tinued Admiral Dewey, "that I took no offense at the sentiment contained in the editorial in Monday's Eagle. I was really not angry at the publication of the article, and do not object to it at all."

The editorial in the Brooklyn Eagle of April 2d, to which Admiral Dewey refers, says in part:

"Not what kind of candidate, but what sort of President Admiral Dewey might make, is an inquiry that raises cruelty to him and calamity to the country to the mind, at least as possibilities, when the dilemma or desperation of those who are for him is taken into philosophical account. He might make a fine President. That is a chance. He might make a very weak or ineffective one. * * * There remain other facts. He is not wanted for President for Presidential reasons. He is not wanted for reason of abilities, but of availabilities. He is not wanted for political reasons of a high sort, but for political and personal reasons of a.

Many telegrams have come to him to-day. particularly from the South and some also from the far West, endorsing his course and stating that he will receive the support of the signers in the campaign which he will make. The Admiral was in excellent humor and talked interestingly of a number of things in connection with his proposed candidacy, though concerning most questions asked him he requested that nothing be said at this time, as in due time he would make a statement to the public missing

Much comment has been indulged in to-day by the public as to which of the great political parties the Admiral will ally himself with, and from whom he expects to receive the nomination for the Presidency. The questions bearing on this subject he declared that he prefers not to make any statement at this time. The War Office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated Bloemfontein, April 1st: "I received news late yesterday afternoon from Colonel Broadwood, who was at

Thaba N'Chu, thirty-eight miles east of here, that information had reached him that the enemy was approaching in two forces, from the north and the east. He stated if the report proved true he would retire towards the water works, seventeen miles nearer Bloemfontein, where we had a detachment of mounted infantry for the protection of the works. "Broadwood was told in reply that the Ninth Division, with Martyr's Mounted Infantry, will march at daylight to-day to support him, and that if he considers it necessary he should retire from the water works. He moved there during the night and bivouacked. At dawn to-day he was shelled by the enemy, who attacked on | a day's march from here. three sides. He immediately dispatched two horse artillery batteries and his baggage towards Bloemfontein, covering some of them with his cavalry. "Some two miles from the water works the road crosses a deep nullah, or spruit, in which, during the night, a force of Boers had concealed themselves. So well were they hidden that our leading scouts passed over the drift without discovering them, and it was not until the wagons and guns were entering the drift that the Boers showed themselves and opened fire. Many of the drivers of the artillery horses were Immediately shot down at short range and several of the guns were captured. The remainder galloped away, covered by Roberts' Horse, which suffered heavily. "Meanwhile Lieutenant Chestermasters, of Rimington's Scouts, found a passage across the spruit unoccupied by the enemy, by which the remainder of Broadwood's force crossed. They re-formed with great steadiness, notwithstanding all that had previously Northern railway station, at 3:35, when occurred.
