HON. F. M. SIMMONS.

Few men are endowed by the gift of nature with the blended attributes which form the character of a leader. Men are constituted for different vocations of life. Much depends upon success or failure, by adhering to or not, the natural inclination of nature's gift. The great motive power—Executive ability—vitality and energy, surmounts obstacles, though mountain high and sweeps from its pathway as though some flimsy material, and the onward march progresses, with an intrepid tread, to the consummation of the object in view. When all the characteristics are blended in one person, in formation of the character of a leader, we have before us the picture of a noble and grand being. His Napoleonic course wins admiration and his magnetism attracts every eye. Every sphere of life calls for a leader. The Divine Being, from the earliest dawn of creation, down to the present time, has raised up men for people to lean upon their genius and judgment, to carve out their destiny and deliverance from besetting evils. The Democrat party chose Hon. F. M. Simmons to lead the mighty hosts of white supremacy, in the recent campaign, to re-establish the Anglo Saxon domination. His executive ability, his aggressiveness, gave birth at once to consternation and dismay in the ranks of the political foe. His clarion notes sounded o'er the mountains of the west, o'er the hills of central N. C. and then swept over the majestic waters of the east, to where the whitecapped breakers of the broad Atlantic lashed angrily the sandy shores of Currituck; and from there the reverberation went back—the glad some sound—the Anglo-Saxon race are united—to victory or death. This great political hero, the central figure of a united democracy, armed with Anglo-Saxon manhood, and the scepter of power, wielded in the hands of white womanhood, nerved him to action, and with undaunted courage, he assailed the political foes that confronted him, with the solid phalanx of white supremacy, he routed them and in utter confusion they fled to their haunts, there to repine in defeat. To the invincible leader—Hon. F. M. Simmons, your countrymen owe you a debt of gratitude and from the hearts of white womanhood ascends the prayer, that your noble life may be lengthened through many years to enjoy with them the fruits of your patriotic and manly labors.

We congratulate our county chairman, Mr. T. B. Wilson, for his skillful management and untiring efforts in rallying the white man's party, in the late campaign. His organization was perfect, so much so that he could almost give figures of the result, anterior to the battle of ballots. He is particularly complimented for the manner in which he called the convention. Its conception fitted exactly the political conditions of the day, which was so much at variance with the Fusion method. It's contra distinction aided materially to the grand success of the party and it won the admiration of every one. He was not hampered with factional strife or with the shadow of personal aggrandizement which were one of the main levers of success. Along the entire line of 1436 white voters, in the county we are joined in heaping up on his judicious head a shower of Ecomiums.

Those pugilistic negro Divines in Brooklyn, fight racial battles at long range and manifest great bravado in avenging imaginary brutality to their race in North Carolina. They, however, contract their optical nerves when the scene of negro massacre by miners looms up before their vision in the great Western state of Illinois; the only offense being, they asked the right to work, which was denied them by a Republican Governor. But when under negro regime, law and order were strangers to the municipal authorities of Wilmington, N. C., and it became intolerable to law abiding citizens, which culminated in riot and bloodshed, which were most to blame, Illinois or North Carolina?

Lets have a short range response to the question.
Late to bed and early to rise, prepares a man for his home in the skies, but early to bed and a little Early Riser, the pill that makes life longer and better and wiser. Griggs & Son.

For the Wilmington citizens we have no words of censure. Their conditions were deplorable and they knew best.
