The Lake Drummond Canal Opened.

The Lake Drummond Canal and Water Company wish to give notice that the Old Dismal Swamp Canal route between Norfolk and Elizabeth City is now open for business—and the tug boat will leave every other day except Sunday, commencing August 28th, making trips as follows: Leaves Norfolk Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Returning, leaves Elizabeth City, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

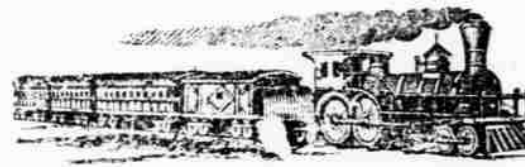

The Canal Company insures nine feet of water at present time between the locks, and in a few weeks they will have ten feet of water in the canal. The Company has dredged fifteen feet in depth for a distance of three thousand feet below the locks in Deep Creek. They have also made deep water between South Mill's locks, in the waters of the Pasquotank river. The Canal Company has dredged the Old Turner Cut to the depth of ten feet at low water. Thus far the Canal Company can insure a sufficient depth of water.

The Canal Company would not at present guarantee a safe passage between Norfolk and Elizabeth City for boats drawing more than seven and a half feet of water—as the Pasquotank has one shoal place, and Deep Creek at low water has not more than seven and a half feet at the present time.

The government has appropriated money to deepen and widen Deep Creek and also to deepen and straighten the waters of the Pasquotank river. This work is to commence at once. The Company in the meantime intend to improve and widen the canal, and in the near future the Canal Company believe that they will have a canal and waterway between the points named that cannot be excelled in this country.

DR. SANDERLIN IS DEAD.

Distinguished North Carolinian Died in Baltimore.

BURIED IN RALEIGH.

Deceased Formerly State Auditor and Came Near Being Governor.

Dr. George W. Sanderlin, for many years a prominent figure in the religious and public life of North Carolina, died Monday morning at 5 o'clock at a sanitarium in Baltimore, where he has been under treatment for more than a year.

His remains were taken to Raleigh, N. C., and interred in Oakwood cemetery.

During his early life he devoted himself to the ministry, and he was among the foremost pulpit orators in the Baptist denomination. Declining health forced him to give up his chosen labor. After returning to his farm in Wayne county he was honored by the people of his State, who elected him Auditor of the State in 1888. In 1892 he came near receiving the nomination for Governor on the Democratic ticket. He made a brilliant campaign, and was afterwards appointed auditor in the department of the interior by President Cleveland. After his retirement in 1896 from this position Dr. Sanderlin's health began to fail. He continued his residence in Washington until the time of his death.

The deceased was one of the State's most honored citizens. He was brilliant in intellect, cultured, modest and brave. He was held in warm affection by the people of his State.

George W. Sanderlin, LL. D., was born in Camden county, February, 1843. His father was Maxey Sanderlin, Esq., of Scottish descent, a highly respected and honored planter. Dr. Sanderlin was one of thirteen children, his mother being Martha Sanderson, of Currituck county. After attending the schools in Elizabeth City Dr. Sanderlin entered Wake Forest College, which he left in August, 1861, to enter the Confederate army. However, after the war he was recognized as a graduate of the college and given a diploma crediting him in the class of 1862. Dr. Sanderlin enlisted as a private in Company E, Thirty-third Regiment, North Carolina Volunteers, under Col. C. M. Avery. He was rapidly promoted and soon became captain. On several occasions he commanded the regiment. For gallantry at New Bern he was promoted to third lieutenant.

On the third day of the battle of Gettysburg Lieutenant Sanderlin led his company in a charge on the enemy's breastworks. For this he was made captain. Captain Sanderlin participated in many important battles. Among others were New Bern, Hanover Court House, Seven Days Fight around Richmond, Cedar Run, Warrenton Springs, Second Bull Run, Second Manassas, Chantilly, Harper's Ferry, Sharpsburg, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Wilderness, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Hagers-town, Falling Waters, Snicker's Gap, Mine Run, Spotsylvania Court House, Petersburg, Fusesel's Mill, Burgess' Mill, Bedford and Hare's Hill. He commanded 300 sharpshooters at Petersburg, repelling with this force 3,000 Federal troops at Jones' Farm. At Appomattox Captain Sanderlin was with his regiment fighting when General Custer rode up and announced the surrender of General Lee.

Captain Sanderlin was at the side of General Maxey Gegg, of South Carolina, when he fell at Fredericksburg, and he was also in a few steps of Gen. L. O. B. Branch and Stonewall Jackson when those gallant heroes fell. Mr. Sanderlin was three times wounded. He served four years participated in forty battles, was never taken prisoner, was given one brief furlough, and missed scarcely a skirmish, fight or march in which the Army of Northern Virginia participated. General Hoke has said of Captain Sanderlin: "I know his war record thoroughly. I know that he was always present for duty."

At the close of the war Captain Sanderlin settled in Elizabeth City, but feeling called to the ministry he entered the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Greenville, S. C., and graduated with honor in 1877. During his academical and collegiate course he graduated in seven languages, and as a classical and scientific scholar he had a wide reputation. After leaving the seminary he did general Sabbath School work for one year in North Carolina. In 1868 he was ordained to preach in Wake Forest chapel. Subsequently he assumed charge of the church at Goldsboro, but resigned after three years to make a tour of Egypt and Palestine with Dr. John A. Broadus, who was waiting in Rome, but missing the steamer Dr. Sanderlin had to abandon the trip. About this time, while in Baltimore, he preached in Franklin Square Baptist church with such power that when Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawthorne resigned Dr. Sanderlin was unanimously called. He entered upon his charge in 1871, and resigned in 1876, his arduous work having so undermined his health that he was compelled to retire from the active ministry.

Dr. Sanderlin then settled at Goldsboro and turned his attention to agriculture and writing for various publications on agricultural lines. He became widely known throughout the State, and in 1888 he accepted the nomination for State Auditor from the Democratic party. He won a great reputation as an able, effective speaker and campaigner, and in January, 1889, entered upon his duties as State Auditor. The deceased was a prominent candidate for the nomination for Governor in 1892 when Governor Elias Carr was named. He participated brilliantly in the campaign, and in 1893 was appointed by President Cleveland fourth Auditor of the Treasury. Dr. Sanderlin then removed to Washington, where he has since resided. He resigned his position in the Treasury Department after the inauguration of President McKinley, but he and his family continued to make Washington their home.

The deceased was a man of the highest sense of honor and as sympathetic and tender as a woman. He was always deeply interested in church work and in education. He was vice-president of the Baptist State Convention and a trustee of Wake Forest College. The degree of LL. D. was conferred on him by both Wake Forest and Judson Colleges. He was also an Odd Fellow and a member of the Knights of Pythias.

Dr. Sanderlin married Miss Eliza W. Wooten, daughter of Colonel Wooten of Lenoir county, and they had six children, four of whom are living. He has numerous relatives throughout the State. He leaves a wife and four daughters, Misses Feulah, Georgia, Pattie and Rosalie.

CONFESSES ARSON, PAYS UP.

Adam Keener, Converted at Revival, Restores Money.

York, Pa., November 3.—Adam Keener, of this city, paid to-day to a local insurance company $705.11 as "conscience money."

Keener, who is 31 years old, confessed at a revival in Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church last night that he had set fire to a cigar box factory which he owned in order that he might collect the amount of the insurance. This sum, which was $705.11, he afterward got from the insurance company. Keener professed conversion at the revival and his confession followed.

When he made his confession he stood in the church swaying from side to side. He described how he fired the building and how afterward, seized with remorse, he went out into a field and prayed and sang, seeking relief. Not finding it, he thought of suicide and actually made an attempt to end his life by hanging, but his courage oozed out as the rope began to choke, and then he returned to the solace of repentance and ultimate confession.

Vengeance of a Divorced Wife.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 7.—August Wischman, a well-known saloon keeper, and his wife, Rose, who were married a week ago, were dangerously shot and wounded early to-day by Mrs. Leona J. Lay from whom Wischman was divorced five years ago. As the Wischmans passed a street corner, their assailant stepped from the shadow of a building and fired two shots, one of the bullets entering Wischman's left breast above the heart and the other penetrating the right breast of his wife. As her two victims fell the would-be murderer fled, but she was captured later by the police.

At the hospital it was found that Wischman was fatally injured. Mrs. Lay declares that she was prompted to the act by jealousy.

A HUMAN HOUND.

About a year ago a young lady in the eastern part of the county put a mortgage on her land to furnish a young man she was engaged to marry $125 to go to school on. A short time afterwards he wrote to her for more money. She did not send it, and the fellow notified her that their contract was off. Yesterday the land was sold by the mortgagee to collect his note.—Newton Enterprise.
