT UP BY A PULL TOGETHER.

A Lesson in Home Patronage—A Long Pull, A Strong Pull and a Pull Altogether.

To build up a state, a city or a town and make it prosperous and contented, is a feat of no little consequence and often of very great magnitude. It requires a full understanding of conditions, of necessities, of available material and of aids abroad. Cities have been developed by to tinate railroad connections. Others, like Augusta, Ga., and Charlotte, have been greatly and chiefly pushed forward by manufacturing, aided, of course, by easy railroad communication with the markets. Wide-awake people are quite apt to be on the alert for opportunities. They are prompt to seize the epochal hour, and to grasp the means presented for reaching wider and greater fields. They are ready to invest in whatever plan, that promise good to the city, and to place money in such investments as seem to business understanding to present guarantees of success. Lately in several newspapers in and out of North Carolina, the Messenger has noted editorials urging the people in the towns to keep their money circulating at home and to make purchases of their fellow citizens and shares in burden bearing. The Messenger had something to say on this matter some month or two since. It has many times insisted that the people living in any community should as far as possible make their purchases at their doors instead of ordering what they buy from the North, and whenever possible to do so to be sure to patronize home enterprise and town industries.

We try to practice what we preach. Begging pardon for a personal reference, we can say that we have not bought a cent's worth of personal wear since we reached Wilmington in 1876, outside of the town. It is only in books that we have gone from home, and that was very infrequent, and partially necessary, but have purchased through a Wilmington house. It is only by keeping your purchases at home that a business can be built up successfully to meet all your demands and give you the best advantages as to prices. Doubtless by judicious ordering you can save some money, but you are injuring home business and cutting off prosperity all about you. If everybody should do so many do—order whatever you need from aliens, and sometimes even enemies, the grass would grow in the streets of all southern cities, business would completely stagnate, stores would be closed, people would have to flee to escape starvation. Do unto others as you would be done by under like circumstances. That is a golden rule and follow it.

How much cash goes out from North Carolina in a year to support and enrich strangers and to the injury of home people seeking to make a living, we do not know, but doubtless some millions of dollars. We suppose Wilmington does an active business in ordering from Northern dealers instead of buying from friends and neighbors and from them you know. Turn over a new leaf and quit this way of unfriendly and unjust discrimination. Give dealers at your doors a living chance and demand in turn fair dealing and a living for yourself. Not only buy your goods at home, but buy whatever is manufactured in your town where the products are satisfactory as to quality.

The Augusta Chronicle discusses intelligently the benefits of patronizing home industries manufactures. This, too, like purchases from home dealers, is important. The Chronicle gives this to show what benefits would accrue: "Let us glance at some of the effects of such a policy? First, it would insure the success of a home industry, giving employment to skilled workmen. Third, the wages paid these laborers and the profits made by the manufacturers will be expended for living expenses in this community or invested in local property, and last but not least, the object lesson of this industry's success will induce similar investments in other lines. Just let it become established that Augusta is a community that patronizes home industries and there will be many new and diversified manufactures springing up in the city."

A pull altogether would greatly improve the business outlook in any community. It would be worked well.—Wilmington Messenger.

MOTHER! There is no word so full of meaning and about which such tender and holy recollections cluster as that of "MOTHER"—she who watched over our helpless infancy and guided our first tottering step. Yet the life of every Expectant Mother is beset with danger and all effort should be made to avoid it, so assists nature in the change taking place that the Expectant Mother is enabled to look forward without dread, suffering or gloomy forebodings, to the hour when she experiences the joy of Motherhood. Its use insures safety to the lives of both Mother and Child, and she is found stronger after than before confinement—in short, it "makes Childbirth natural and easy," as so many have said. "Don't be persuaded to use anything but MOTHER'S FRIEND."
