The Fisherman & Farmer is now the official paper of Pasquotank and Camden counties, the commissioners of the two counties having awarded us with the county printing on Monday.

It is with sadness that we announce the death of Mr. Chas. Wood, which occurred Wednesday morning at his home about five miles from town. In the death of Mr. Wood the county loses one of its best and most promising young men.

During the fire which occurred Wednesday Deputy Sheriff Chas. Reid came near being killed. He was standing near the hose which was being unreeled and was struck with one end of same on which was a heavy brass coupling, striking Mr. Reid with such force that one rib was crushed and his body badly bruised.

Cecil Spires, the little boy who delivers telegrams for the Telegraph Company at this place, came near being drowned Wednesday morning. He had a message for a party at Robinson's Oyster house on the other side of the river. In attempting to get into a boat he jumped overboard. The little fellow made an effort to swim but could not succeed. He went down twice and was caught by a colored man just as his head was disappearing the third time. He was taken out unconscious and placed under the care of Doctors Ayldred and C. J. Sawyer who, with much difficulty, succeeded in restoring the little fellow to consciousness.

We hear there is to be four more marriages this winter for a certainty. How about it boys?

On Sunday at noon Mr. William Knowles and Mrs. Victoria Newberry were united in the bonds of holy matrimony at the Scuppernon Methodist Episcopal church by Mr. William Bodwell assisted by Rev. W. D. Moses, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The interior of the church edifice was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and evergreens. Miss Aline Owens filled the role of maid of honor and Mr. Montroville Walker acted as best man. The other attendants were Miss Ordie Woodley of Skinnerville, escorted by Mr. Walter Owens. The wedding party reached the church promptly at the hour announced and proceeded up the aisle in the following order: The bride, accompanied by the bridegroom, preceded by the four waiters, two abreast, while the wedding march was being most skillfully rendered by Miss Bertie Owens, organist of the church, on arriving in front of the altar the bride and groom standing under an arch of evergreen, were met by Mr. Bodwell, who joined them together in a most impressive manner. The ceremony was over, the bridal party retired from the church and after congratulations were driven to the residence of the groom's together with a large member of invited friends of the bride and groom where an elegant collation was served and Mrs. Roughton who acted as hostess, ever alert for the comfort of her guests, made every-one feel at home, and the celibates wish that their time might soon arrive.
