ARP TO THE FARMER.

Bill Says He Must Be Shifty if He Would be Prosperous.

Not long ago a one horse farmer from the back woods came to our town with two bales of cotton and sold it for five cents a pound. This was his entire crop, and he was complaining bitterly to one of our merchants and said that the farmers would perish to death in another year if there wasn't some change for the better. A mischievous drummer, standing by, said: "Well, my friend, you must quit raising cotton or else buy some monkeys to pick it out. Over in India and Egypt they make the monkeys pick their cotton, and that's what's the matter. A monkey will pick a thousand pounds a day and he feeds on the seed. So it costs hardly anything over there to raise cotton, and our farmers in Mississippi and Texas have sent for a hundred thousand monkeys, and they will be over here in time to pick the next crop, and the price will go low still, and if you don't get a monkey or two, you had better quit raising cotton, for you can't compete with monkeys." The old man took it all in seriously and said: "Well, what is a poor farmer to do if he hasn't got the money to buy the monkeys?"

"Grow something else," said the drummer. "Grow corn and wheat and sorghum and potatoes. Plant apple and peach trees, raise chickens and eggs, and a yearling calf or two to sell. Get up soon and stir around lively and make every member of your family work. Work at something, for if you don't you will perish out. Go home and take a new start. Don't sit down and grumble and blame somebody else for your poverty. Quit cotton until you can buy half a dozen monkeys." The man went back home and circulated the monkey story, and for ten miles around the one horse farmer has sworn off from raising any more cotton. That's what they tell me. They say that before the war the poor man couldn't compete with the rich man's nigger, and now since he has lost his niggers he is buying monkeys to take their places, and the poor man won't have any chance at all.

Of course there is no truth in this story, but there is a good deal of philosophy. New methods, new plows and new machinery are the monkeys, and if the poor farmer does not work early and late he will keep poor. I know some country women who make more money on their chickens and eggs and butter than their husbands do on their cotton and wheat. Little things well nursed count up more than big ones. The thrifty farmer all ways brings with him something to sell when he comes to town. Some fowls, or eggs or potatoes or a shote or some fruit in its season. There is a good home market for all these little things. In fact, if we leave out cotton everything the farmer grows brings about the same old prices of ten years ago, and everything he has to buy except coffee is much cheaper now than it was then. Everything that is made of cotton is 50 per cent cheaper and everything that is made of iron or steel or tin is 100 per cent cheaper. Beef and pork and chickens and turkeys and wood and potatoes and apples and peaches have not come down a nickel in ten years. Labor is a little cheaper, not much. We still pay the same for cooking and washing and work in the garden. If anybody has a reason of complaining of hard times it is the town people who have everything to buy. The farmer who is not in debt and owns his farm is better off than he ever was and the prudent renter can pay rent and make money farming.

But of course there is a large class of shiftless unthrifty people who will not succeed at anything, and they blame everybody for it but themselves. Cobe says that the Lord had to make poor folks to keep rich folks in money, and so Cobe is content in being poor, for it is the Lord's will. I know folks who have never planted a fruit tree and who will not even plant a garden. Poverty makes some folks shifty and others indifferent and despairing. There is an old negro woman comes to our house every Saturday and brings us a gallon of big hominy—old fashioned lye hominy, and it is a luxury. We pay her 15 cents for it and she has seven other customers. One peck of corn that costs her 10 cents makes four pecks of hominy, for which she gets $1.20, and that makes her a good living.

I read in the last "Home and Farm" about a successful experiment in growing ginseng, and if I was a farmer I would try it. This was in Kentucky, where a man planted it in a well shaded forest of beech and dogwood and gum trees, and it grew both from the seed and the roots that he planted and gave him a good crop. Its market price is $4 a pound. I know that it could be grown in this mountainous region, among the foothills. I know a good farmer who makes money growing turkeys for their seed, and he sells all his crop to Peter Henderson, of New York, and Peter sells it back to us at 500 per cent profit. Any smart, industrious woman could make money right here by growing roses and hot-house plants. Our people send off lots of money for such things and some of them are no account when they get here.

Nobody around here has ever raised any asparagus to sell, but they buy it in Atlanta at 25 cents a bunch and bring it home, or they buy it canned from the grocer at 35 cents. A man in Marietta grows it by the acres for the Atlanta market and makes big money. Why not grow it here? Shifty is the right word—we must be shifty if we would keep up with the progress of the times. Wit and wisdom are very noble qualities, but necessity is the mother of invention and contrivance. We must get out of the old ruts and learn of our northern brethren. New England girls sit around the fire every night and plait straw for hats and bonnets and baskets and chair bottoms, and they have a good time talking about their neighbors and neighborhood news. Why shouldn't our girls learn photography and have a gallery in every town? It is a beautiful art and peculiarly fitted for women—pretty young women who can talk their patrons into a pleasing expression and can pose the little children and arrange the young man's necktie so nicely. If I was a poor, smart, pretty girl and no man wanted me that I wanted, I would take some lessons in photography and open a shop. I thought that the girls were crowding the young men out of a good many places, for they are smart and quick and don't drink or smoke, and I am amazed and indignant to read that 200 of them have been turned out of employment, by a great railroad company in Chicago. I don't understand that. I hope Mrs. Lowe will investigate it.

Maria Teresa's Effects Sold.

A special from Nassau, N. P., says:—

Materials taken from the wrecked cruiser Infanta Maria Teresa were sold at public auction on January 19. They did not bring as good prices as expected, few articles being suitable as souvenirs. Most of the stuff sold was ship stores and ordinary materials. The two flags would have brought high prices, but the consul withdrew them from sale by orders from the Department at Washington.

Frank Sherwood was down town today, the first time since he had his tussle with cholera morbus. He says he drove thirty miles after he was taken, and never came so near dying in his life. After this when he goes out in the country he will take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him.—Missouri Valley (Iowa) Times. For sale by Griggs & Son.

Whole Family Perish.

During the recent snow-storm in Colorado, the family of Wm. Rudolph, at Apex, were buried under tons of ice and snow. It is said by old settlers that it was a record breaking snowstorm.

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure, A. J. Shepard, publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Eldon, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Griggs & Son.

DIED IN THE FLAMES.

TWO AGED LADIES PERISH IN THEIR BURNING HOME.

Their Charred Skeletons Found in the Ruins

Durham, N. C., Jan. 30.—At an early hour this morning an ex-Register of Deeds W. H. Wood's place about four miles from Durham, Misses Nancy and Polly Carden, two aged maiden ladies, were burned to death in their home. A negro by the name of Luke Riggsbee, while on his way to work shortly before sunrise, discovered the house to be on fire and gave the alarm. He went at once to the scene, and upon arriving there found the west end of the roof falling in. It was impossible to enter the burning building on account of the flame and smoke. In the ashes of the burned dwelling were found two charred skeletons, those of the ladies mentioned above. One of these, which is supposed to be that of Miss Polly, was found at a point immediately between where two beds stood. The other one, supposed to be that of Miss Nancy, was found at a point that would have been very near the middle of the floor. The two ladies, who were 81 and 65 years of age respectively, had lived on Mr. Wood's place for about twenty years. Miss Nancy the oldest one, had been sick for sometime. Both were in very reduced circumstances, and but for assistance of friends, could not have kept soul and body together. Nothing is known as to how the fire originated. If they had an enemy in the world nobody knew it. Coroner J. F. Madry has gone out to look into the matter.

ALL OVER THE STATE.

A Summary of Current Events For the Past Seven Days.

John Foreman, who shot Cy Black at Lexington last week, has been released on $1,000 bail.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander, of Warrenton, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ella Lillian, to Mr. John H. Keer, Jr., Wednesday, February 15th, at 12 m.

Mr. Fred Graham Moore, formerly a resident of Charlotte, now a clerk in the War Department, at Washington, has been appointed private secretary to General John R. Brooke, Governor General of Cuba. He will leave to accept his situation at once.

Noah Roberson, a negro man against whom there were ten or twelve warrants for stealing and house-breaking, and who has been the terror of communities through which he passed, was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary Saturday by Judge Brown, at Goldsboro.

A little child of George White was burned on Saturday afternoon at the home of its parents in Durham. While standing in front of an open fire place, its dress caught on fire. Mrs. White succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but painfully burned her hands in doing so. The little one's injuries are not at all fatal, and no danger is to be apprehended.

The south-bound passenger train on the Norfolk and Western railroad, Roanoke and Southern division, ran down and killed John Leslow, of Spray N. C., Saturday night about six miles north of Martinsville. It seems that Leslow was walking on the track and was closely wrapped, head and ears, to protect himself from the snow storm that had been raging all day, hence he did not hear the approaching train.

Coughing injures and inflames sore lungs. One Minute Cough Cure loosens the cold, allays coughing and heals quickly. The best cough cure for children. Griggs & Son.

A Road Bill.

Prof. J. A. Holmes has drawn and presented to the Legislature a road bill which is attracting considerable attention. It allows the tax to be increased; requires all between 18 and 45 to work 5 days or pay $2; allows a county road superintendent under $2,000 bond to be paid not over $50 a month; allows one or more township road supervisors; provides that the county furnish tools. One other provision of the bill is not worthy: whenever the force of road hands number less than ten, the county may alternate with a neighboring county.

The Oyster Law.

Mr. Williams, of Dare, has introduced a bill to repeal the oyster law and abolish the office of chief inspector, and also for a bill to provide for a shell fish commission composed of five members, to be elected by the General Assembly from the oyster counties, with power to lay out the oyster grounds in five districts. It allows dredging, but provides that it cannot be done within two miles of the mainland. If this bill passes it will increase the revenue of the state $3,000 per year, says Mr. Williams.

A Crying Need.

It is both a detriment and a disgrace to the State of North Carolina that a reformatory for youthful criminals has not been established before this. What is best to do with that class of our youth who by evil tendencies or evil associations are growing up as criminals is a question on which all who have studied the matter are not agreed, but we find them all of one mind in one thing, and that is that a hideous wrong is committed when young men are locked up in the same prison and forced to mix with men who have been criminals all their lives.

It is to be hoped that some wise and beneficent legislation will be at once enacted by the General Assembly.

By all means do what you can you gentlemen who are now making our laws, to help those, although fallen may yet be saved.—Rocky Mount Argonaut.

Mr. S. A. Fackler, Editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute cough cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe, and its exhausting after effects. Griggs & Son.

HE CAME BACK.

CLOSE CALL FOR CLARK.

How He Knew He Wasn't Dead.

Thomas H. Grisham, President of the board of managers of the Dodge City Soldiers' Home, told a reporter of the Journal last week a story about an old soldier named John Clark, who came near being buried alive. He had been ill a long time with typhoid fever, and lapsed into a comatose state and was pronounced dead. Burial robes were placed upon him and he was tenderly placed in a casket to await interment on the following day. During the night he regained consciousness and rose up in his narrow prison. He upset the coffin and was sent sprawling on the floor. In consternation one attendant rushed into the room and retreated, declaring he had seen a ghost. Then other attendants came. Stimulants were quickly applied, the limbs and body of Clark rubbed with alcohol. He soon opened his eyes. After careful attention and nursing he recovered entirely, and today tells the story of his narrow escape from being buried alive.

Mr. Grisham has talked with Clark about his strange experience.

"Tell me," said Grisham to Clark one day since the dead man came to life, "how did you feel when you died and how did you first know you were alive?"

"When I appeared to myself," said Clark, "to be dying, the experience was a very pleasant one, I seemed to be entirely free from trouble and to be passing into a new realm. When I began to recover consciousness I found myself in what seemed to be a coffin, but I at once knew that I was not dead because my feet were cold and I was hungry."

"I don't understand what you mean," said Grisham.

"I knew," replied Clark, "that if I were in Heaven I would not be hungry, and if I were in hell my feet would not be cold."—Topeka Journal.

WILMINGTON AROUSED.

The pulse of feeling in Wilmington again beats quick and hot with the fever of excitement. The bill introduced by the Hon. George Rountree, the member of the House of that city, amendment of the City Charter, was the cause of the outburst of feeling as manifested in the mass meeting of citizens held on the 17th inst. A dispatch says: "The spacious Court room was crowded to suffocation with Wilmington's representative citizens, who gathered to take action in regard to the new charter introduced in the General Assembly a few days ago by Representative Rountree. The amended charter embraced in Mr. Rountree's bill was drafted by a committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, and while expressing the views of two hundred business men it has not met the approval of the balance of the citizens. Mrs. W. E. Springer presided at the meeting. Stirring speeches were made by several prominent men. A set of resolutions was drawn up and adopted, protesting against Mr. Rountree's bill and setting forth as the sense of the meeting that the people should vote for their choice for mayor, chief of police, city clerk and chief of fire department as the primaries, and expressing strong disapproval of the police commission provided by Mr. Rountree's bill. The resolutions set forth also that the citizens must in future govern this city, and not ring politicians.

On motion, a committee of ten citizens—two from each of the five wards—was appointed to draft a charter along the line of the resolutions, which will be submitted to the citizens in mass meeting, and after approval be forwarded to Raleigh for introduction in the General Assembly.

"The meeting was an enthusiastic and harmonious gathering, and displayed plainly the intention of the citizens generally to have good government. There has been considerable feeling for some time against the Chamber of Commerce for having the amendment charter introduced in the Assembly before submitting it to the citizens."

A Fleahy Consumptive

Did you ever see one? Did you ever hear of one? Most certainly not. Consumption is a disease that invariably causes loss of flesh.

If you are light in weight, even if your cough is only a slight one, you should certainly take of cod liver oil with hypophosphites. No remedy is such a perfect preventive to consumption. Just the moment your throat begins to weaken and you find you are losing flesh, you should begin to take it.

And no other remedy has cured so many cases of consumption. Unless you are far advanced with this disease, Scott's Emulsion will hold every inducement to you for a perfect cure.

The snow it stole upon us like a thief in the night, when we awoke on Saturday morning all things looked pure and white but a'las like Jona's gourd it did not come to stay but merley wished to show itself and then to melt away.

It commenced snowing here Friday night and on Saturday we had a regular old fashioned snow storm and had it lasted many days, there would have been much suffering among the poorer classes who were not prepared for it. The month of January came in and ended with snow for on Tuesday night we had quite a little snow storm here.

Mr. Joseph West of Northwest, was in Moyock Wednesday the guest of his brother Mr. W. H. West.
