PEACE.
"Grim visaged war has at last smoothed his wrinkled front" and Peace, white robed and beautiful, now rests like a gentle spirit over this broad land. On August the 12th, 1898, William R. Day, Secretary of State, on behalf of the United States, and his Excellency Jules Cambon, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the Republic of France, on behalf of Spain, concluded and signed a protocol setting forth the terms upon which negotiations of peace were to be based. Immediately upon the signing of this protocol the commanding officers were wired to cease hostilities. The full text of this instrument may be found in another column.

Our war with Spain was glorious. It was born in an intense desire to strike from human limbs the galling fetters of so cruel and barbarous a despotism as ever disgraced the annals of the world. It was fired by a righteous indignation against an arrogant, rapacious, blood-thirsty, devilish nation whose deeds of treachery and scoundrelism and feindish butchery of helpless women and innocent children were a stench in the nostrils of God and a foul blot upon civilization. It was true, liberty-loving Americanism tending its aid to struggling, bleeding, dying, Cuba. And it is needless to attempt to disguise the fact that the blasted hulk of the Maine and the pale, ghastly forms of its dastardly slaughtered inmates, added vigor, impetuosity and swiftness to the crushing blow visited upon Spain. This war, so holy in its inception has been pressed to a glorious termination. America has thrilled the world by its daring! She has furnished deeds of heroism whose brilliancy finds no parallel in the annals of history. Henceforth America, will be synonymous with dauntless valor and stainless chivalry.

Let the American people see to it then, that peace shall be as honorable as war has been glorious. Let no principle be sacrificed. Let no American or Cuban interest be jeopardized by diplomacy, that has been purchased in a baptism of fire. Allow no bloodmoney to be fastened upon the beautiful yet persecuted "Queen of the Antilles." See that she is not forced to the odious, despicable, monstrous act of paying for the violation of her daughters, the starvation of her children and the butchery of her sons.

It rather looks as though Captain General Augusti deserted his troops at Manila—perhaps with Madrid's consent—but it would have been far more honorable to have surrendered with them than to have sneaked off to Hong Kong in the German warship Kaiserine Augusta.

The ending of the war has already had the effect of greatly stimulating politics in North Carolina.

Dewey began the war and ended, or will end, it—he is still fighting, it seems.

Democratic Congressional Convention.

A convention of the Democratic party of the 1st Congressional District is hereby called to meet at Edenton, N. C. on August 30th at 3 p. m. for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress and to transact such other business as may come before it.

By order of the Committee.
W. B. Rodman,
Chairman.

The hair, when not properly cared for, loses its lustre, becomes crisp, harsh, and dry, and falls out freely with every combing. To prevent this, the best dressing in the market is Ayer's Hair Vigor. It imparts that silky gloss so essential to perfect beauty.

DEWEY'S MODESTY.
Didn't Think He Was Doing Much During the battle.

Admiral Dewey, writes a Cavite correspondent of the Chicago Record, is receiving hundreds of letters, bales of newspaper clippings, invitations to "Dewey days," copies of Dewey songs and Dewey poetry and a good many cablegrams. There are many post-cards and a great mass of short notes, all very congratulatory and all very enthusiastic. Some nominate him for President in 1900, and others contribute equally glowing prophecies for the future.

One man writes: "Dewey, you are a peach. I'll stick to you till h—l freezes over, and then I'll stick to you on the ice." Another advises him to keep his health until 1900. A piece of poetry has come from Topcka Capital, which starts out: "Dewey was the morning and Dewey was the man," and follows this brilliant line with others of the same sort. The song, "What Did Dewey Do to Them?" has arrived, and if the music comes, the song ought to have a good run out here in Manila Bay. The other versions, "How Did Dewey Do it?" and "Dewey's Duty Done," have not made their appearance, but they are undoubtedly on the way. A cartoon printed by a San Francisco paper, entitled "Dewey smoke? Yes, Manila," amused the Admiral a good deal. Every mail brings new evidences of the popular enthusiasm that has sprung up in America over him.

What pleased him more than anything else was an account of how his son received the news of the great victory. Captain Mahan's statement of how the battle of Manila Bay was the most wonderful ever recorded in history was particularly gratifying to him also, coming as it does from such an eminent naval authority.

Through all this bombardment of compliments and congratulations the Admiral has not changed in the least, or in dictate by his manner that the tremendous hit he has made is affecting him other than pleasantly. He said this afternoon that while the battle was going on he didn't feel that he was doing anything wonderful. The most trying time was the night trip past Corregidor, for there was then no way of knowing just where the Spanish were or how they would strike. On the morning of May 1, when he could see the Spanish, he felt cheerful and pleasant. The work of leading his ships in and cleaning out everything in sight was a detail which at the time did not seem so impressive.

The Wiser Way.

"How fresh and rosy you look, Nora," exclaimed Isabel, who had just returned from the beach, and was greeting her friend.
"Yes, dear," replied Nora. "I am feeling splendidly, and mamma says I have an alarming appetite."
"Where in the world have you been since I saw you?"
"I have remained at home," replied Nora, "and have worked hard every day. But I have been taking that wonderful medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it has done me, oh, so much good. You see I always like to feel well when I go away, and I leave for the mountains next week."

In the rush and hurry to attain the ends and aims of this life, we should not be unmindful of the greater interests of the life to come.

Who will be the nominee is unknown, but we know of none more suited for the position than Wm. M. Bond—one of the brightest lawyers in North Carolina. K.
About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. BLOGGS, Stumpton, Gilmer Co., W. Va. For sale by W. W. Two Ways of Buying Seeds.

One way is to wait until sowing time, pick up such seeds your local dealer happens to have in stock, and then take the consequences. The other way is to decide early what your need will be, and then provide for them sensibly; it isn't sensible to buy SEEDS haphazard, as you can some things, for all the operations of farm or garden depends upon the qualities of the seeds their purity and vigor. It is foolish to take risks unnecessarily.

Before long you will be wanting many kinds of seeds for summer planting; DON'T WAIT UNTIL YOU ARE READY TO SOW when you think of getting the seeds. Why not write to us in good time and get seeds worth your planting, high grade, thoroughbred seeds?

We will like especially to supply your turnip seeds this season, no matter how much or how little you may need. 50 cent per pound delivered at your home.
