dent Walker Hill said: I think that all the members of this association will agree with me that a variable standard of value is to be deplored and avoided if possible, though we may not agree as to what would constitute such a standard and how it could be best avoided. Furthermore, few dispute the proposition that gold is the most unvarying money standard, though some contend that it is not the only or best standard to be had. Mr. "greenbacks" from legislative destruction, and that he will then consider whether they should ever be paid, and " 12:40, p.m gold as the only standard money of 6:55 p.m I am always in favor of improvement, but I do not believe that everything so called is properly named. Since our last meeting a stepthough not as long a one as I had hoped for-has been taken toward fixing gold in the monetary scheme of this of Congress approved March 14, 1900. It authorizes an increase in the national bank circulation, and leaves undisturband it should, therefore, not offend, though it may not satisfy, the monetary expansionist. This action leaves the standard silver dollar a legal tender to any amount in payment of all debts, public and private, except where otherwise expressly stipulated by contract.

It provides that nothing in it shall be construed to affect the legal tender qualities "as now provided by law. of the silver dollar, or of any other money coined or issued by the United States." Therefore, all private contraots merely providing for the pay-ment of silver dollars, Sherman certificates, and greenbacks; that is, it has not affected the standard of private contracts. It has, however, provided that something over $839,000,000 out of about $1,026,000,000 of Government bonds bearing 3, 4 and 5 per cent. interest, and payable in "coin," may be refunded into 2 per cent. gold bonds. That is, to be assured of gold in payment of the interest and principal of these bonds, they must be readjusted, as it were, into 2 per cent. obligations on a 16 to 1 or 50 per cent. basis, as you may say, so far as interest is concerned. In other words, the act deolares that "coin" in the bonds referred to shall mean "gold," if the holder will accept in exchange for his present 3, 4 and 5 per cent. bends, others bearing, on the average, less than half the intorest he is now receiving, and if he will not accept such readjusted bonds he may still be paid, both as to princileve I will speak my mind on one or ateral? Well, my friends, its meaning needs to be enlarged. "It usually means, in all of our American cities, the securities that are isted on the stock exchange, and uness a man can present to the great trust companies, savings banks and national banks, those so-called 'listed' recurities, he is unable to borrow from them. Who lists these securities? The sompany of men who do this are themselves usually large holders of these isted securities and are, therefore, litle inclined to enlarge the limits of this avored circle. You may have lands and houses and cattle, manufacturing plants, municipal bonds, and a hundred kinds of property whose interest-earning capacity is assured, yet you cannot iap with ever so small a pipe these great reservoirs. Even the small country banks themselves cannot provide the right sort of collateral and so reliscount their notes. "A better system ought to prevail, a man is not discontented with our American system because it will not lend its money on worthless and precarlous risks; he is not discontented because you refuse to go into speculations of a doubtful issue, but he is discontented because so many men with insome-bringing property cannot always be accommodated with a loan upon it; not these call loans which will allow you on a moment's notice to dump the securities of the market whenever panicky tremor runs through the street but time loans, when a man can prepare to meet them, both principal and interest, and pay back the money that he has borrowed. A better system should be devised either through branch banks or bureaus of information or a closer union and inspection should be made among the different banks of the different States so that a surplus in one could help to make up a deficit in another. City methods can never be applied to country ways." The annual reports of the president, the secretary and the treasurer were then read, and just before the hour of adjournment were also read the reports on "Education," "Uniform Laws" and "Fidelity Insurance." An informal report was made on express company taxation and the report of the detective committee was submitted and all of them were briefly discussed. To-night the visiting bankers were riven a reception at the Jefferson Hotel, and at 10:30 o'clock sat down to an elegant banquet.

The crowd coming up soon discovered the negro sitting on a limb. He was brought down at once and taken to the scene of his crime. There he was confronted by his victim, who positively identified him. Word was sent to the other searching partles that the negro had been found, and about 11 o'clock a crowd of several hundred were in the little village. The negro was then taken to the edge of the village and surrounded by the mob, shivoring with fear. The preparations for death were quickly arranged.
